The Answer Is Yes. Religion Dead? Not Yet. Russia and Ford's Family. The Civilized Jungle.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

IS BUSINESS improving, after the "gamblers' scare" that disturbed Wall Street?

Answer, YES.

On a trip from California to New York recently, the atmosphere was cheerful all the way.

In the Hart, Schaffner and Marx main office in Chicago, M. W. Cresap, talks to customers himself, discussing business conditions with Arthur Phillips, vice president of the M. M. Cohn Company, Little Rock, Arkansas.

Mr. Phillips was ordering plenty of goods.

Mr Cresap said business temporarily disturbed in September, was recovering all over the country, from his home town, Rochester, Minn., all the way to Seattle on one side of the continent, to Key West, Florida, on the other.

His business reaches every community in the United States.

IN NEW YORK, J. L. Laun, of S. W. Straus & Co., said "Demands for good real estate bonds are more active than they have been in a long time. We are in the market for high-grade loans, and plenty of them."

BISHOP MANNING agrees with the Pope's suggestion that Christians all over the world should pray for Russia and especially for kinder treatment by the Russian government of the Christian churches.

The Episcopal Church of America will pray earnestly in accordance with the Pope's suggestion.

RUSSIA'S government shows no signs of having been softened or having been influenced by prayer. Yesterday in Chita, Siberia, ten thousand Bolshevik workmen paraded in the streets with anti-religious banners. Soviet authorities closed every church, synagogue and shrine in Chita. All of them will be converted into schools and "cultural" institutions.

Chita held a torchlight procession to celebrate "the death of religion."

They will find, however, that religion will outlast their torchlight procession and the Russian government by many thousands of years.

"If there had not been a God it would have been necessary to invent one" is one of the best things Voltaire ever said, and absolutely true.

MEANWHILE, business men in Europe and those that are intelligent in the United States are not worrying about Russia's treatment of religion. They are too much worried about other things. They discover to their horror that Russia is already beginning to undersell other countries in the world's markets. "Success in socialization drives would permit Soviet to undersell capitalists" is a collection of words that doesn't please the capitalists.

ENGLAND, France, Germany are worried about the competition in the nation in which everything goes to the working people, or to the government, no provision being made for MILLION or BILLION fortunes for private individuals.

THE Russian government is something like the Henry Ford family. The small Ford car earns enough to feed Henry Ford and Mrs. Ford and Edsel Ford and the grandchildren. That's all that is necessary.

No stockholders, crying for dividends, are able to criticize the results.

IN THE long run, of course, Russia will not set up any industrial working man's Utopia. Theories are good, but human selfishness is powerful.

A MAN of power will come along, as he did in the person of Napoleon after the French revolution, and reestablish a reign of selfishness and individual effort.

That's the best system that men have found so far. They may change from selfish competition to altruistic emulation later, but that's a long way off.

IF YOU find one wild animal torn to pieces by another, in the forest or the jungle, you don't ask questions. They are wild animals and actually they kill each other.

When the police find one wild human being torn or beaten by others in the jungle that we call "a great civilized city," they are not surprised.

New York, competing with Chicago in gang killings, found James Tinerello in a Brooklyn snowdrift yesterday, bullets in his forehead, one in his stomach. An ex-convict and gangster, the police said, he had been "taken for a ride." After they killed him, his brother gangsters piled snow on his body. They rarely take so much trouble.

WHILE New York collects its [illegible] that have had their ride, Chicago continues accumulating the gang element in prison. Four thousand of them have been put in jail thus far. Some of the most distinguished killers are said to be leaving town. They never supposed the citizens would take murder so seriously.

The interesting question is "where are they going?" Los Angeles notifies them not to come to Southern California.

GAS PROVED POISONOUS BY TEST

Wilkinsburg Family Had Close Call, Chemist's Analysis Shows; Motive Mystery

The "mystery gas," forced into the home of a Wilkinsburg family by an unidentified person last Tuesday, was analyzed today as a deadly poison, capable of causing quick death.

County Chemist F. C. Buckmaster described the mixture which threatened Mr. and Mrs. Townsend Millis and their two sons, of 7720 Tuscarora street, as hydro-cyanic acid gas.

FORCED IN BY HOSE

The fumes from two jugs of the gas entered the Millis home. Holes had been cut through the kitchen door and a window sash in the dining room. Two lines of hose attached to the jugs were inserted through the holes.

Mrs. Millis detected the odor when she arose last Wednesday and awakened the family.

The identity of the person who tried to poison the Millis family remains a mystery.

MOTIVE MYSTERY

Mr. Millis could advance no reason for the apparent plot to wipe out his family.

Despite the gas' deadliness, Theodore Seidenstricker, county evidence custodian, inhaled the mixture without ill effect.

However, Mr. Buckmaster explained that much of the strength of the gas had been dissipated by that time.

MOORE'S BODY WILL REST IN TOMB HERE

Arrangements Made to Bury Ambassador and Publisher Beside Famous Wife

Funeral services for Alexander P. Moore, U. S. ambassador to Poland, will be held in Moreland's funeral home, North Highland avenue and Rippey street, Sunday at 3 p. m., it was announced today following word that the body would arrive from California late Saturday. His death occurred late yesterday in a hospital at Los Angeles.

He will be laid to rest in the marble mausoleum in Allegheny Cemetery with his wife, the former Lillian Russell.

FUNERAL SERVICES

The funeral services will be conducted by the Rev. Edward S. Travers, former rector of Trinity Episcopal Church here, now chaplain at the military academy at West Point. He will be assisted by the Rev. Dr. William A. Jones, assistant pastor of the First Presbyterian Church, and the Rev. Dr. A. E. Fletcher, former pastor of the First Methodist Protestant Church, South Side. The three clergymen are all close personal friends of Ambassador Moore.

The honorary pallbearers will include many prominent men in the business and official life of the nation. Postmaster General Walter Brown and Secretary of Labor James J. Davis have arranged to attend the services. The active pallbearers will be veteran employes of the Pittsburgh Leader.

DIED OF TUBERCULOSIS

Ambassador Moore died shortly after noon yesterday at the California hospital where he waged a losing battle against tuberculosis. The tubercular infection became steadily worse until Sunday when physicians gave up hope of his recovery. Mr. Moore became delirious and then lapsed into a coma yesterday, when bronchial pneumonia developed.

With Mr. Moore when he died were two cousins, Miriam Culbert-

HOOVER LACKS MAJORITY TO RUSH TARIFF

President Informed Coalition Holds Power; Bill Delay Called Snag to Business

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—President Hoover, after a week of quiet contemplation in fishing off the Florida coast, has asked for a speeding up of the legislative machinery of the government, especially as it affects the tariff bill, and has been told by his party leader that the nominal Republican majority in the Senate is "at the mercy of the coalition."

The coalition is that group of Democrats and Republican independents who have been busy for weeks in paring down rates in the Hawley-Smoot bill, already passed by the House but which has been so changed in the long Senate consideration that it would hardly be recognized by its authors.

BUSINESS DISTURBED

The President, feeling that business leaders were disturbed by the delay in enacting some sort of a tariff bill, and that other legislation was being held up, made it his task upon his return to the capital to summon Senate and House leaders to an intimate breakfast conference today so that the situation might be threshed out.

He was told that what could be done would be done. But he also was advised that there probably could be no tariff legislation until about March 10. Senator Watson, of Indiana, the Republican leader, frankly informed the President that the "coalition" was in charge of matters affecting such legislation.

SEE FUND CRISIS

Hoover also pointed out to his guests that unless the jam in the Senate can be cleared sufficiently for it to pass some appropriation bills within the next month, the

COOLIDGES IN MOVIELAND

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—Former President and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge today were at home to a distinguished group of Californians of the business and public service worlds after their arrival here for a visit to Southern California.

At Hollywood, when the Coolidge schedule allows for a visit to the film studios, an old friend will be on hand to greet them. He is Antonio Moreno, dark-haired film star.

When Mr. and Mrs. Coolidge were living at Northampton, Mass., before he was Governor of Massachusetts, "Tony" Moreno, a young Latin, used to read their gas meters.

"I am sure Tony has done very well," Coolidge said when informed of Moreno's success by William Gardner, a former Northampton neighbor living here.

Mrs. Coolidge smiled as she recalled Tony's career. He was adopted into a Northampton family at the age of 5.

KLINE URGED TO BAN CABS AS STRIFE RESUMES

Armstrong, Babcock Make Appeal to Halt Service While Mediation Continues

BULLETIN.

Five men in an automobile, carrying tear gas bombs and maces, were arrested at O'Hara street and Bigelow boulevard today and lodged in Oakland Police Station. Four of the men gave their addresses as Yellow and Green Cab Company garages and a fifth as Altoona, Pa. Police believe the men were cruising on a lookout for rioters attacking cab crews.

A Green cab was stoned at Sixth street and Penn avenues this afternoon while the streets were thronged with shoppers. No one was hurt.

Stoning of cabs was renewed downtown today as efforts to end the drivers' strike were continued and Mayor Charles H. Kline was urged to order taxis from the streets.

These developments were reported:

1—Three Yellow cabs were stoned in Bigelow boulevard, near the Pennsylvania Station and windows of one car shattered. Several other cabs were reported attacked at other points in the downtown district.

2—Passenger and driver narrowly escaped death or serious injury when heavy pieces of metal were hurled through cab window in Smithfield street.

3—County Commissioners Joseph G. Armstrong and E. V. Babcock urged Mayor to order cabs from streets until order is restored.

4—Strikers' committee of 14 held a secret meeting, after which Chairman Paul Toole was reported in conference with company officials. Toole also conferred with Sheriff Robert S. Cain.

5—Citizens' committee, headed by State Senator Harris, continued study of strike with announced intention of "putting an end to deplorable condition."

6—Judge Richard W. Martin postponed sentencing three men adjudged in contempt for violating the court's injunction against violence, in order that the court's action might not jeopardize prospect of peace in the strike.

ATTACKS ON BOULEVARD

Strike sympathizers from the hillside above Bigelow boulevard, opposite the Pennsylvania Station, stoned three Yellow cabs en route from downtown to East Liberty, breaking windshield and windows in the lead car. The cabs continued out the boulevard. The other cabs were stoned downtown

HORST KILLING ACCUSER TURNS

WOOSTER, O., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Earl Conald, railroad brakeman, today repudiated his signed statement made several days ago accusing Charles Hanna of killing Melvin Horst, 4, the day the boy disappeared 14 months ago from his Orrville (O.) home.

Officers still held Conald in the county jail here, however, while they investigated a third statement by Charles Hanna, made last night, that Conald killed the boy, buried the body in Hanna's backyard in Orrville, and then two days later reburied it in Sugar Creek Valley a short distance from the town. Hanna also still was held in jail.

Both had stated that Melvin was killed in a private garage in Orrville where Conald kept his auto, but each accused the other. Hanna claimed to know where the body was buried, and he accused Conald of burying it.

Federal Agent Who Fired As Car Fenders Scraped Faces Charge of Assault

KNOXVILLE, Ia., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Two investigations into the shooting of Miss Nellie Church, nurse, by Charles Hindley, federal prohibition agent, nine days ago, are under way.

The Marion County grand jury questioned principals in the case in a lengthy session here and was expected to announce its decision Friday. Meanwhile, Carl F. Dewey, chief inspector of the special intelligence unit of the Federal Prohibition Department, was in Des Moines to institute another investigation.

Miss Church was shot while riding with Miss Rita Huff, another nurse; Willard Wolford and Paul K. Patton, the latter two of Des Moines. The shooting followed a scraping of fenders of Wolford's car with that of the prohibition agents, Hindley and Roy Moon.

SCOUT PATROLS LEAD BOY HUNT

Blawnox Boy Scouts today scoured the surrounding hills and woods for traces of their two missing high school mates, John Cable, 14, and Orland Keigley, 15.

The scouts were dismissed from classes to go up and down the river searching the many boys' camps. Preliminary reports to Scoutmaster Clair Williamson showed no success.

The scouts' search was made following pleas from the families of the boys. The police do not believe that the boys were taken away forcibly.

The boys disappeared yesterday noon and did not attend afternoon classes. John Cable lives in Freeport road and the Keigley home is in Fountain street, Blawnox.

His place in the funeral services was taken by the Rt. Rev. Joseph H. Albes, bishop coadjutor of Cincinnati.

Ileana Engagement Break May Be Told as Tour Ends

BUCHAREST, Rumania, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—There is general expectation that an announcement will be made annulling the engagement of Princess Ileana to young Count Alexander of Hochberg, after Queen Marie and her daughter return from their oriental tour.

Nothing is available in official quarters, but in aristocratic circles it was heard that the engagement had been made too hurriedly with insufficient investigation of the Hochberg antecedents. It was regarded as an unwise step.

Strictest secrecy was maintained in royal circles concerning the engagement question and nothing was permitted to leak out.

Queen Marie and her daughter will leave Thursday for Palestine and Egypt, where it is believed they will remain longer than originally planned in consequence of the break. The newspapers today unanimously stressed the coldness between Princess Ileana and young Hochberg when the count departed for London.

COMMITTEE STRIKES SNAG ON AMENDING JONES DRY LAW

COURT SHIFT BILL ALSO DEFERRED

Proposals Referred to Full Committee; Witnesses Called by Anti-Drys

International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Striking a snag in its attempt to harmonize the Jones "five and ten" law with the Wicker sham law enforcement commission's prohibition court reform measures, the Christopherson House Judiciary Subcommittee today decided to refer proposals for rewriting the entire Jones Act to the full committee.

At the same time the sub-committee deferred action on the "juryless trial" proposal of the commission to clothe United States commissioners with power to hear minor prohibition cases.

Further investigation of the court commission bill will be made because of contentions it would not cut congestion in the courts, Representative Christopherson said. He asserted that the sub-committee was satisfied of its constitutionality.

Two lesser measures, permitting service by publication in padlock cases and giving state officers the right to make arrests for federal dry law violations, were not reached for consideration.

Bankers, lawyers, physicians and writers will be among the "big guns" the anti-prohibitionists will send before the House Judiciary Committee tomorrow when it resumes hearings on bills to repeal or modify the Eighteenth Amendment.

Henry B. Joy of Detroit, ex-president of the Packard Motor Car Company, Pierre S. DuPont, Wilmington, capitalist, Gen. W. W. Atterbury, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad, Col. Grayson, M. P. Murphy, broker, and Robert K. Cassatt, Philadelphia banker, head the list of representatives of "big business." Irenee and Lamont DuPont also may appear.

Dr. Samuel Harden Church, of Pittsburgh, president of the Carnegie Institute, heads another group of witnesses.

ZINC ORE TARIFF RAISE VOTED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—The Senate today approved an increase in the present tariff on zinc-bearing ores.

Without a record vote, approval was given to an amendment by Senator Patterson (Rep.), Missouri, to levy a flat rate of 1½ cents a pound on the zinc content of all ores except pyrites containing not more than 3 per cent of zinc.

Following up their successes in slashing existing aluminum tariffs, the Democrats earlier put through additional reductions, winning first a lower rate for aluminum foil, and then succeeded in eliminating a provision under which metal household utensils are given an additional 10 per cent rate over the normal utensil duty if the articles contain electrical heating elements.

Miami Hotel Bar Ordered Closed

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Judge Halsted L. Ritter, of United States District Court, dismissed a temporary injunction against Mrs. Ora B. Wofford and her son, John O. Wofford, restraining the Wofford Hotel, at Miami Beach, from the sale of intoxicating liquors, and issued a permanent injunction against the basement of the hotel and the lessees of that portion of it in which a bar is alleged to have been conducted.

The temporary injunction was issued by Judge Ritter in October, 1929. Three weeks ago deputy sheriffs raided the basement.

Continuance Allowed In Tom Mix Tax Suit

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—A continuance has been granted Tom Mix, cowboy film actor, charged with defrauding the government of $100,000 in his income tax returns for 1925, 1926, and 1927, United States Attorney Samuel W. McNabb announced last night. The continuance, McNabb said, followed negotiations by the actor for a compromise settlement. All criminal proceedings necessarily will be held up.

government is going to find itself "broke" by the middle of March.

Legislative co-operation is particularly desirous at this time, he pointed out, because the government has recently embarked upon some emergency building projects as a part of the expansion program following the stock market collapse, and unless there is money in the treasury to meet current bills it may be found necessary to lay off from 10,000 to 20,000 men now working on these projects.

The House has passed most of the big appropriation bills but, owing to the tariff jam in the Senate, none of them has been finally enacted.

House leaders have been rather open in expressing themselves about the Senate's attitude toward speed in tariff legislation. Today Representative Tilson, the Republican leader, blamed the Senate for "creating uncertainty that is hampering business and interfering with the economic progress of the country."

LONGWORTH ATTENDS

Tilson, with Watson, Speaker Longworth, Chairman Hawley, of the House Ways and Means Committee; Chairman Snell, of the House Rules Committee; Chairman Smoot, of the Senate Finance Committee; Senator McNary, of Oregon, and Walter Newton, one of the President's secretaries, attended the breakfast.

Mackey Runs Out on Hotel Raid Protest

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—Mayor Harry A. Mackey rushed to Harrisburg on a hurried "mystery trip" today, spoiling plans of the Philadelphia Hotelmen's Association to hold a protest meeting in his office against the liquor raid conducted on the Benjamin Franklin Hotel Sunday without warrants by 30 policemen at the orders of Director of Public Safety L. B. Sachofield. It was reported that Mackey went for a conference on politics.

Mrs. Willebrandt Arrested For Speeding

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Mrs. Mabel Walker Willebrandt, former assistant attorney general in charge of prohibition prosecutions, was charged with speeding here and will face trial in the Washington police court Friday. She was arrested three days ago.

Mrs. Willebrandt was to have gone to trial yesterday, and papers had been made out against her by Chester Gray, assistant corporation counsel. She pleaded a previous engagement, however, and Judge Ralph Given agreed to a postponement.

W. P. Hopkins, the policeman who made the arrest, said he followed Mrs. Willebrandt several blocks while she was going at a rate of 38 miles an hour.

John McCormack's Daughter in Hospital

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Miss Gwendolyn McCormack, daughter of John McCormack, the singer, was operated on yesterday for appendicitis at the Harbor Sanitarium. Physicians there today said she was resting comfortably. Miss McCormack arrived in New York last week with her parents from California, where Mr. McCormack had been making a motion picture.

Bremen Bringing Writer, Screen Star

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—H. L. Mencken, author and editor, Richard Barthelmess, screen star, and Gerard Swope, vice president of the General Electric Company of New York, will return today from visits abroad. They will be among the 1,729 passengers on the liner Bremen.

POWER LOBBY'S COSTS BARED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Criticising methods of utilities companies and F. E. Bonner, executive secretary of the Federal Power Commission, Charles A. Russell, commission solicitor, testified today before the Senate Interstate Commerce Committee that he had been directed to tell William V. King, commission accountant, to "lay off the power companies" at a meeting in which Bonner participated.

The committee solicitor said that utilities companies included "lobby fees" as actual contruction cost in accounts presented to the commission.

He added that such an item of $140,000 on the books of the Byllesby Company was included in their estimate of investments. Russell also asserted that he knew of another application for a license that included an item of $700,000 in investment statements when that figure represented "lobby costs and I don't know what else."

Russell said that Bonner, "determines what is to be kept secret."

Declaring that he was personally opposed to the policy, Russell said: "I think every government bureau in the United States ought to be open to everyone."

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—A bill providing payment of $5,000 to the heirs of Fermin Tobera, 22-year-old Filipino, killed in a race riot at Watsonville, Cal., January 22, was introduced in the House today by Representative Sabath (Dem.), of Illinois.

TAXI ATTACKS DOWNTOWN RESUMED

Armstrong and Babcock Urge Kline to Put Ban on Cabs While Mediation Continues

and windows broken, according to drivers and guards who took the machines to the Yellow Cag Garage. The men escaped uninjured.

Hope for a settlement of the strike before the end of the week today prompted Judge Martin to postpone sentence until Friday on three men arrested for violating the injunction restraining persons from interferring with the operations of the cabs, he said today.

The three men adjudged in contempt of the court order are C. French, 81 Magee street, and Louis Briskey, Progress street, drivers, and Joseph De Rocco, Edmond street, a sympathizer.

HUGE MISSLE HURLED

An attack downtown a few minutes before cabs were withdrawn at midnight, brought several squads of motorcycle police to the William Penn Hotel, where theater crowds quickly gathered as driver and passenger related their experiences. A huge piece of lead, weighing almost 10 pounds, police were told, was hurled through the cab window as it proceeded along Smithfield street from the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Station.

The passenger gave his name to police as J. W. Brown, of Zanesville, O., but that name was not registered at the hotel when inquiries were made later. The driver gave his name as J. J. Shuback and the deputy sheriff riding with him said he was Roy Clinger. The cab was No. 366.

URGE BAN ON CABS

The suggestion to Mayor Kline that he place a ban on the operation of taxicabs came from County Commissioners Armstrong and Babcock and was given, according to Armstrong, to aid in protecting lives and preventing claims against the county for property damages caused by the contending forces.

Both Babcock and Armstrong during terms as mayor of the city encountered street car strikes, it was pointed out. Armstrong said he prevailed upon the street car company to suspend operation until the dispute was settled. Babcock pointed out that he also urged suspension of operations until the differences between company officials and employes had been ironed out.

Hughes, Jr., Not to Run for Governor

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—Charles E. Hughes, Jr., son of the new chief justice of the United States, will not be a candidate for governor of New York, it was learned today. He had been urged to seek the Republican nomination, but said to have asked his friends to abandon his boom.

Vice Writer Beset By 'Protectors Of Good Rum'

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—A flood of mail has followed charges of Walter W. Liggett, magazine writer, before the House Judiciary Committee in its dry repeal hearings.

The desk of Representative Graham (Rep.), of Pennsylvania, committee chairman, was piled high today with letters. Most of them were from citizens who announced they were ready to give testimony that liquor is plentiful in the original bone dry state of Kansas, and in Minnesota, where Andrew J. Volstead, author of the national prohibition act, is an enforcement aide.

One Minnesotan took offense at Liggett's statement there "is not a decent speakeasy in Minneapolis."

"I can show you a lot of speakeasies just as respectable as any in the country," this indignant correspondent asserted.

EXPERTS LAUD CANCER STUDY

By GOBIND BEHARI LAL, Universal Service.

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—"A Godsend for humanity!"—"The most important research for cancer!"—

Thus was the cancer research of Drs. Walter Coffey and John D. Humber acclaimed by Doctors Granville MacGowan, the chairman, and George H. Kres, the toastmaster, at the annual banquet of the staff of the California Hospital.

Eight hundred leading doctors of Southern California were present.

Drs. Coffey and Humber and Mrs. Coffey and Mrs. Humber were the guests of honor and the speakers for the dinner.

A new and important feature of the program was an address and a microscopic demonstration in support of the Coffey-Humber theory, presented by Dr. A. M. Moody, head of the laboratories of the St. Francis Hospital in San Francisco.

Moody had brought into the banquet hall six strong microscopes through which his eloquent slides of dead cancer cells bore testimony to the killing power of the extract.

Dr. Coffey, in his address, hit several high spots about the latest view of his research on cancer.

"Hundreds of patients have been receiving our treatments recently," he said. "It is too early yet to make any definite affirmations that would satisfy professional colleagues. But when we see case after case in which the extract reduces or abolishes suffering and softens the hard lumps of malignant tumors—it is impossible to evade the tentative conclusion that we have the hormone that plays the crucial part in the stability of the system."

Weather Conditions.

High pressure is centered over the Atlantic Coast states, and covers most of the country east of the Mississippi River, while a marked low pressure area is centered over Alberta. Lowest barometer reported is 29.32 inches, at Edmonton. This distribution of pressure is causing southerly winds over much the greater portion of the country, resulting in mild temperatures everywhere. There is considerable cloudiness over the northern half of the country, and light snowing rain or light snow is reported over the Ohio Valley states and the lake region. Mild temperatures will continue for several days.

River Conditions.

The rivers are stationary. Stage at Franklin is 5.0 feet. Lock No. 12 is at Pittsburgh, 13.3. Dam No. 4, 9.9. Dam No. 6, 8.5. Dam No. 9, 8.6, and Dam No. 12, 8.6. The dams are up. There is much ice in the Allegheny River. Ice ranges from three to seven inches thick, except over riffles, where the river is clear of ice. There is no indication of the breaking out at present, but mild weather or a moderately heavy rain may cause more or less serious flood conditions in that river.

Auto Victim Enters 65th Day of Coma

ASHLAND, Wis., Feb. 18.—(INS.)—An unidentified man entered his sixty-fifth day of coma in a hospital here today after being found on a roadside with a broken leg.

Mystified physicians said the man has spoken only two words, "yes" and "no" since admitted to the hospital. The man is apparently the victim of an automobile accident.

PREMIERSHIP DECLINED BY POINCARE

Doumergue Told to Entrust New Ministry to Tardieu; Arms Conference Delayed

By FREDERIC K. ABBOTT, International News Service.

PARIS, Feb. 18.—In an effort to end the governmental crisis in France, brought about by overthrow of the cabinet of Andre Tardieu, President Gaston Doumergue summoned ex-Premier Raymond Poincare to the Elysee Palace this afternoon.

The veteran statesmen conferred for almost an hour. While no official statement was issued, it is understood President Doumergue offered the post of premier to M. Poincare.

The latter, according to authentic information, declined to accept, owing to the state of his health. Instead, he suggested to the President that M. Tardieu again be entrusted with the task of forming a new ministry. This would mean merely a reshuffling of the cabinet in such a manner as to insure a majority in the Chamber of Deputies.

Tardieu, who is ill with grip, was reportaed improved today.

MacDonald, Stimson, Grandi Confer on Italy's Position

LONDON, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Held up in their negotiations with the French by the overthrow of the Tardieu government in the Chamber of Deputies yesterday, Prime Minister MacDonald, Secretary Stimson and Foreign Minister Grandi, of Italy, had a conference today regarding the Italian position.

It was understood the Italian foreign minister fully explained the contents of an Italian memorandum which will be issued shortly by Italy's delegation.

In that note Italy, it was indicated, will reaffirm her original viewpoint—a desire to see the conference limit naval armaments to the lowest possible degree, but with Italy maintaining the right to possess naval forces equal in tonnage with any other continental power.

2 DRIVERS HELD IN AUTO DEATHS

Coroner's juries today held Michael Hoskovic, 25, of 1729 Eckert street, and Eugene Sutton, 19, of 302 Paulson avenue, for the grand jury on charges of manslaughter.

Hoskovic was held in connection with the death of Julia Demchak, 45, of 10 Spruce street, who was struck by an automobile, which he is said to have been driving, on Preble avenue on January 5.

Sutton was held in connection with the death of Joseph Dodson, Jr., 20, of 346 Clearfield street, Dodson was in a machine driven by Sutton on January 12 when it collided at the intersection of Frankstown and Coe[illegible] roads with a car driven by [illegible] Marsh, of 1828 Viruth street.

Vatican Paving Way For Mussolini Visit

VATICAN CITY, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Pope Pius today gave a private audience to Luigi Federzoni, president of the Senate, an audience which revived talk that it might be connected with a proposal to give Italian cardinal archbishops seats in the upper house.

It was the first time that any Pontiff had accorded an audience to the president of the Senate.

The audience also was taken as an indication that President Grulata, of the Chamber of Deputies, would likely be received shortly as a prelude to the expected visit of Premier Mussolini.

Three Women, Love Tryst Mixed in Bank Crash

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Three women, love affairs and jealous fights now are involved with the closing of the Peoples State Bank of Maywood, the third woman appearing today when Assistant State's Attorney Markham said Miss Elsie Gordon, 25, a stenographer, confessed forging two $5,000 notes.

Langguth and his cashier, Laverne D. Lindgren are free on bonds and facing grand jury action for alleged embezzlement of $172,800. The banker is said to have given Miss Lindgren $35,000 and two automobiles.

The second girl, who came into the case yesterday, was Florence Campbell, bookkeeper and assistant cashier. It was charged she manipulated books on orders to hide alleged defalcations of Langguth and Miss Lindgren. Miss Campbell denied she had quarreled or fought with Miss Lindgren over the letter's association with Langguth.

A Maywood dentist, Andrew E. Dobson, was expected to be taken before the grand jury to testify about a purported love rendezvous Langguth maintained for Miss Lindgren.

State's Cow With Window In Stomach Dies

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Pennstate Jessie, the cow with a "window" in her stomach, died yesterday.

For the past four years, Jessie had been a walking laboratory. She received wide notice when a permanent fistula was placed in the left side of her rumen, or first stomach. Since then, with the aid of research experts of the Agricultural School of Pennsylvania State College, Jessie has made several important contributions to science.

First it was found that samples of matter taken from her stomach contained vitamin B, although she received feed containing none of the vitamin. Then it was discovered that 90 per cent of the bacteria in the rumen were of a new kind which Prof. M. H. Knutsen named flavobacterium ctarumen.

Prof. R. P. Tittsler was making the most recent study with the aid of Pennstate Jessie. He was studying cellulose fermentation with results that promised to revolutionize existing theories. During one period of the tests, Jessie handicapped the experimenters by swallowing the record sheets.

SOVIET DEFENDS ITS ATHEISM

MOSCOW, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—The official government organ Isvestia today denounced Arthur Henderson, British foreign secretary, for his recent statement in the House of Commons saying that the British government would help combat the anti-religious campaign in the Soviet Union.

The paper described this as a "bold violation of the recently concluded Anglo-Soviet agreement which obliges both sides to refrain from interfering in the affairs of the other."

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—A meeting of protest as an answer to the offering of prayers for the "victims of Russian religious persecution and their oppressors" will be held by the friends of the Soviet Union in Madison Square Garden March 16.

The demonstration was called after Bishop William T. Manning announced a service of prayer at the Cathedral of St. John the Divine would be held March 16 and invited members of other faiths to join in prayers for the "oppressed and oppressors."

William Montgomery Brown, former Episcopal bishop and author of "My Heresy," will be one of the speakers at the Madison Square Garden meeting.

CHARGE BRIBES IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Bribery of public officials from a $1,000,000 fund of the U. S. A. Company, electrical contractors, was charged yesterday by the state's attorney's office in a petition filed in criminal court asking possession of the company's account books.

Assistant State's Attorney John E. Northrup informed the court that he wished the records to use in his investigation of the Chicago sanitary district.

In the petition George E. Chamberlain, president of the U. S. A. Company, who was recently indicted by a Federal grand jury on income tax evasion charges, is charged with purchasing valuable gifts for public officials, including lavish silver service sets, indoor golf outfits costing $1,000, expensive pieces of furniture and movie cameras.

The U. S. A. Company has received considerable work from the sanitary district.

GRANGE CITED IN BANK LOANS

URBANA, Ill., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—That Harold "Red" Grange has paid $25.48 on a $17,000 note held by the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank and C. C. Pyle, his partner in the transcontinental "Bunion Derby," owes $9,634 on an $18,000 loan, was brought out in testimony here.

The figures were given by George R. MacComb, receiver for the bank, who was testifying in the trial of Edwin Filson and Harry McNevin, former officials of the bank, who are charged with having accepted deposits when they knew the bank was insolvent.

As to efforts made toward collection of the debt, he said that executions were issued for Pyle in Sangamon, Madison, McLean and Will counties during the last "Bunion Derby" and that the auto bus in which Pyle was traveling behind the runners was attached in Will county. He added that he did not know of any property belonging to Pyle out of which the balance due could be collected.

EXILED SANDINO AIDES MISSING

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Several members of the staff of Gen. Augustino Sandino, Nicaraguan rebel leader living in exile in Mexico, are reported to be missing, and the general's supporters believe they are being held by Mexican military authorities.

Capt. Jose De Paredes, of Mexican nationality, has been missing for two days, and Esteban Pavlotitch, a Peruvian, for three days. Gen. Sandino's secretary, Agustin Marti, was reported to be detained last week for having uttered disparaging remarks about President Ortiz Rubio.

The general and his staff came to Mexico several months ago from Nicaragua. The general has not been molested.

CANADIAN HOTEL FIRE KILLS 5

MANIWAKI, Que., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Five persons were burned to death and an unknown number injured today as fire destroyed the Galarineau Hotel and two adjacent buildings.

Efforts definitely to fix the number of casualties were made difficult when the injured were carried to scattered houses as they were rescued.

The fire broke out at 4:30 a. m. and soon had converted the hotel into a roaring inferno.

'Angel of Broadway' Divorced by Husband

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—A divorce granted to J. Harold Sommers has ended his romance with the former Rheba Crawford, one-time New York Salvation Army captain, whom he met and married here during the real estate activity in 1921. Mrs. Sommers now is engaged in religious work at San Mateo, Cal., and has been living apart from her husband for more than two years. At one time she was known as the "Angel of Broadway."

Shrine Nobles Set For Denver Session

DENVER, Col., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Nobles of the Ancient Arabic Order of the Mystic Shrine from the four corners of the Western Hemisphere, gathered in Denver today for the twelfth annual convention of the Shrine Directors' Association of North America.

It is expected that more than 1,000 members of the shrine with their families, representing all of the states, Canada, Mexico and Hawaii, will be in the city for the opening session tomorrow.

Man Badly Hurt In Crossing Crash

Mrs. Talbott Loses Gem Fortune Again

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—The winter home of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Talbott, Jr., at Miami, Fla., has been robbed of jewelry valued at $10,000, friends of the couple here learned today. Mrs. Talbott is the former Peggy Thayer, of this city.

Twice before Mrs. Talbott lost her gems, once leaving a hand bag containing $20,000 worth of jewelry in a taxicab in New York, which she eventually recovered by paying a reward of $2,000. In September, 1926, thieves looted the Thayer summer home at Mineola, L. I., of jewelry valued at $23,000.

Glenfield Woman, 100, Dies At Home of Her Daughter

Mrs. Barbara Arnold, 100 years old, died today at the home of her daughter, Mrs. A. A. Lutz, Kilbuck road, Glenfield. Until two weeks ago, when she was stricken ill, Mrs. Arnold had taken an active part in the work about her daughter's farm household.

Born in a village in Germany in 1830, she came to this country 61 years ago and had lived with her daughter for 45 years. She was a member of St. Mary's Catholic Church, Glenfield. She leaves three daughters. The funeral will be held from St. Mary's Church Thursday morning at 9 o'clock and burial will be made in St. Mary's Cemetery.

U. S. SHIP GUARD FIGHTS BANDITS

SHANGHAI, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—American naval guards unlimbered their machine guns and silenced a group of bandits yesterday when the latter fired upon two steamers belonging to the Standard Oil Company of New York. The encounter took place on the Yangtze River about 150 miles above Ichang.

News of the encounter, which reached here today, said the number of casualties was not known. The bandits opened fire on the steamers and the naval guards, who had been placed upon the ships to protect them from lawless attacks, went into action.

FAMED BRITISH SINGER DIES

LONDON, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Mme. Louise Kirkby Lunn, one of the greatest British contraltos, died yesterday after a long illness. She sang at the Covent Garden opera house in London, at the Metropolitan opera house in New York and in Budapest, Hungary, and Germany.

She toured America, Australia and New Zealand in concert, and in 1909 created the role of Delilah in French at Covent Garden.

North Awaits Word Of Eielson's Body

NOME, Alaska, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Recovery of the body of Earl Borland, mechanic, from the wreckage of the plane in which he and Carl Ben Eielson plunged to death near North Cape, Siberia, November 9 last, has revived hope that the body of Eielson will be located soon.

Northerners awaited further reports from the trading ship Nanuk, ice-locked near North Cape, serving as a base for searching operations. They believe that either Joe Crosson or Harold Gillan, fliers stationed at the Nanuk, will bring back word of the recovery of Eielson's body.

200 W. Va. Miners Resume in Strike

MOUNDSVILLE, W. Va., Feb. 18.—Approximately 200 miners entered the Glendale and Franklin mines of the Valley Camp Coal Company, closed for three weeks as the result of a strike for higher wages, State troopers were on duty and searchlights were erected for night duty. Pickets patrolled the district, but no trouble was experienced.

FLAMES PERIL NEWPORT AREA

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—The entire business district of this city was threatened today by fire which destroyed the Odd Fellows and the Builders and Mason blocks and spread to the Merchants' Exchange.

Aid was summoned from Fall River, Fort Adams, the Newport training station and Middleton. The whole business section was showered by flaming brands.

Office Boy's Tackle Ruins 'Perfect Crime'

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—Charles C. Brent, 26, detective story writer, whose alleged "perfect crime," a $75,000 jewel theft, was spoiled by an office boy's flying tackle, was to be arraigned here today on a charge of grand larceny. Brent said he arrived here two weeks ago from Cleveland.

Police said Brent attempted to run from the jewelry shop of Benedict Brothers with a tray of diamond rings. John Steer, 18, the Benedict office boy, downed Brent with a flying tackle and clung to him while the diamonds scattered on the floor.

Berlin Police Make Raid on 'Red' Paper

BERLIN, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—A large squad of Berlin police today raided the publication offices of the Rote Fahne, Communist central organ, in a search for subversive documents.

The raid was made in an effort to substantiate charges of high treason and conspiracy raised in the Supreme Court, as a result of the alleged discovery of Communist propaganda among the police.

Wright Memorial Tower Design Approved

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—A design for the memorial to the Wright brothers at Kitty Hawk, N. C., submitted by Robert P. Rodgers and Alfred E. Poor, New York architects, has been approved by the War Department, completing all formalities required by Congress preliminary to construction of the monument.

The Wright Memorial, commemorating the first successful human attempt at power-driven airplane flight, was authorized by Congress in 1927.

The selected design was said by the jury of awards of the American Institute of Architects, to be "not only most original and impressive as seen from land, but also extremely effective as seen from the air."

VARE PETITIONS READY TO GO

Local politicians today were speculating on a report from Florida that circulation of William S. Vare's nominating petitions for his United States Senate candidacy would begin tomorrow in Philadelphia. Vare is expected to return North next week.

Vare's home in St. Lucie, Fla., has been a magnet to attract members of Philadelphia's political "war board" who were reported as having set on having Vare withdraw as a candidate.

So far as can be learned, Vare has given no indication that he would reconsider his decision to enter the primary against Senator Joseph R. Grundy.

Word reaching here from Washington indicates the Pennsylvania congressional delegation, awaiting word from the Florida conferences, believed that County Commissioner and Republican County Chairman Joseph G. Armstrong and Mayor Charles H. Kline would support any slate approved by W. L. Mellon and Senator Grundy.

Graff Sees Fisher; May Be Named Soon

HARRISBURG, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Appearance of Judge J. Frank Graff, of the Armstrong County Common Pleas Court, at the offices of Gov. Fisher today lent weight to reports that Judge Graff is to be appointed judge of the Superior Court, succeeding the late William D. Porter, president judge of the tribunal.

Judge Graff called on the Governor this morning and the two men spent some time in conference. Announcement of his appointment to the judgeship was expected later in the day.

Woman Fined $50 For Beating Teacher

KITTANNING, Pa., Feb. 18.—Mrs. Mary Simpson, of Kissinger's Mills, paid a fine of $50 and costs when arraigned before Justice of the Peace Hockmann, of Clarion, on an assault and battery charge. Mrs. Simpson is alleged to have attacked Miss Mary Phillips, a teacher of the Kissinger Mills school following the punishment of a son of Mrs. Simpson. Miss Phillips sustained a blackened eye.

Silk Bandits Escape With $10,000 Cargo

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 18.—(INS.)—Armed bandits today held up a truck owned by the Atlantic Motor Freight Company, of Philadelphia, kidnaped Edward Olsen, of South Ardmore, Pa., the driver, and took $10,000 worth of silk and woolen goods. Olsen was left locked in the cargo compartment.

Shaw's 'The Apple Cart' Opens in Baltimore

BALTIMORE, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—George Bernard Shaw's dip into the realm of Jules Verne's insight into the future has produced "The Apple Cart," which had its first showing here last night after its world premiere in Warsaw sometime ago, to show the relation between the good old staid monarchy and its mixture with democracy in the year 1960.

Marked by Shavian wit and a great play on words, but departing from the customs of the stage in many ways, "The Apple Cart," Shaw's idea of the government which may so easily be upset by either the ruling monarch or his ministry when he is not clever enough to control it, was brought to America under the auspices and supervision of the Theater Guild of New York.

The action—or rather the time of the play, for there is no action—takes place 30 years hence, and would show the trials of clever old King Magnus, the styles of the era, at least for the men, with their double-breasted, sans lapel coats and the place occupied by England and the United States, ending with the gentle dig of the proposal of the latter to annex the former, and not forgetting for a minute that there still is a debt to the United States, contracted by Great Britain "during that war."

MOORE BURIAL IN PITTSBURGH ARRANGED

son and Ernest S. Stuber, a former associate, [illegible] K. Emge and Miss Marion Davies, actress, at whose ranch the ambassador spent several days [illegible] fatal illness.

Funeral services were arranged for today at a Los Angeles undertaking establishment, with relatives and a few intimate friends of the ambassador in attendance.

Although it was known that Ambassador Moore was ill beyond hope of recovery, the announcement of his death late yesterday cast gloom over his friends in Pittsburgh. Rising to eminence from the humble beginning of a newspaper boy's job distinguished him as one of Pittsburgh's most successful men, ranking him with the steel masters, financiers, scientists and literary men who attained world-wide prominence from obscure beginnings here.

NOTED AS DIPLOMAT

It is just seven years since President Harding announced Moore's appointment as ambassador to Spain, it was recalled today. February 14, 1923, he retired from the Pittsburgh Leader after nearly 40 years in the newspaper business, serving in every position from office boy to publisher. In the seven years of his diplomatic career he had won America good will, first in Spain, and later in the settlement of the South American boundary dispute when he represented the United States as envoy to Peru.

Returning from his labors in Peru, he came to his old home in Pittsburgh last October and said that he expected to remain here and recuperate his health. While resting on a ranch in California he was asked by President Hoover to accept the post of ambassador to Poland. Still hopeful of regaining his health, he acquiesced, and his appointment was confirmed by the Senate January 29, 1930. While preparing to go to Warsaw he was stricken again and sought relief at a desert resort in California, but he sank rapidly and was removed to the Los Angeles hospital where his death occurred.

He was a member of the Methodist Protestant Church, a Shriner and Knights Templar, and belonged to clubs of Pittsburgh, Washington, Atlantic City and New York.

Of the large family of brothers and sisters, Mr. Moore leaves only a sister, Mrs. Sue M. Addy, of 302 Jucunda street, Knoxville. Another sister was Mrs. Annie M. Andrews. His brothers, John P. Moore, former county controller, and George B. Moore, sealer of weights and measures, died several years ago. Judge George V. Moore, of the Allegheny County Court of Common Pleas, is a nephew.

DE RIVERA'S SON DEPORTED

MADRID, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Miguel Primo De Rivera, second son of the former dictator, is the first person to be expelled from Spain by the Berenguer government.

He was ordered deported to France in order, it was officially explained, to prevent him from fighting duels with army officers in Madrid who he said had insulted his father.

Miguel, who is a lieutenant in the reserve corps and about 26 years old, boxed the ears of Gen. Queipo De Llano in a fashionable cafe last week, fought a fist fight with him and challenged him to a duel, for sending an "insulting" letter to the resigned dictator. Because of the difference in rank, Miguel was threatened with disciplinary measures instead of having his challenge accepted.

Yesterday he was placed on the express trains for Irun and Hendaye, Franco-Spanish frontier stations, accompanied by police who were ordered to see him across the border into France.

Primo De Rivera already is in Paris with his two daughters. His eldest son, Jose Antonio, a lawyer, about 27 years old, is under surveillance in Madrid, also to prevent his fighting duels with those attacking his father. It is reported that Jose Antonio also may be deported to France. The ex-dictator's third son is a lieutenant in the aviation corps serving with his unit in Africa.

Movie Reform Bill Facing Long Delay

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—The Hudson bill for creation of a federal commission to supervise the motion picture industry faces long delay in the House with little prospect of action at this session, it was indicated today.

With Congress already in a legislative jam, it is doubtful whether the Judiciary Committee will hold hearings for several weeks.

Reform organizations which drafted the bill, according to Hudson, are prepared to make a strong fight for it.

Detroit Gets 8-Cent Bus and Car Fares

DETROIT, Feb. 18.—(AP)—The street railway commission today voted an equalized and uniform fare of eight cents, with free transfer privileges on both street cars and buses, to become effective March 15. The present fare is six cents on street cars and 10 cents on buses, with a one-cent transfer fee. The street railway system is municipally owned.

Moore's Career Lauded By Coolidge, Alfonso And Friends Here

Expressions of appreciation for Ambassador A. P. Moore poured in today, as the notables of his acquaintance received news of his death.

Former President Coolidge arrived in Los Angeles shortly before Mr. Moore died and had planned to call on him at the hospital.

He was long a personal friend of mine," the former President said. "His constant solicitude for his friends and his abounding good nature endeared him to all those who came in contact with him."

Dispatches from Madrid said Spanish government officials and the press had joined in deploring the death of Mr. Moore. King Alfonso was known to have sent telegrams of regret to the family and to the American government.

"He was a friend of the state and won the lasting affection of his majesty," declared El Debate, a Madrid newspaper.

CAREER PRAISED

Expressions of sorrow were heard among his friends here. He was known to people in every walk of life. Some of these expressions follow:

SENATOR FRANK J. HARRIS—Mr. Moore's success was entirely the result of his energy and persistent effort. He had wonderful versatility and was interested equally in politics, business, sport and the stage. He was fitted for the all-round qualifications required of a diplomat. He was long a friend of the members of my family and we deeply regret the news of his death.

EDGAR J. KAUFMANN—Mr. Moore was a fast friend of my father, Morris Kaufmann, and of Morris Baer, for many years general manager of our store. He knew a lot about merchandising and always insisted on closing our advertising contracts with his paper. In his death I have lost a good friend.

JOHN B. REYNOLDS, manager of the Alvin Theater—Like a good many of the elder newspapermen of Pittsburgh, I knew Alex Moore as a reporter. I worked with him on the Chronicle Telegraph when he did the City Hall and political route in the winter and traveled with the Pittsburgh Baseball Club in the summer. He was plain Alex to us and back in those days not so long ago when Henry Jones Ford was managing editor and "Ed" Sykes was doing the rivers, a prediction that our fellow worker would some day be hobnobbing with kings and queens would have raised a great laugh. When the Johnstown flood occurred one of the first reporters there was young A. P. Moore. Another was young James Francis Burke. In those days were a lot of youngsters who made good. We perhaps did not realize then the value of newspaper training for a career.

HONUS WAGNER—Although I expected it, the news of Alex Moore's death fills me with sorrow. The national game had no greater supporter than he. Baseball was a human thing with him. He traveled for years with the team and not a play missed him. He always had a good word for the players. In later years he never missed a training period of the Pirates at Hot Springs, and was a sign of good luck with which to start off the season.

MRS. MARY FLINN LAWRENCE—I have known Mr. Moore many years and am grieved to learn of his passing. He was closely associated with my father in politics for several years, especially during the days of 1912, when Roosevelt formed the Progressive party. His energy and enthusiasm played a prominent part in those strenuous years. He was a loyal follower of Roosevelt. Personally, I feel a deep sense of gratitude to him for his many kindnesses and invaluable help in the woman's suffrage movement. During the years when we were trying to interest the public in this cause Mr. Moore proved a true friend. He never refused anything we asked of him, and The Pittsburgh Leader, were always ready to help. In fact, The Leader stood out alone as the first paper in Pittsburgh to champion this cause. I shall never forget his courtesy and staunch support when the cause of suffrage was none too popular generally. He stood for the best things in government and his advanced and progressive lines were expressed in most practical ways. He rendered great service to Pittsburgh and in his later years to his country in a larger way. He had a great sense of patriotism in its truest sense and his courage and integrity were admirable. I am glad he had the honor later conferred upon him by the government and regret sincerely his death.

CONGRESSMAN CLYDE KELLY—In claiming Alexander P. Moore death takes one of the most striking personalities in Pennsylvania political history. Publisher of the Pittsburgh Leader, close friend of Theodore Roosevelt, American diplomat, he was always powerful and always lovable.

He was my friend, and his memory will be cherished by me. I knew at first hand his kindly heart and his brilliant mind.

As envoy to Spain and Peru he was never conventional, but he made a real place in the hearts of the people. He typified his nation and his genial presence was mightier than solemn treaties.

GIFFORD PINCHOT—First and most of all, Alec Moore was American. No other nation but that which he served so well could have produced him. No other nation could have appreciated him so justly. We who were his friends have lost a kind and cheerful fellow-pilgrim through this life, and Pittsburgh and the United States a public-spirited citizen who will be long and gratefully remembered.

JAMES RAE, president Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce—The death of Alexander P. Moore removes from our country's life a vigorous and useful citizen who, in an increasing way during these last years, has been rendering splendid service to the cause of good will and better relations between our own country and the countries to which he was accredited in the diplomatic service. While he has been away from Pittsburgh for a number of years, our community and our leaders in business and civic life all clearly recall and recognize the service he rendered while living in our midst and taking an active part in our city's affairs. He was very well known in the councils of our business and civic and political leaders, and he made a distinct contribution to the progressive development of our city during all the years while he was active with us. His Pittsburgh friends were always interested in his cordial and genial and vigorous companionship.

A. E. BRAUN, president Farmers Deposit National Bank—A. P. Moore was one of Pittsburgh's notably successful citizens. He had the courage to express his convictions and whether or not we always agreed with him, the people nevertheless admired his fearlessness. Although his manner was aggressive he made lasting friendships and his passing while yet in the prime of life causes deep regret.

CONGRESSMAN STEPHEN G. PORTER—Pittsburgh and Pennsylvania have lost one of their most illustrious sons and the nation has lost a useful servant. We were close friends from boyhood. Alex was strictly a self-made man, rising to the highest rank in our diplomatic service, where his tact and fair dealing made his efforts among the most successful in recent years.

A. V. SNELL, General Manager of the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce—In the death of Ambassador Alexander P. Moore Pittsburgh has not only lost a citizen of international standing but also one who was always willing to serve Pittsburgh. The community can ill afford to lose a man of the type and character of Mr. Moore.

SUPPORT URGED FOR DRUG BILLS

By KENNETH CLARK,
Universal Service.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—American druggists have been called upon to support enthusiastically the Porter anti-narcotics bills now pending in Congress.

The appeal came from Dr. Frank I. Stone, of Washington, a former president of the National Association of Retail Druggists, and now chairman of the association's committee.

In indorsing the bills, one to create an independent narcotics bureau and the other to withhold narcotic licenses from all persons who are drug addicts, or have been convicted of a narcotic offense, Dr. Stone declared:

All honest and responsible druggists agree wholeheartedly that addicts or convicts should not be allowed to handle narcotic drugs. We recognize what fearful tragedies follow from such practices.

As the Porter bill (license bill) would require the government to issue licenses to all legal registrants except convicts or addicts, I see no reason why the druggists of America should not support it enthusiastically. The present rights and privileges of the druggists are not interfered with under the bill. It does not impose any restrictions on the legal trade in narcotics.

MOORE'S NIECE IN HOSPITAL

WASHINGTON, Pa., Feb. 18.—Mrs. Mildred Andrews Martin, of Pittsburgh, niece of Alexander P. Moore, received word of her uncle's death while a patient in the Hillsview Sanitarium here.

Mrs. Martin, who was hostess of the American embassy when Mr. Moore was ambassador to Spain, said she saw him in New York several months ago, and that plans were made at that time for her to accompany him to Warsaw as hostess when he went to that capital as ambassador to Poland.

Mrs. Church to Sail With Father, Bride

NEWPORT, R. I., Feb. 18.—(AP)—Mrs. Muriel Vanderbilt Church, who has denied that she is contemplating matrimony with a Californian, is going to Europe with her father and his bride. They will leave in his yacht, February 28.

SEEK EVIDENCE AGAINST IRENE

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 18.—(AP)—Attorney Charles J. Margiotti, special representative of the State of Pennsylvania, arrived here yesterday to gather evidence to be used in the prosecution of Mrs. Irene Schroeder and W. Glenn Dague, charged with murder in connection with the slaying of Corp. Brady Paul, of the Pennsylvania Highway Patrol. Paul was shot near New Castle, Pa., December 27.

The woman and Dague, together with Joe F. Wells, alias Vernon Ackerman, were captured in the mountains south of Phoenix following a gun fight with officers. Wells is in the Phoenix jail charged with the murder of Deputy Sheriff Lee Wright, of Chandler, Ariz., who died as the result of wounds received in an alleged encounter with the trio. Dague and the woman were returned to Pennsylvania before Wright died. They also are charged with murder in connection with the death of the Chandler officer.

Margiotti, who was accompanied here by Edward C. Bergman, Pennsylvania state policeman, said the Schroeder-Dague trial would open in New Castle during the first week of March.

Ship Claim Settled After 118 Years Of Red Tape

TORONTO, Ont., Feb. 18.—(AP)—After international arbitration, ancestral exploration and due legal investigation, 118 years of red tape have been untangled.

The Canadian schooner Lord Nelson was seized by the United States 13 days before the official beginning of the War of 1812. Two years ago the United States finally paid to Canada an indemnity of $25,644.

Yesterday 25 heirs of James and William Crooks, owner of the vessel, were awarded $15,546, the amount left after arbitration and legal expenses were deducted. The 25 beneficiaries were selected from 100 claimants.

WORKERS OPEN CHAMBER DRIVE

Spurred by an address by President James Rae, and the desire to reach their goal of 1,000 new members by Friday night, 450 workers in the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce "sales army," this morning began a four-day canvass for sustaining funds for the chamber through Pittsburgh and outlying territory.

In charge of the "sales army" is Frank J. Chesterman. Under him in charge of 10 divisions of 45 workers each are the following colonels: Harry Dangerfield, Louis J. Lind, William S. Miller, L. W. Depuy, Roy Cappe, George E. Whitwell, C. R. Freehafer, J. C. McQuiston and Harry W. Neely.

Besides President Rae, other speakers were: Gen. Chesterman, A. V. Snell, general manager of the chamber; Thomas A. Dunn, vice president, and William B. Rodgers, member of the board of directors, and one of the members of the president's steering committee for the drive.

CHINA reports her northern forces mobilizing to march south against Chiang Kai-Shek. Banditry, piracy, robbery AND STARVATION will be the by-products.

The ancient dinosaur, with a small head and a huge body had, half way down his spine, a second brain, to direct the lower part of the gigantic creature. The small head did not direct at all.

Huge China with more than 400,000,000 people needs another brain somewhere.

COSTLY REVUE LASTS WEEK

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP)—The "9:15 Revue," elaborate and expensive production staged by Mrs. Ruth Selwyn, wife of Edgar Selwyn, the producer, was stored in Cain's theatrical warehouse after seven performances on Broadway.

While the backers of the show, Roger Wolfe Kahn, son of Otto Kahn, financier and art patron, and Howard Hughes, a motion picture executive, totaled their deficit at an estimated $30,000, members of the cast had not yet received their salaries, which aggregated $9,000. An agent of Mrs. Selwyn promised they would be paid before the end of this week.

The "9:15 Revue" was the combined product of many leading figures in the theatrical world. There were sketches by Ring Lardner, Eddie Cantor, Anita Loos and Geoffrey Kerr. There was music by Victor Herbert, George Gershwin, Vincent Youmans and Rudolph Friml.

PROTESTS AUTO TOWING BILL

City Council has received a letter from J. W. Bamford who complains against the present system for handling towing of automobiles which police order removed from the streets. In behalf of a relative, Bamford protests against a bill he has received from a towing concern for work that he says never was done.

According to Bamford, the relative, I. O. Secord, was in an accident on Saw Mill Run boulevard the night of January 25 and his automobile turned over. The accident was reported to Carrick police and the machine left in the ditch until daybreak. The next morning Secord ordered the Jones-Lyne Motor Company to remove the machine but a policeman refused to permit the tow car driver to move it. The officer said the West End Motor Service Company would remove the damaged machine later.

A short time later police allowed the Jones-Lyne Company to tow the car to their garage. Secord believed the matter dropped until he received a bill for $3 from the West End Motor Company for towing his machine.

Three False Alarms Keep Firemen Busy

West Homestead police today were searching for the practical joker, believed to be a motorist who last night turned in three false alarms of fire within 20 minutes. Members of the Volunteer Fire Department, no sooner returned their apparatus to the engine house when they received other calls to widely scattered sections of the town, police said. Several false alarms have been sounded during the last several days, according to a police report.

8-Pc. Dining Room Suites
—in the February Furniture Sale

$165

In our desire and determination to prove beyond question that "You Can Afford Horne Furniture," we have brought together a group of suites for small dining rooms at a February sale price that is not only remarkably low, but which is far, far less than the prices at which these fine suites would regularly sell. The savings offered are much greater than you would expect even in the February Sale.

The number of pieces in each suite is eight: table, buffet, one arm and five side chairs. Just the right size for apartments and small homes with their limited floor space. The number of suites at this price is limited. There are four styles to choose from (one is pictured). All are fashioned of walnut-and-gumwood, beautifully finished.

Two styles show the English influence, one with Carpathian elm decorations. Another is of the 18th century English type, with leaf carvings. Still another is the Hepplewhite period, with figured walnut fronts.

EDISON NEVER THRILLED BY DISCOVERIES

Aged Inventor Says Rubber Experiments Is Hardest Job He Ever Encountered

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN.
International News Service.

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 18.—Thomas A. Edison believes man uses only a very small part of his brain.

He thinks people are "just beginning to suspect" how to live.

He does not know whether human beings exist on other planets.

His formula for happiness is "work."

He believes the standard of living in America will be very much higher eventually.

He has never been "thrilled" by any of his great achievements.

The world-renowned inventor, interviewed exclusively today by International News Service, at his laboratory here, where he is making intensive research work on rubber-producing plants, gave interesting and characteristically Edisonian replies to a barrage of questions asked him.

FINDS HARDEST JOB

"What was the hardest job you ever encountered?" Mr. Edison was asked.

"This rubber experiment job is the most complex proposition I ever struck, and that's the reason I like it," he replied.

He revealed he still is putting in long, hard hours. He said he goes to work in his laboratory at 9 a. m. and frequently works until 6 p. m. Sometimes he works at his house from 7 p. m. until 10 or 11 p. m. He glanced at a cot in his laboratory as he talked. It was tucked under a table filled with all kinds of mysterious looking bottles.

TRIBUTE TO WOMEN

Asked if he thought human beings existed on other planets, he answered that he did not know, saying "I keep myself confined pretty closely to earth."

"Very greatly, enormously," he said when asked to what extent he thought a good wife contributed to the success of her husband in life.

"At what age approximately, should a young man marry?"

"Around 21," replied Edison.

"Should all boys strive for an education?"

"Colleges are changing," said Edison. "They are throwing off the old methods that did not produce well. There is more reality being introduced into the colleges steadily. More technical schools are coming into being. They are getting down to realities and they are the need of a technical education for young men. This is the age of machines."

Prystal* Jewelry

Something New for Fashion Leaders

When designers saw the lovely pastel colors that were possible with this new simulated prystal (which is light in weight for its size), their first creations were exotic long barrel-shaped necklaces to wear with lounging pajamas. Then evolved the shorter lengths and chokers to wear with semi-sports clothes . . . and the same lovely pastel hues join with the pastel dress shades now being shown for spring wear.

They range in price from $3.50 to $22.50.

Black Ensembles

Black has been assumed by the smartest of spring suit-ensembles, for two reasons: First, because black is always the badge of sophistication. And second, because Fashion permits the delightful variation of wearing blouses in soft pink shades and lido blue, as well as white, with black suits.

It's smart to wear a formal black ensemble, now, to an afternoon tea. . . . It's especially smart to wear one from Horne's, of black vio wool crepe, or of shanta or telga which are the new F & H wool crepe weaves.

A tailored ensemble may be of all-black serapheen, or of black-and-white sharkskin cloth or Hyde Park cloth.

Black and black-and-white ensembles for women and misses are especially well represented at two prices—$59.50 and $95.

300 New Petticoat Ensembles

With Bandeau, Step-in and Petticoat

$2.65

A new underfashion, sure to capture the favor of women and girls who are accustomed to wearing bandeau sets, but now that skirts are fuller and longer, feel that a petticoat is necessary. Without adding an extra garment, they may wear a bandeau, step-in and petticoat . . . by choosing this new petticoat ensemble.

The skirt is of crepe de chine with a yoke band at waist and edged with lace. Attached to it is a step-in. A separate bandeau of crepe de chine with lace appliques to match the lace on the skirt completes the ensemble.

These ensembles are available in white, flesh, or peach.

Wear Chiffon

—For Afternoon
—For Dinner

Misses' New Frocks

$25

Chiffon is ideal for occasions during the near-approaching Lenten season, when entertaining is done less lavishly.

Some of these new chiffons may be worn to both afternoon affairs, dinners and concerts. As for example, the short-sleeved one pictured, which comes in black, vivid blue, aquatone or rose-beige. (Note how smart are eight-button gloves worn with it.)

A sleeveless model with yoke of blonde lace, has a cocktail jacket of self fabric to make it wearable in the afternoon.

A long-sleeved bolero model of flowered chiffon, comes in black with dusty pink, black with jade or chartreuse green.

There Is Always Demand For Smart Black Hats

And black hats must be smart and spirited of style or they are likely to look "old," and they must be of fine materials in order to have the desired rich appearance.

Black hats which answer these specifications, are included in a new collection at $15. . . . Suit hats of straws, and of straws with felt brims . . . And afternoon and dinner hats of fine, linen-like straws, shimmering panamalaque, and sheer hair braid.

... Horne's, Fourth Floor ...

The Silhouette Is Determined by the Foundation

No matter how smart the dress, its style is destroyed if the figure shows the slightest tendency to bulge at the waistline or at the hips.

This new princess line garment was designed to give the figure added restraint where figure faults usually appear.

Double-faced satin and French web was the material selected for this comfortable garment. Instead of relying upon boning, the garment was deftly cut to restrain the figure at the waist, the diaphragm and to give an unbroken long line at the hips. The new French bust is made of Bretonne lace.

The model illustrated is specially priced $12.50.

HELD IN ATTACK ON CUSTOMER

Accused of attacking a customer in his confectionery store at 1915 Federal street last night, Angelo Catalano, 50, was arrested and is being held by North Side police pending a hearing today. Police say that he struck William Perisco, 27, of 706 Lippert street, with a baseball bat.

Accounts of what Perisco had taken several chances on a punchboard in Catalano's store and had not won anything. He asked to see the prizes. Catalano is said to have become enraged, locked the door, barricaded the lights and began beating Perisco with the bat. Police who arrested Catalano were unable to find the punchboard, they said.

ASKS CITY PAY CRASH DAMAGE

City Council has been asked to reimburse Howard E. Walters, of McKees Rocks, who was injured and whose automobile was wrecked by a City patrol, he said, while he was en route to a hospital with the victim of another automobile accident. Walters claim mentions a doctor's bill of $50 and lost time and value of the automobile at $550.

The evening of September 25, 1929, Walters was driving in West Carson street when a policeman stopped him and placed an injured man in his car. A policeman stood on the running board of the machine while Walters drove to the hospital, he said. At South Twentieth and Sarah streets the machine was struck by a police patrol, he declared.

MUSIC

Ukrainian Pageant

Y M & W H A

Vasile Avramenko and a large group of folk dancers from the Ukrainian colony of Pittsburgh gave a most inspired pageant of historical and festive dances in the auditorium of the Y. M. & W. H. A. last night. The audience was made up of members of Ukrainian congregations and was a model of loyalty and spontaneity.

There were dances from the pagan era of the Scythians, Ukrainian under the Greeks, symbolic dances and Cossack figures from the steppes. Avramenko gave as solo performances a Cossack dance and a bit of pantomime, "Woe of Israel." He is a better drill master than soloist, judging from last night's dancing; his steps are limited in variety, and his acting is not always true to character.

Svitanka Bole did a nimble Jugo-Slav scene within a game, the Kolo, and speaking of infant prodigies, the three-year-old Joan Hilpan did a vigorous stunt called a flower dance, with perfect rhythm and unusual grace.

The music was in furious tempo throughout these dances, and the native costumes most vivid. This witness once more proved the contention of this column that we should preserve with all diligence the wonder folk art brought to our shores by these one-time peasants. They come from the most colorful regions of the earth and in their present generation are still unashamed of their inheritance of folk customs.

SEWER PLANS UP IN COUNCIL

Council will consider today in Public Works Committee two ordinances for the construction of sewers estimated to cost a total of $6,500.

One measure proposes a sewer costing $5,000 on Westleigh drive and Forward avenue, to extend existing drains.

The second proposes an extension costing $1,500 of the sewer on Ludwick street.

John S. Schepler has asked Council to authorize construction of a sewer on Steuben street, in the vicinity of the Marshall property, before the completion of a sewer now under construction on Steuben street, near Ringgold street.

BABY CHICKENS DIE IN FIRE

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Feb. 18.—Five hundred baby chicks were killed in a fire which gutted the barn of the Agricultural Department at Waynesburg High School. An overheated incubator is believed to have caused the blaze.

Besides the chicks, several football uniforms were also burned as was a car belonging to Harley Swart, director of the Agricultural Department. The home economics building of the high school, a frame structure, was endangered. Loss was estimated at $1,000.

HOW TO DARKEN GRAY HAIR

Makes One Look Younger.

Men and women who used to be called Grandpa and Grandma are now setting the styles by darkening their gray hair at home.

For instance, J. A. McCrea, a well-known Californian, recently made the following statement:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture in five minutes, that will darken gray hair, and make it soft and glossy. Merely take a half-pint of water, add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

"These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at trifling cost. Apply to the hair twice weekly with a comb. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and will not rub off."

QUICK RELIEF FROM CONSTIPATION

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 30 years, and calomel's old time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar coated, olive-colored tablets. They help cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth"—bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you should find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets.

DUKE IN QUEST OF DIVORCE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—The Duke of Manchester, husband of the former Helene Zimmerman, of Cincinnati, arrived yesterday on the liner Mauretania from Havana, where he had gone to arrange for a divorce from the Duchess.

He verified published reports of his intentions in going to Cuba, but said that when he got there he learned that the Duchess already had instituted divorce proceedings in England, so he gave up his original plans. He said he would sail for England on March 7.

"Will you marry again," he was asked, "when the divorce action is completed?"

"Well, rather," he replied, "why not?"

"Have you any announcement as to who the bride may be?" he was asked.

"Oh, nothing to say as yet," came the reply, "a bit early, don't you think?"

Two Men Arrested In Liquor 'Plant'

GROVE CITY, Pa., Feb. 18.—Constable C. W. Brannon and Harry Bell, of Grove City, were held for court by Justice O. B. Irwin on charges of conspiracy and "planting" liquor.

The men were arrested after Chandler Hinds, police said, confessed that they hired him to plant a pint of liquor in the restaurant of Christ Page. It is claimed that the trio then tipped off county officials and they arrested Page for violating the liquor laws.

Grafton Minister To Take New Pulpit

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., Feb. 18.—For the purpose of becoming pastor of the First Baptist Church at Martinsburg, the Rev. John Ward Brown announced his resignation as pastor of the First Baptist Church at Grafton, effective in 30 days.

Although the Grafton church refused to accept the resignation, the Rev. Mr. Brown definitely accepted the Martinsburg call.

A book full of dictation, and she must go home, what can she tell her employer? One more girl who hasn't heard of Midol. In misery at least one day of every month a Midol tablet now banishes such pain in how to seven minutes! Not a mere mask—nothing that has the slightest effect on the natural process peculiar to women. Midol's direct on the organs themselves, and is the painful part—the part that is not natural. You may have tried other things but tried at such a time, but ask about Midol, purse-size metal case is fifty cents.*

*Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

COST DIVISION BILLS STUDIED

Council has received an ordinance authorizing an agreement between the city and the state whereby the city would pay $27,000 for improvements to route No. 330 in the section through the former borough of Overbrook.

Another measure would authorize the city to pay Allegheny County $24,000 for construction work done by the county on the south approaches of the Sixteenth street bridge.

Public Works Director Edward G. Lang has recommended the purchase for $20,000 of the McCann property, St. Ives and Kirkbride streets, as a city storage yard.

Penna. Farmers Go On Sightseeing Trip

For the first time in history, a party of Pennsylvania farmers and farm women are taking a vacation from the work on the farm and are traveling southward for a 10-day excursion to Florida. The party left Philadelphia this morning under the auspices of the Pennsylvania Farmer, a weekly farm paper, published in Pittsburgh.

Traveling in a special train, the party will visit points of interest on both the east and west coasts of Florida. They also will spend two days sightseeing in Havana, Cuba.

'Peeper' Hurls Brick, Hits Girl Calling Aid

PUNXSUTAWNEY, Pa., Feb. 18.—Miss Margaret McLaughlin, of Brookville, was knocked unconscious when a brick was thrown through the window of her home, striking her on the head. The girl said she saw a man peeping in the window and went to the telephone to summon aid. The man threw the brick before she could tell her story.

The operator heard her scream and notified the police, but the man was gone when they arrived.

New Bridge Planned In Lawrence County

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Feb. 18.—County commissioners are having plans prepared for a bridge over Hickory Creek in North Beaver Township. The bridge will span the creek on the Mt. Jackson-Moravia road. It is also planned to change the course of the road East of Mt. Jackson, to eliminate a curve.

Find Mayor's Auto Abandoned in Street

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Feb. 18.—Motorcycle Officer Ralph Criswell found a sedan abandoned on State Street hill, the road leading to Youngstown. Papers found in the car indicated that it belonged to some person in Struthers, O. Inquiry there developed it belonged to T. A. Roberts, the Mayor.

Don't Go to Extremes To End Constipation

When bad breath, or a coated tongue, biliousness or headaches warn of constipation, don't take violent purgatives. There's no use when a candy Cascaret will stop the trouble in a jiffy; will cleanse your system pleasantly, and completely.

The relief you get so promptly from Cascarets is lasting. Cascarets are made from cascara, a substance which medical authorities agree actually strengthens the bowel muscles.

So Cascarets are a blessing to old folks with weakened bowels; to children; to anyone in need of establishing regular bowel habits. Ten cents a box—all drug stores.

Postoffice, Store Destroyed by Fire

Stolen Car Used By Bandits Found

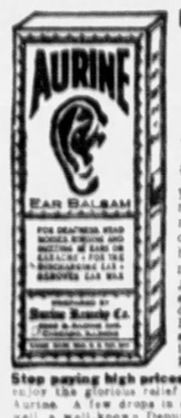
GREENSBURG, Pa., Feb. 18.—Pittsburgh police have notified J. H. Goodwin, Greensburg man, that a car stolen by bandits and used in two holdups there has been recovered. The machine was abandoned, and Goodwin recovered clothing he had left in it.



HERE IS INSTANT RELIEF FOR

Head Noises, Catarrh

ROARING and hissing sounds, discharge, pains, sensitive and tender ears, and catarrh trouble. You will be surprised how quickly Aurine will help you. You may be a chronic long-time sufferer, you may have tried many things without relief, but do not give up hope before you know what Aurine can do for you. Dr. Edward Kolar, M.D., said, "Aurine helped cases I had given up as hopeless. A truly remarkable scientific remedy."

John Meredith of Canada says, "I have suffered from ear trouble for over 40 years. At times I would be stone deaf. I have only used half of your bottle of Aurine and I find it a great relief. All the head noises have gone and I can hear people talking clear. I heard the choir in our church and the organ play for the first time in 3 years. I also heard the minister read the Scripture."

Stop paying high prices for earphones, stop buying expensive treatment and enjoy the glorious relief that more than a half-million others have found in Aurine. A few drops in each ear and relief comes instantly. Mr. R. F. Max well a well known Deputy Sheriff, says, "Just started using my second bottle and am glad to state that I can now hear my watch tick. Today was the first time this summer I heard the church bell ring." No matter how stubborn or what your trouble is, you must try Aurine. No risk, no chance, no doubt. Aurine must do the work or cost you nothing. Our Book "How to Take Care of the Ears" sent free. Address AURINE COMPANY, CHICAGO, ILL.

SAYS! TANLAC WITHOUT EQUAL FOR STOMACH AND LIVER TROUBLES

Nurse Gives Remarkable Endorsement

Tanlac may seem miraculous in its action to millions who ended stomach, liver and kidney troubles as well as rheumatism, pains in the back, sides, joints and muscles from its use—but the truth is every drop of Tanlac is a strong potent medicine while most other remedies are weak and ineffective. Mrs. S. Piccord, a nurse with many years' experience, is one who ought to know. She says, "In 10 years active nursing have found Tanlac without an equal as a remedy for stomach and liver troubles, and I can certainly promise people wonderful results in view of my long experience with this medicine. I had stomach troubles for years, could eat scarcely anything without suffering, never any appetite, always nervous and rundown. But as soon as I began Tanlac it started to build me right up. All stomach troubles were routed and never any pain, distress or gases since. Now I eat everything with perfect safety." Many "patent medicines" make glowing promises that may tempt you to buy them but remember Tanlac is a REAL medicine that backs its claims with a guarantee. Do not accept a substitute. At all druggists.

When the HEIR is very young...

When you have a very young son and heir most every day is wash day; but wash day need not be the bugbear it has been heretofor. What if Junior's rompers are always dirty, and all baby's clothes must be done too...put them in the Whirldry and forget them.

The stubborn spots and ground-in grime need no rubbing...this little machine cleanses them like magic...and more gently than you could yourself. It rinses thoroughly...you know how hard that is ...and spins the clothes around till the heavy drops of moisture are forced out and you can hang everything up for a few minutes before ironing.

And the kitchen doesn't have that Monday morning look...for Whirldry fits in any corner where you might put a wastebasket...all of which counts in the modern kitchen. And its dainty colors will harmonize with your decorations.

Can you really afford to be without this small but efficient helper...especially when it now costs only $49.50? Don't scrub your youth and disposition away...get a Whirldry.

SHIP IN DANGER, CREW MUST GO

FORT CANBY, Wash., Feb. 18 (AP).—Orders to abandon ship went out from the bridge of the grounded Admiral Benson this morning as a heavy southeast wind rode in at dawn, driving before it a rainstorm and heavy seas.

All but five of the crew had left the stricken liner by breeches buoy and the others were to leave within a few hours.

The Admiral Benson, coastal passenger and freight carrier, under command of Capt. Charles Graham, grounded on Peacock Spit outside the mouth of the Columbia River Saturday night in a dense fog. She carried 43 passengers and a crew of 65. The passengers were removed by boats.

Twenty-four members of the crew were removed from the ship this morning by breeches buoy without incident, despite the heavy surf.

CHICAGO WOMAN CRUELLY SLAIN

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 (AP).—In the midst of its drive on crime Chicago today was presented with another brutal murder, the victim a young mother.

The body of Mrs. Agnes Lavander, 35, was found in a lumber yard adjoining the tracks of the Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific Railroad on the northwest side of the city. She had been shot through the head and beaten. Her wounded right hand indicated she had made a futile attempt to defend herself.

Police believed Mrs. Lavander was waylaid by a man while she was on her way to the Forest Glen suburban station early last night. She was to join her husband, Stanley Lavander, a purchasing agent, who waited in the Loop to take her to a theater.

Mrs. Lavander left her 2-year-old daughter in charge of her mother.

London University Accepts U. S. Fund

LONDON, Feb. 18 (AP).—London University has accepted a gift of $214,500 from the Commonwealth Fund of America for the endowment of a professorship of American history. Committees in London and New York have raised a further sum of about $24,000 for the promotion of study of American history at the university and at the Institute of Historical Research.

Tenn. Won't Ban Hoover Democrats

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 18 (AP.)—Thomas Henderson, chairman of the state Democratic executive committee, issued a statement today in which he said that "Hoover Democrats will be welcomed back into the party fold and will be permitted to participate in the forthcoming August primaries."

Tennessee went for Hoover in the last presidential election.

Jobless Man Kills Himself in Church

BENWOOD, W. Va., Feb. 18.—A millworker, out of a job, committed suicide here last night by standing in a doorway of the Lutheran Church and firing a bullet from a 38-caliber revolver into his head.

One Student Killed, 3 Hurt, in Car Crash

DETROIT, Feb. 18 (INS).—One girl was killed and another girl and two University of Michigan students were injured when their automobile crashed into a freight truck early today.

Adele Lally, former University of Michigan student, is dead. The injured are Lucy Dombooraijan, Ann Arbor; Charles McHinnie, believed to be from Springfield, Ill., and Ray Hunsberger, freshman at the university, of Middleton, N. J., who is expected to die.

Soft, wavy hair!

The modern sculptured bobs do wonders to bring out your personality. But like other present-day modes of arranging the hair they call attention to it. That's why it's so important nowadays to keep your hair soft, lustrous, abundant. The easiest and quickest way to give new luster and color to hair which has begun to look dull and lifeless is with Danderine. And it makes the hair softer, easier to arrange, holds it in place.

Here's all you do. Each time you use your brush just put a little Danderine on it. It removes the dull film from your hair, brings out its natural color, gives it more gloss than brilliantine. Waves set with it stay in longer.

Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff, puts the scalp in the pink of condition. It stops falling hair. A small bottle is enough to show its merit. Start on it tonight.

When Your Cough Hangs On, Mix This at Home

The best cough remedy that money could buy, can easily be mixed at home. It saves money and gives you the most reliable, quick-acting medicine you ever used. The way it takes hold of stubborn coughs and chest colds, giving immediate relief, is astonishing.

Any druggist can supply you with 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle, and fill up with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. It's no trouble at all to mix, and when you once use it, you will never be without it. Keeps perfectly and tastes good—children really like it.

It is surprising how quickly this loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes and heals the inflamed membranes. At the same time, part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly on the bronchial tubes, and helps the system throw off the whole trouble. Even those severe coughs which follow cold epidemics, are promptly ended.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form. Nothing known in medicine is more helpful in cases of severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Nighthawks Back on Air In New Feature

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor

THE Coon-Sanders Nighthawks, ace radio favorite, will flash their tempo to the Horsheim Frolic, a new feature, over WCAE at 8:30 o'clock.

It is no necessary to tell you about Joe Sanders and Carl Coon, the two Kansas City boys who made the radio audience sit up and take notice when they first broadcast from WDAF. The audience has been sitting up and taking notice since. The Nighthawks have their own way of doing things and people like it.

Alois Havrilla

Eighty voices of the Paulist Choir will be heard with Nathaniel Shilkret's Orchestra in the Eveready broadcast of Brahms mass WCAE at 8.

BUGLE, DRUM CORPS

"Give Me One Hour" from Friml's White Eagle and "Love Everlasting" will be solos by Alois Havrilla baritone during the Libby concert over KDKA at 8:30.

"Hope" will be Dr. Carl Wallace Petty's subject for the 7:30 Evening Altar at KayDee.

Hiking songs of the Boy Scouts will be played by a large Bugle and Drum Corps of Troop 100 on KDKA at 6:30. Dr. Edward R. Weidlein will speak.

Prince Albert, Belgian ambassador to the United States, will be heard from WJAS at 10:30 o'clock.

We Now Present

A-CHOO

A comparison question: How Old's Aunt, employed at WCAE yesterday, knows what to do when he has to sneeze. Is there something to prevent sneezing? she asked.

N. L. Enders, Wexford, Pa.—The sketch you heard Sunday night at 10:30 was from WJZ.

Dick Powers is to play the lead in a Kaufman-Hart comedy on WJAS-Wednesday, Thursday, Friday or Saturday, probably.

I. F. C., Brookline—Adrian R. Cooper, formerly KQV, may be reached at his home, 213 Southern avenue, or Lafayette 4918-W.

TODAY'S TID BIT

Bandmaster of the Knights Night Club program at WJAS obtained by tapping bowls of glasses and saucers or plates.

Mr. Stanley Forbes Tells How Cuticura Healed Pimples.

"I was troubled with large pores, pimples and blackheads. The pimples were very hard and red and festered over. They were scattered all over my face. For fifteen years I tried other remedies but with no success.

"I read an advertisement for Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a free sample. My face started to clear up after using it so I purchased more, and after using one cake of Cuticura Soap and one box of Cuticura Ointment I was completely healed." Swedish Doctor Urges Flaxolyn for Stomach Troubles

Calls Pleasant New Formula "Nature's Greatest Aid to Health"

Dr. NELS MELEEN
Director Swedish Institute, Portland, Ore.

Dr. Meleen declares Flaxolyn to be a health preparation without equal as an herbal tonic acting upon Stomach, Liver, Kidneys and Bowels.

Eat With Appetite, Sleep Without 'Drugs', Promote Normal Bowel Action

The Swedish people are known for their remarkable physical power. As a nation, the Swedes probably give more care and attention to their health than any other people.

Therefore it is all the more important that Dr. Meleen, a foremost Swedish health leader in this country, considers Dr. Lunta's Herbal Flaxolyn the greatest aid to health that he has yet found.

More Strength and Energy

Dr. Meleen says: "I like Flaxolyn because it is natural in action. It tones the vital organs and gives the patient new strength and energy."

Flaxolyn First Ever to Do Good

"Any number of men and women come and tell me Flaxolyn is the first thing that ever did them any good. Many people who feel depressed because they cannot get real restful sleep, and get no pleasure out of food because it lays in a heavy lump in the stomach, have taken Flaxolyn under my direction. In every instance I know of, they report A SPLENDID IMPROVEMENT. Flaxolyn brings refreshing sleep, natural bowel action and stronger, healthier stomach."

Doctors Use Flaxolyn Personally IT CERTAINLY Must Bring Amazing Results

Dr. Mary Leavitt, of Cleveland says: "I have used Flaxolyn myself, and find it a great aid to normal functioning. Not only is it a stomach help, but also a valuable stimulant to the liver."

Dr. Horace Bond, of Phila. says: "I am writing to express my gratitude for that which Flaxolyn has done for me. Suffered severe intestinal disorders for several years. My condition has steadily improved through Flaxolyn."

Every reader who would like to feel better, eat better, sleep better and look better, can obtain a bottle of the marvelous Flaxolyn on Dr. Lunta's guarantee: Money refunded unless you note improvement by the sixth pleasant spoonful. Just return partly-used bottle to your druggist.

Clip This Valuable Coupon

Don't wait. Start taking Flaxolyn today. The ingredients are pure and harmless. You will feel the tonic change at once. You will enjoy renewed vigor, a better grip on life.

Readers of the Sun-Telegraph will find Flaxolyn all and more than claimed for it. If your own druggist does not carry it, you can always get Flaxolyn at

7 ADMIT BRAZIL SHOOTINGS

RIO JANEIRO, Feb. 18.—(AP)—Dispatches received here said seven persons had confessed to having participated in the recent political shooting at Montes Claros, where five persons were killed and Vice President Mello Vianna was wounded.

The arrested men were brought to the capital of the state of Minas Geraes by train, running the gauntlet through hostile territory and hostile villages. The train had to be stopped several times for the officials to get off and disarm inhabitants of these villages who came out armed to stop the train and release the prisoners.

FOOD SHOW OPENS TOMORROW NIGHT

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

A RADIO story: Percy Boyd, one of the KDKA moguls, invited Max Henrici to talk by radio with a gentleman in Sidney, Australia. Max thought the conversation was to be on one of the station's more or less private waves.

"My name," said Max to the Sidney citizen, "is Henrici—H-E-N-R-I-C-I, and my address is the Sun-Telegraph, Pittsburgh, Pa. I'd be pleased if you'd send me a postcard just to determine how long the mails would take, inasmuch as we're speaking over thousands of miles."

When Max returned to his office he had discovered that the broadcast was intended for anybody who wanted to listen in. He spent the rest of the day listening to telephoners who told him that it required so many days for a postcard to arrive from Australia, and what of it?

The friend, ever obliging, began telling the story over the 'phone. The announcer placed the ear-phone against the microphone. It happened to be a rather shady story.

The friend's wife, listening to the radio in another room, heard her husband's voice over the air, rushed to the phone, pushed him aside and saved the day—none too soon.

WHILE we're on the subject, we might say that Mr. Henrici is a man of great courage. He tosses chain letters into the wastebasket. Most of us are afraid to do just that, because the letters threaten us with bad luck. But not so Mr. Henrici, who is more or less of a collector of chain letters.

This last one warned Max that if he dared to interrupt the chain his luck would be bad for seven years. What's more, the letter purported to have been passed on by such noted persons as George Bernard Shaw, Col. Lindbergh and one A. K. Mellon.

If you are contemplating starting a chain letter, we warn you to desist. The government is against the practice. In fact, you can be tossed into jail. The reason: chain letters clutter up the mails and accomplish nothing.

Alfred Silverman, the insurance adjuster, tells of the gentleman who enjoyed functional paralysis. On one minute's notice he was able to create the impression that his right leg was useless. When he was presumably injured at work he deceived physicians.

Pins were jabbed into his shin but he gave no indication of pain. He convinced the insurance company that his leg was permanently paralyzed. He collected handsomely for imaginary injuries.

He was exposed when he went South and tried to put over the same fraud. The same insurance company happened to protect both employers.

PHOENIX, Ariz., Feb. 18.

I HAD always figured this southern flying route down by way of El Paso ought to have fine weather conditions and it sure has been a wonderful trip from El Paso here in three hours. Now lunch and will be in Beverly Hills by four o'clock. If you want to see a part of our country that is sky broke and not cloud shy go to Oklahoma, Kansas and Texas. Last Friday Tulsa airport handled in and out of there 354 passengers. Handled 6,500 last year and not an accident. I had always hollered for lower rates on these things. Now we have 'em. It costs just what your railroad fare plus your sleeper would cost. I tried to catch up with Mr. Coolidge and give him a real ride.

Yours, WILL.

CHICKIE BY ELENORE MEHERIN

"CHICKIE"

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Chickie Bryce is attending business college when the story opens. Arthur Sontag, a classmate, takes her to a dance and she confides to her friend, Mary Blake, that the avenues of romance are opening to her. Mary and Chickie blandly discuss love and marriage. Chickie thinks it will be all kisses and "walking on the mountain tops with her lover by her side." She forgets Arthur in the excitement of getting a position in an office. One of her co-workers there is Janina Knowles. Through Janina she meets Jake Munson, a rich and attractive bachelor. Mary suddenly marries a poor young chemist, much to Chickie's regret. Jimmy Blake, Mary's brother, begs Chickie to marry him, but without success. Chickie is attracted to a handsome young man who smiles at her from the window of another office. Chickie goes to a party given by Munson, against her father's protest. Janina introduces Barry Dunne, the young man Chickie had seen at the window.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XII.

"TELL me, why did you give me the cold eye so long?" Barry asked Chickie. "Any other girl would have tumbled out that window long before this."

Barry Dunne danced most buoyantly—with a greater freedom than Jake. Chickie felt the ripple of his ardent youth, eager, like her own. He was young. She was young. That made it so much blither.

She thought of all the romances she had weaved about him, standing at the window. She laughed. "I suppose you're very attractive, Mr. Dunne?"

"Well, I'm not sure. When I was young and freckled-faced, and seventeen, I suffered agonies wondering just that very thing. I had a chum with black, curly hair—a regular ladies' man. Lord, I envied him. I thought girls hated red hair. I thought they found me a hideous brute. I tell you those were melancholy days. Then a year later my nose came down, the freckles all ran together, and a girl gave me the 'come hither' eye. That put the heart in me—the sweet thing—but a few black looks like you've treated me to undo all the good work. Why did you pass me up so stiffly when I smiled at you?"

"What should I have done? Flopped across the alleyway into your arms?"

"Then it is really true that you hate men and don't want a thing to do with them?"

"Did Janina say that about me?"

"She did, and more. I've added my own investigations. Now I can't understand why a girl would begrude a lonely fellow a smile."

"Are you lonely?"

"I was—very—"

Jubilant

Barry's Teasing Glances Make Chickie Happy

"Why, if I'd known that, I would have dropped any number of smiles. You know I had an idea you might be lonely like a man in a story I once read."

"And I had an idea you might be kind, perched up there with seven stars in your hair like the Blessed Damozel. I thought you might call me up the golden stair."

"Indeed! And how could I when I didn't know your name? You wouldn't like it if I'd yelled out through the thin air, 'Hey, Redhead, come awn up!'"

Even the imaginary conversations she had invented with this most agreeable neighbor from across the way were not as full of elixir as this. She liked his eyes and the jaunty lift to his chin. When he gave her a quick, teasing look, like Jimmy's, it made her jubilant and quite at home. She said:

"Now what do you do down in that office? I've wondered if perhaps you're somebody important."

"Yes—very important—but young yet. I'm going to tell you all about it some day—"

Friendliness

Everyone Taken Into Circle of Affection

Jake rose hastily, his glance turned on Chickie warmly like an embrace. He pressed her hands with a fine gallant air, murmuring as though he had known her twice seven years. "How could you stay away so long, you dear! Leave me to the mercies of this black-eyed wench!"

Round the table there flowed now an easy mellow friendliness. Not Nicky alone, but every one was taken into the circle of affection. Bob Larkin, sharing his chair with a small, sleek brunette, who kept faking sips from his glass and giving little inarticulate shrieks of delight, called over:

"Ah, there, Chickie, meet Nana—A good kid, and she never weakens!"

Ida Larkin had lost a little of her clean-cut severe aspect. She beamed on the shiny faced Nicky. He had an arm about her waist and gazed into her eyes with fatuous devotion.

Janina, sharper, her face almost luminous in its vivid chiseling—made a place for Barry Dunne. Then she leaned back behind Jake and, pulling Chickie's arm, whispered: "You're a wonder! You're going like lightning. Don't overdo it! Soft pedal, little one!"

Chickie felt a crimson stain rushing from her neck to her temples. Her heart hardened furiously against Janina. She kept her eyes down, bit her lips. Jake's shoulder inclined a little toward her. He filled a glass and put it in her hand: "Losing heart, Chickie? Not tired already? You need a drink—won't hurt you—no chance to form a habit now."

Refuses Drink

Remembers Warnings Father Has Given Her

No—she didn't want to drink this—she had taken the cocktail—a joyous thing—but she was a little afraid to try a second. She kept hearing things Jonathan had said. She didn't want it, anyway. She wanted just then to get up and run away.

She was overjoyed when Jake stood up and asked her to dance. They danced and danced. He seemed to know that she was all at once uneasy and trembling. He said with his rich exuberance: "Well, what did the

SAFETY PRIZES OF P. R. R. ALL WON HERE

Pittsburgh Operating Region Makes Clean Sweep of Atterbury's Trophies

For the first time since President W. W. Atterbury offered annual departmental safety trophies, all five of them have been won by a single operating region, that of which Pittsburgh is headquarters, according to an announcement by Vice President E. W. Smith.

Trophies are offered employes in engine service, train service, station service, maintenance of way and maintenance of equipment. There are five major units in the Pennsylvania System and for any one of these units to make a clean sweep of the safety prises is considered an unusual event.

The trophies are awarded on a basis of the lowest casualty rate per million hours of labor. The Pennsylvania set out last year in the hope of reducing accidents among employes to a new low figure and it succeeded, with the Pittsburgh region leading the way. For the year the men who build and maintain the local region's tracks scored a year's low figure of only 7.4 accidents for each million hours of work. The local maintenance of equipment employes set a figure of 8.5; engine service, 9.9; station service, 19.4 and train service, 25.8.

Firemen Summoned By Blaze in Bank

Cleaners who work in the Birmingham National Bank, Twelfth and Carson streets, South Side, left one of their mops to dry on the top of the furnace in the bank basement this morning, according to police at the South Side station. The mop burst into flames shortly after 5 o'clock and firemen from No. 11 Engine Company were called out to extinguish the flames.

Auto Hurts Kill Boy, Driver Being Held

Adrian Perko, 10, 918 White street, McKeesport, died in the McKeesport hospital yesterday of an injury to the brain. The boy was injured February 8 when struck by an automobile driven by Arnold Lichenstein, 30, 2718 Jenny Lind street, McKeesport. Lichenstein is being held under $1,000 bond to await action of a coroner's jury.

Treveskyn Man Found Shot Dead

Julius Ersek, 60, of Treveskyn, was found dead in his bedroom today, a bullet wound in the head, according to the morgue report. Friends said he had been in ill health.

TWO ESCAPE IN AUTO'S PLUNGE

SEDAN AFTER ITS DIVE OF 15 FEET INTO THOMPSON RUN, TURTLE CREEK

Two men, Joe Benesia and a companion, whose name he doesn't know, escaped injury when this car they were riding ran through an iron fence in Thompson street, Turtle Creek, and dove about 15 feet into Thompson Run, turning over in the shallow water.

Man Asks Damages From Clogged Sewer

T. A. Blackham, of 4117 Winterburn street, has asked Council to authorize payment of $790 for damage to property on Greenfield avenue and Waldeck street as a result of water backing into a cellar from a clogged sewer.

Rail, River Wharf Site Is Suggested

J. W. Marriman, of the A. M. Byers Company, has asked Council to consider acreage on the Monongahela River at Hays Station before determining a site for a river and rail terminal.

MAN HELD FOR U. S. OFFICERS

Ralph McCreery, 22, was brought here from the Westmoreland County jail yesterday to await extradition by federal authorities, who want him on charges of having escaped from United States officers.

He was arrested in Westmoreland County for the theft of an auto and was acquitted when tried on the charge. A bout a year ago, it was said, he escaped from a United States marshal who was taking him from Knoxville, Tenn., to the National Training School at Washington, D. C.

Later he was rearrested and sentenced to 15 months' at the state reformatory at Boonville, Mo., and escaped after completing 13 months of his sentence.

Langfitt Avenue Lines Proposed

Council has received ordinances fixing the width and position of the sidewalks and roadways of Langfitt avenue to a point 500 feet from Richardson street and of Casemept street from Shadeland street to Plough street.

Council also received an ordinance establishing the grade of Annam way from North Dumfermline street to a point 300 feet east.

VARIED HOME AIDS TO BE DISPLAYED

Garden Transformed For Big Household Exposition To Continue Until March 1

The transformation of Motor Square Garden into a housewife's paradise will be accomplished tomorrow night when the fourteenth annual food show and household appliance exposition opens there at 7 o'clock.

Mrs. R. W. Johnston, president of the Congress of Women's Clubs, will give the address of welcome at 8 o'clock. Presiding at the inaugural ceremony will be J. V. Loughran, director.

The operation and management of the food show is under the sponsorship of the Retail Grocers' Association of Allegheny County. The main floor will be devoted entirely to booths exhibiting food products. In addition to these, many booths will display the modern household appliances and work-saving devices for the housewife.

One of the big features of the show will be a public wedding, slated for Saturday night. Another will be the gifts of food baskets and samples. A home economics course will be given.

The exhibit will be open both afternoon and evening after tomorrow until March 1, Sunday excepted. The hours are daily from 2 to 5:30 p. m. and 7 to 10:30 p. m. Musical concerts will be given at each session.

Two Negroes Sought For Attack on Youth

Police today were searching for two Negroes in connection with the stabbing last night of Joseph Kozynski, 17, of 3453 Ligonier street, at Liberty avenue and Thirty-fourth street.

A wound in his breast, Kozynski was taken to St. Francis Hospital, where his condition was reported as fair. The victim told police that the Negroes attacked him when he resented their insults on two girls with whom he was conversing.

Judge Ready to Rule On Annexation Move

Judge James H. Gray, of Quarter Sessions Court, tomorrow will render a decision on the legality of the proceedings taken by residents of Baldwin Township seeking annexation to the City of Pittsburgh, which he heard yesterday. The petition involves portions of the Fourth and Eighth Districts in the township, near the Twenty-ninth Ward, Pittsburgh.

Bassett Named Head Of Mine Engineers

Following the organization of the new coal division of the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers, Howard N. Eavenson was selected as its chairman at today's session of the annual meeting being held in New York. William E. Bassett, of the American Brass Company, was named president of the institute.

Police Mace Bests Man Swinging Pick

Wielding a mace, Edward Miller, Baltimore and Ohio Railroad policeman, bested Patrick Conley, no home, who swung a mattock in the basement of the Baltimore and Ohio station early today, police reported.

Miller said Conley had chopped down two doors. Conley was removed to Allegheny General Hospital.

Gives Pay, Then Takes It Back, Wife Avers

Frank Kusan, 39, of 803 Brownsville avenue, turns his pay over to his wife, she testified in Morals Court today; but it is his practice, she said, to demand it back in a day or two that he may play the clearing house lottery.

She said he struck her on one or two occasions when she declined to return the money. Kusan, arrested on his wife's complaint, was held by Magistrate Thomas D. Jones for further investigation.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question—If you were the director of public safety what method would you use to prevent the mob violence in the taxi strike?

LEE SPANIER, East End: "It seems to me that present police protection given the public in the vicinity of places where riots and slugfests have occurred, is not enough. The public must be protected at all costs. We have a serious situation in the city right now and the main object is to protect the public. The police shouldn't let a strike interfere with the rights of the people."

Lee Spanier

PEARL KINGSTON, secretary, East End: "If the solution of the matter was left in my hands, assuming that I was director of public safety, of course, the first thing I'd do would be to order all those imported thugs or drivers from the city. I think they aggravate the situation and are too prone to look for trouble. Pittsburgh is too good a place to become a 'dumping ground' for thugs from other cities. After I did this I'd order a compromise. Law and order is being flaunted as it is."

Miss Kingston

THOMAS M. DEAN, salesman, Carrick: "I would use diplomacy at first and if that didn't work I'd use force. The most diplomatic move would be to call both strikers, drivers and company officials together and ask that they stop violence. I'd explain to them that they are jeopardizing their own interests and starting something that might result in possible murder. Then if they refused to abide by the edict I'd guard all points of strategic interest with as many police as could possibly be mobilized."

Thomas M. Dean

PATRICIA WAYHAM, stenographer, North Side: "Things seem to be in pretty bad shape just now in the taxi strike and if it doesn't come to an end soon, something drastic must be done. If I was the head of the police bureau I'd call a meeting of the strikers and the company officials and see if they couldn't make some final effort to end the affair. But while I would have as many police on duty as possible—say enough to adequately cope with the situation. An ounce of prevention is worth a pound of cure."

Miss Wayham

B. E. JOHNSON, Downtown: The best thing for the director of public safety to do, as I see it, is to order all taxi cabs from the streets until the strike is settled. Hardly anyone rides them. If one does take a ride on the Downtown or East Liberty streets, he doesn't know whether or not he's going to be the victim of a window crashing party. It's pretty serious when drivers wear trench hats. When it's that bad, then I say again, order the cabs from the streets."

B. E. Johnson

FREDA ROSS, bookkeeper, Dormont: "Probably whatever way the public safety chief would turn he'd have a tough proposition on his hands. One must remember that the strikers and drivers have their rights as well as the neutral citizen. The only solution I can see to prevent violence is to remove the cabs from the streets until the strike is settled. Pedestrians and motorists are in continual danger as it is. They don't know when they are going to be victims of a brick or a tear gas bomb."

Miss Ross

Noiseless Houses Sought to Calm Nerves

WASHINGTON, Feb. 18.—Soft peddling building construction to eliminate the machine-gun barrage of pneumatic hammers, and sound-proofing apartment house walls were two major projects under investigation at the Bureau of Standards today in a move to calm American nerves.

Psychiatrists have been studying the noise problem, particularly street-noises, and find it is more or less shell-shocking to the general public. A large portion of street racket comes from building construction. Authorities on the mind feel that workers of the country would become more efficient if a muffler absorbed a part of the bedlam.

The Bureau of Standards has made tests on column splices formed by welding plates to the inside surfaces of the column flanges in the study of the erection of steel-frame buildings.

Sun-Telegraph Readers Welcome Mickey Mouse

Mickey Mouse joined the Sun-Telegraph staff of comics yesterday and scampered right into the hearts and homes of thousands of Pittsburghers.

On the screen, Mickey Mouse is acclaimed as the pet of the nation. In fact, there is no other animated comic that enjoys the following of this funny, witty little fellow.

Day and night he appears in thousands of motion picture theaters from coast to coast and his popularity has swept across the ocean.

In the Pittsburgh area alone Mickey Mouse is featured in 150 theaters, including all of the Warner houses, by distribution through the Columbia Film Service, Inc.

Backed by this tremendous popularity, it is no wonder that Mickey found his way into the comic strips. His debut in the Sun-Telegraph yesterday resulted in a warm welcome from young and old.

The thousands of friends and admirers he has made from his screen appearances will watch him with greater interest from now on.

Now they can see this irresistible comic every day in the Sun-Telegraph instead of just once a week in the movies. Every day there will be a new episode in the eventful life of one of the most popular comic creations in years and his performances in the comic strip will invariably give you a laugh.

Kiddies yell for him—grown-ups yell at him. There's a laugh in every move he makes. So, if you enjoy Mickey Mouse on the screen, you are going to have a sure-fire laugh with him every day in the Sun-Telegraph.

TOMORROW WILL BE ANOTHER DAY

and thousands of people will be reading the classified ads, looking for jobs, places to live, used car bargains, values in real estate, etc. If you wish to get in touch with any of these people, call GRANT 8400 and place a Classified Ad in the Sun-Telegraph.

STUDENTS WIN DANCE PLEA

As a result of action of the Wilkinsburg Board of Education students of Wilkinsburg Senior High School were congratulating themselves today on the success of their petition to the board for restoration of the privilege of holding dances in the school building.

When Evangelist Billy Sunday campaigned here in 1915 Wilkinsburg students asked the board to bar dances from school property.

At a meeting of that body last night a petition signed by 350 students was presented and the 1915 ban was withdrawn. Only one member of the board, J. K. Townsend, voted against the removal of the restriction. The new ruling calls for the supervision of dancing by the faculty and superintendent of schools.

3-STORY FALL KILLS WOMAN

Homicide detectives today were investigating the death of Mrs. Stella Siekerska, 54, of 3433 Mulberry way, who died en route to St. Francis Hospital shortly after being found in a yard in the rear of her home last night.

Police said the woman fell from a third-floor fire escape of a building fronting her home. Neighbors who found her told police, it was reported, that Mrs. Siekerska had been drinking.

Mrs. Siekerska, a widow, lived with her two daughters, Jennie, 23, and Minnie, 18, who were attending a dance on the South Side at the time.

Hobson to Continue Drive Against Drugs

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—His campaign against narcotics will be continued with even greater energy, Capt. Richmond Pearson Hobson, Spanish-American War hero, announced today following his arrival here on the Panama-Pacific liner Pennsylvania.

After attending the World Conference on Narcotic Education, and meetings of the National Narcotic Education Association, of which he is president, in New York this week, Capt. Hobson will sail for Geneva, where he will establish a branch of his organization to work with the League of Nations committee on narcotics.

Hazelwood Man Dies Of Crash Injuries

A fractured skull suffered in an automobile accident caused the death of John H. Callahan, 35, Hazelwood undertaker, this morning in the Allegheny General Hospital. Callahan, who lives at 3120 Second avenue, was injured when his machine collided with two other cars at Duquesne way and Sixth street, February 9. David Luterman, of 407 McKee place, and Walter Emanuel, of 617 Baywood street, alleged drivers of the other cars, were notified to post bond pending the inquest.

Mail Carrier Hurt By Fall Into Creek

Injured in a fall into the icy waters of Muhhall Creek, Samuel Markowitz, 31, of 837 East Eleventh street, Munhall, a mail carrier, today was in the Marine Hospital where, it was said, he was suffering from a fracture of the skull.

Markowitz was delivering mail in Ravine street, Munhall, when he slipped and fell over an embankment into the creek yesterday.

BROKE PAROLE, MADE LIQUOR, POLICE SAY

Erie Woman Tells Court She Violated Law to Keep Family Husband Deserted

Mrs. Mary Lastowski, 37, of Erie, mother of six children, must serve six months in the Erie County Jail for breaking a two-year parole granted her in Federal Court September 28, 1929, when she pleaded guilty to violating the prohibition law.

When placed on probation she was warned by the court to obey all laws and told that if she was again brought into court, she would be punished for the liquor violation.

Yesterday she was taken before Judge F. P. Schoonmaker and the latter was told Mrs. Lastowski had been arrested October 10, 1929, and again on February 1, by state police, who found she had moonshine stills in her home. Judge Schoonmaker then revoked the parole and imposed sentence.

Mrs. Lastoswki said her husband had deserted her and the children and she became involved in the liquor violations to obtain money with which to support her family.

Federal Probation Officer George G. O'Brien, after a talk with Harold P. Dundon, Erie County probation officer, said that Erie County would take steps to care for the children until the sentence is completed.

IDLENESS LESS, SAYS DAVIS

Secretary of Labor James J. Davis today is returning to Washington after delivering an address last night to the Rotary Club of New Wilmington, Pa.

The meeting was attended by members of Rotary clubs of Sharon, Elwood City, Greenville and New Castle.

Secretary Davis discussed unemployment and stated that the ranks of idle workers, that reached high tide following the stock market disturbance last fall, had been substantially reduced during January.

The speaker declared the employers have been centering energy on the installation of rapid, efficient machinery and have ignored the men that were thereby displaced from work.

Secretary Davis said the problem could be solved only by the employer, and he warned that property rights should not be placed above human rights.

ARTILLERY UNIT INSPECTED

The annual Federal inspection of the One Hundred Seventy-sixth Field Artillery opened at the Logan Armory, Bayard and Thackary streets last night with the inspection of Battery B, commanded by Capt. Louis M. Shriver. The inspection will continue until February 28, during which time 12 units will be inspected.

The inspection was made by Capt. J. W. Lucas, senior instructor with the artillery regiment, representing the Army, and Lieut. Col. William Ziert, division inspector for the Twenty-eighth Division, Pennsylvania National Guard. Col. W. R. Dunlap, commanding officer of the regiment, has extended an invitation to the public to attend a concert by the band and bugle corps on their inspection day next Sunday.

Engineers to See Lightning on Trailers

Lightning which can be carried around the country on a trailer will be shown to members of the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and the Engineers' Society of Western Pennsylvania tonight at the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company's plant in East Pittsburgh.

This latest device for studying the effect of lightning on transmission lines is capable of creating an electrical surge of more than 1,000,000 volts.

The Westinghouse Company will also display and explain its latest development for arresting lightning.

1 MAN KILLED, BOY INJURED BY AUTOS

Laurel Street Residents Crushed Beneath Truck; Nurse Hurt in Collision

One man was dead and a boy was in a critical condition in the Allegheny General Hospital from automobile accidents last night.

Samuel Robinson, 52, of 1112 Laurel street, was killed when crushed by the rear wheel of a truck from which he fell at Forbes street and Morewood avenue, according to police. Thomas Adams, 31, of 6718 Simonton street, driver of the truck, took Robinson to the Homeopathic Hospital, where he was pronounced dead. Adams was arrested.

Running into the path of a machine driven by Albert Schuetz, 32, of 1113 Yetta avenue, Joseph Bott, 14, of 1314 Lowrie street, was struck by the car and suffered a probable fracture of the skull, police reported. Bott was playing with several other boys in front of his home when he was struck.

Edith Simms, 22, a nurse at the Homeopathic Hospital, was removed to that institution when she suffered deep lacerations on the forehead during a collision of automobiles in Center avenue near Cypress street. She was riding with Attorney Ernest Frey, who has offices at 715 Park Building, when Frey's machine collided with the car of Samuel Weinberger at 1020 Washington street, Braddock.

APPLIES BRAKES, UPSETS

John G. Wellington, 39, of 2089 Beechwood boulevard, escaped with a slight laceration to the right hand when his automobile overturned this morning in Bigelow boulevard near the Seventeenth street incline. He told police he applied his brakes quickly to avoid striking another machine, and his car upset.

When his automobile struck an iron pole at Stockton and Sherman avenues last night, Frank Singfield, 32, of 240 Carrington street, suffered a probable fracture of the skull. Paul Fredley, of 1218 Allegheny avenue, riding with Singfield, was uninjured. Singfield was removed to the Allegheny General Hospital.

OBITUARY

Mrs. C. B. Nash.

Mrs. Bertha M. Nash, 50, wife of Charles B. Nash, publicity manager for the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing Company, died Sunday in Sarasota, Fla., according to word received here. ## HORSE POSES AS STATUE

Crowds gathered before the Court House yesterday to watch a demonstration of the artistic merits of equestrian statuary on either side of the entrances to the house of justice.

A living model was posing. The horse, with a pair of wings fastened to him, stood quietly while the crowd looked on. Officials took note, passing motorists craned their necks.

Big, burly Patrolman Thomas Leonard, 4833 Butler street, climbed the steps, handed the horse's owner, Mrs. Ernest Brengk, a tag for parking. According to Mrs. Brengk, the horse is nine years old, took three years to train, is worth $30,000. The horse, which poses as a statue, is in the stage show at the Stanley Theater this week.

Man, Woman Held As Drug Suspects

James T. Wilkerson, 26, and Mary Ellen Theus, 26, Negroes, were held for court by the United States commissioner, on a charge of violating the Harrison narcotic act. They were alleged to have had 52 capsules of cocaine in their possession when arrested Saturday in Clairton. Bonds were set at $2,000 each.

Wilkinsburg Woman Reports Two Robins

HOLLIDAYSBURG, Pa., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Jesse L. Hartman, 76, former congressman and a pioneer in the operation of Ganister quarries, died here yesterday of pneumonia. He served in Congress from 1910 to 1923 and was Republican chairman of Blair County for many years. He was said to have made the first shipment of Ganister rock to be used in the manufacture of the first silica brick in the United States in 1884.

Overholt, Finch Whiskies To Be Made Again

Manufacture of pre-war rye whisky is to be resumed in the Pittsburgh district.

Within a few days, work will start in making 300,000 gallons at the distilling plant of Joseph A. Finch and Company at Schenley, and 260,000 gallons at the plant of A. Overholt and Company at Broadford, Pa.

It will be the first genuine and government authorized whisky in this district since the manufacture of spirituous liquors was stopped 10 years ago by the Volstead act.

By permission of the prohibition department, these concerns will be allowed to resume the manufacture of whisky, but not for beverage purposes. It will be medicinal liquor, only to be removed from the plants on government permits.

The two plants are among a large number throughout the country to which permits have been granted for the manufacture of 2,000,000 gallons, to replenish supplies drawn from government concentration depots, for medicinal purposes. The new supply will not be available for withdrawals for four years.

SEIZE 3 STILLS IN SERIES OF DRY RAIDS

Moonshine and Home Brew, Confiscated By Officers In Scattered Investigations

Three stills, moonshine and home brew were seized by constables and prohibition agents in raids yesterday.

A 100-gallon still and 600 gallons of mash were found in a dwelling at 7326 Idlewild street, according to the agents. Its operator was being sought.

Another of a 75-gallon capacity was confiscated in the home of Sam Russo, 42, at 3329 Liberty avenue, who was arrested, raiders said.

Liquor law violations were charged in the homes of George Born, of 118 Lippert street, Millvale; Alfred Nanorini, at 1439 Penn avenue, and Joseph Killmeyer, at 13 Neptune street, according to the agents' report.

Three store owners and 12 visitors are awaiting hearings tonight before Justice of the Peace J. F. Heck, of Natrona, following raids by police there last night. A still and a quantity of moonshine whisky were found, Chief of Police Paul Engelman said today.

The store owners arrested police said, were John Slawanski, 99 Chestnut street, Natrona in whose place a still was alleged to have been found in operation; Frank Wabinski, Outlook street, West Natrona, and Anton Hzevnski, Third street, West Natrona. Other raiding officers were Constable Edward Hileman and Patrolmen John Ludenski and Michael Duning.

KLINE'S FORCES LOSE CONTEST

Anti-Kline forces continue in control of the second election district of the Fifth Ward as a result of Judge Harry H. Rowand having discharged a petition in Quarter Sessions Court to oust Isaac Hall, 12 Trent street, from his position as judge of election.

Hall's scalp was sought by City Assessor Harry Feldman, Kline leader in the ward, after Hall had been appointed on a petition presented by Attorney Ralph H. Smith, of the former "Malone for Mayor" committee. The appointment was asked the day after the burial of Mrs. Feldman, wife of the assessor, who had held the position as judge of election. Feldman claimed a march had been stolen on him, as he, following the Jewish religious custom, remained indoors seven days following his wife's death, and could not combat the move. Judge Rowand held there was nothing irregular about the Hall appointment and decreed it should stand.

450 Attend Dinner Of Traffic Group

Many out-of-town guests were among the 450 persons who attended the annual dinner of the Traffic and Transportation Association in the Keystone Athletic Club last night. Francis D. Jones was chairman of the committee in charge of the dinner.

Mate Who Keeps Milkman Hours Tells th' Judge

John Coll, 38, banged at the front door of his home, 4776 Mitre way, at 2 o'clock this morning. His wife, Myrtle Coll, raised an upstairs window, looked at him, and asked "where have you been?"

"At a wake," said Coll.

"Well, go back to it," retored Mrs. Coll, as she closed the window and went back to bed.

Coll continued to bang on the door and was arrested.

At the hearing before Magistrate Thomas D. Jones in Morals Court today Mrs. Coll said her husband came home drunk last Saturday night, too, that she told him to "walk it off," and he stayed out until yesterday.

Jones deferred action, pending investigation by social workers.

MAN, SHOT BY WOMAN, DIES

Charles Bankert, 50, of 708 Taylor avenue, died last night in the Presbyterian Hospital from a bullet wound in the left shoulder which, police said, was inflicted by Mrs. Ella Owens, 44, in the hallway of her apartment, 1119 Pennsylvania avenue, last Monday.

Mrs. Owens, whose husband, a traveling salesman was away at the time, ended her life by shooting herself in the head. Police investigation disclosed that the shooting was caused by jealousy when Mrs. Owens learned that Bankert, a railroad engineer, had met another woman.

USE GAS MASKS TO FIGHT FIRE

A fire in the plant of the Allis-Chalmers Company at Columbus and Preble avenues, early today caused damage estimated at $1,000, according to Battalion Chief Louis Stickle. Firemen donned gas masks to enter the sub-basement of the two-story structure where the blaze originated.

According to the report at the Woods Run Police Station, the fire originated from an undetermined cause in the sub-basement and firemen were forced to chop their way into the cellar from the outside of the building. Employes of the company said that the small amount of material stored in the cellar would not be damaged by the water.

Automobile Club Gains in Members

A gain in finances and membership was reported at the twenty-seventh meeting of the Automobile Club of Pittsburgh at the club's main office, 5905 Baum boulevard last night.

Nine men were elected to the board of governors. They are Reade W. Nailey, William J. Grant, W. H. Burchfield, Walter S. Laird, Walker McCune, J. E. Roth and Fred C. Schlatz, for three-year terms; Ralph L. Smith for two years and George O. Yohe, for one year.

MORE PARKING BANS PLANNED

Further restrictions to automobile parking in various sections of the city would be authorized in ordinances to be considered today by Council's Public Safety Committee. The proposed rules:

No parking any time on the south side of Bigelow boulevard, from Bayard street to O'Hara street.

No parking on the south side of Forbes street, from Bellefield avenue to Bigelow boulevard.

One-hour parking between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m. on the east side of Madison avenue, from East Ohio street to Phineas street.

One-hour parking on the west side of Twelfth street, from Carson street to Sarah street, between 8 a. m. and 6 p. m.

All the proposed rules have been subjected to a 60-day trial and are recommended by Safety Director James M. Clark.

Bogus Dry Officer Given Jail Term

Mike McConnic, 27, of Ellwood City, pleaded guilty before Federal Judge F. P. Schoonmaker, to a charge of fraudulently representing himself to be a government prohibition agent, and was sentenced to serve two months in the Lawrence County jail. Under such representation McConnic attempted to defraud Mrs. Margaret Geric, of Rankin, by making a demand for $100 May 4, 1929, according to the indictment.

FINANCE GROUP AGREES ON NEEDS

Mt. Washington Project to House 1,300; Arsenal Jr. High Included in List

The committee on finance and administration of the Board of Education today was expected to recommend that Dr. William M. Davidson, superintendent of public schools, be authorized to prepare a program for new school buildings at a cost of approximately $2,500,000. The building program, it is expected, will help relieve congestion in several high schools.

The committee met last night and agreed upon the building program, which will include a new Prospect building, Mt. Washington, to house 600 elementary and 700 junior pupils, for students are now crowding South Hills High School. It also includes a four-room elementary building on the Mellon site at Phillips avenue, near Melvin street.

NEEDS MOST URGENT

All the projects recommended in the program have been pointed out in the Woolridge survey as the "most pressing needs of the board in land and buildings."

The committee today also will recommend to the board that action be taken on the Arsenal Junior High School Building, plans for which already have been submitted.

The committee is expected to recommend that plans be completed first on the junior high school. They will ask that plans be prepared for both the junior high school and the elementary building immediately.

KNOXVILLE ADDITION

Other projects on which the superintendent is to prepare a report are the addition to the Knoxville Junior High School, a Union Junior High School in the Lincoln avenue district, and additions to the Roosevelt School, the Westinghouse High School, the Larimer Avenue School and an elementary school for Lincoln Place.

At a meeting of the property and supplies committee held after that of the finance committee, James Bonar, superintendent of buildings, was instructed to receive bids on the grading, surfacing, draining and fencing of an athletic field at Perry High School.

Real Estate

A three-story brick apartment building and garage at 5713-15 Callowhill street, lot 50x149 feet, has been sold for M. A. Rosenberg to S. P. Kristufek. In part payment, the buyer deeded a three-story brick building containing a store and two apartments at 738 Boggs avenue and a double frame house at the rear known as 741 Wills street, lot 32x118 feet, and a three-story brick building at 1540 Webster avenue, including a store and two apartments. Harry Averbach, of B. Thorpe & Co., closed the deal.

A large residence and two-car garage on 60x170 feet at 6332 Forward avenue, Squirrel Hill, has been sold for William Sigal to J. J. Opachevsky, who deeded in exchange a seven-room house and two-car garage at 6349 Crombie street. A. J. Aberman, of the Union Real Estate Company, was the broker. John F. Lyons, of the same office, sold for Harry Katz to Martin F. Keller two new brick houses on 60x122 feet at 125-27 Dawes street, South Side. Mr. Keller conveyed three brick houses at 1835-37 Bedford avenue.

A property in Espy avenue, near LaSalle avenue, Dormont, has been sold by Henry Harley to James E. DeWoody. The lot is 50x130 feet.

The Trilli & Dunbar Company, builders, have purchased from Glover N. Cook 50x120 feet in Marion avenue, Mt. Lebanon.

The Brentwood Land Company has sold to William M. Miller 30x110 feet in Bellanca avenue, Brentwood Grove plan.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Society Women's Pastel Gowns Worn at Shows Harbinger of Spring

EVEN though the days here in the North are becoming so balmy and springlike, inspiring in us the hope that old man winter isn't really fooling us, after all, but is gone forever, still the South is attracting a great many of society folk. Last night, however, I discovered that they have not all gone yet, as I saw several enjoying the musical comedy, "Show Boat," at the Nixon.

I noticed that all the spring shades are being sampled in the gowns.

Among those sauntering in the foyer between acts I saw the Gordon Kings and Mrs. King had chosen a charming gown of canary yellow satin, smartly long, falling in many pointed godets to the floor at the sides. As they were leaving the theater I noticed she had chosen a wrap of dull blue and silver brocade.

Then too, I saw dignified Mrs. J. Porter Gillespie looking charming in a black crepe gown very long, and she was wearing a coat of black broadtail, furred in brown.

Talking to Mary Shiras in the foyer was Harriet Hunter and Mary had chosen a distinctive gown of extremely deep red crepe lined in beige, featuring the longer-in-the-back mode. She was wearing a wrap of black velvet furred in white fox. Harriet looked interesting in a gown of white tulle and moire and was wearing a coat of brown broadcloth with badger fur. And Mrs. Charles Flaccus wore black net and a coat of ermine.

"Journey's End," down at the Alvin, is having quite a vogue with Pittsburgh folks, and no wonder. And at the opening of the second week of the production last night there was another large audience with the brilliant splashes of the women's colorful gowns making the orchestra circle gay.

Among the habitual "first-nighters," I noticed Mrs. Elizabeth Reed Brown chatting with a group of friends in the foyer. And her gown was in keeping with the approach of spring. It was of wood-violet chiffon with a train and long full skirt. And her slippers were of the very same shade of satin. On leaving the theater she wore a coat of mink.

And while she was waiting for her car after the show I saw a popular member of the younger set, Mrs. William Penn Snyder, Jr. And she was wrapped in white ermine. And I believe I caught a glimpse of Mrs. Ralph W. Harbison.

DID you know that last evening Janet Hardie, daughter of the Walter L. Hardies, of Bartlett street, entertained for Florence Wainwright and her bridal party in her home?

There were 30 guests, including the bridal party. The dining table was decorated charmingly with spring flowers in pastel shades and tall tapers in peach color.

And I might add that Florence, the daughter of Mrs. Harris Ewalt Wainwright, will become the bride of Robert Kerr Follansbee, son of the John Follansbees, Thursday afternoon at 5:30 o'clock in the Wainwright home.

THE Junior League of Pittsburgh has started housekeeping. And yesterday afternoon the members attended the opening of their new home on the mezzanine floor of the Clark Building. And tea was served, of course.

Very colorful and spring-like is the new home, having the verve of youth. The lounge, in restrained modern style, has walls of green and curtains of creamy net, and cretonne draperies adding splashes of green, rose and yellow. And the floors are carpeted in soft deep rose. And comfortable chairs and sofas are grouped in a cozy way with forsythia decorating the rooms for the tea yesterday.

For tea parties there's a smaller room off the lounge with gay yellow Windsor chairs and tables. And the dressing room is decorated in green and orchid.

And, as I've mentioned before, Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson, Jr., was chairman of the decorating committee, assisted by Mrs. Lewis A. Park, Mrs. Felix B. Snowdon, Mrs. Herbert A. May and Mrs. B. F. Jones III.

At the tea I noticed the president, Priscilla Hall, in a gown harmonizing with the new home. It was of apple green crepe with a hat to match. And Nancy Brown wore a dark beige tweed suit with a sable scarf and a blouse of fashionable eggshell and Mrs. James E. Brown wore a two-piece frock of sand and brown crepe below a leopard skin coat.

And I noticed Mrs. Paul Dickey and Mrs. Stanley Brown and Mrs. Alan S. Humphreys and Mrs. Arthur Woolfolk in wine red crepe, and Mary Childs in a black jersey frock with a black hat.

Very striking was Mrs. Alan Magee Scaife in a black ensemble with red fox fur, and Mrs. Alexander Laughlin Robinson, Jr., wore navy blue crepe with collars and cuffs of navy blue edged organdy. And I noticed her having tea with Mrs. Felix B. Snowdon, in peacock blue jersey, and Mrs. Herbert A. May, in chanel red crepe. And they all wore hats of felt to match their gowns. A yoke of yellow crepe was the distinctive note in Mrs. Lewis A. Park's gowns of black crepe with which she wore a chapeau of black felt.

Others I noticed were Mrs. Charles C. Heard, Mrs. J. Knowles Woodwell, Mrs. James Turner, Mrs. J. Snyder Hammond, Mrs. William W. Blair, Jr., and Mrs. Harvey Childs, III.

TODAY I can tell you about two new recruits for the younger married set. Virginia Lees, daughter of the Walter Gilbert Lees, of Fisher Hill, Brookline, Mass., and George Kendall Campbell, son of the French Campbells, of New York, were married in the First Parish Church of Brookline yesterday. And they will make their home in Pittsburgh. They've taken an apartment at South Negley avenue and Elmer street for the remainder of the winter and for spring.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of ivory satin and a lace bordered veil of net and carried lilies of the valley. Her only attendant was Mary Louise Butterfield, of Chestnut Hill, whose gown was of turquoise blue satin.

The bride attended the May School, and following her debut became a member of the Junior League. And she is also a member of Boston's exclusive Vincent Club.

Mr. Campbell is a graduate of Williams College, class of 1925. Their betrothal was made known a year ago.

CLUB NOTES

THE TOURISTS, at their meeting in the Congress clubhouse yesterday, spent a delightful afternoon verbally in the East Indies. Mrs. M. E. Golding conducted the tour through the historic Khyber Pass and across the sea to the island of Java where Mrs. H. K. Gowdy talked on "The Hindu, the Arab and the Dutch in Java" and gave a word picture of Java today. Mrs. C. J. Angstrom had as her subject "Borneo, the Unexplored," and Mrs. Golding closed the "trip" with a thrilling account of tiger hunting in Indo-China. The club will have its spring musicale March 3 under the caption "Springtime in the Orient."

FOR the musical portion of its program yesterday the Pittsburgh Literary and Musical Club heard piano solos by Mrs. Gertrude Robinson Dodds and Mrs. H. P. McKown and contralto numbers by Miss Ethel Tilley, accompanied by Mrs. McKown. The papers, which were on Turkey and Rumania, were contributed by Mrs. McKown, Miss Elizabeth Bell (whose paper was read by her sister, Mrs. C. H. Howell), Miss Elizabeth Lyle and Miss Grace Leggate.

MRS. D. EDWIN MILLER, chairman of the division of community service in the State Federation, will be speaker on the home economics program to be given Thursday by the Aspinwall Woman's Club. Her subject will be "Mothers and Daughters I Have Known." Two groups of soprano solos will be presented by Miss Charlotte Shallenberger, of Cheswick, accompanied by Mrs. I. H. Heidler. Mrs. R. R. Jardine, vice chairman of the department, will preside.

A DECIDEDLY interesting and entertaining talk on current Broadway plays was given before the Wilkinsburg Woman's Club yesterday by Florence Fisher Parry, Pittsburgh columnist. Mrs. Parry also discussed the present trend of the theater. In addition to the talk, the program included two groups of songs by Mrs. Lewis E. Young, for whom Martha Meyers Murdock was accompanist.

MISS THYRSA W. AMOS, dean of women at the University of Pittsburgh and president of the National Association of Deans of Women, will preside at the annual convention to be held in Atlantic City February 19 to 22.

THE Brookside Woman's Club continued its study of the drama with a special program at its meeting this afternoon in the home of Mrs. John C. Eichleay. The speaker was George Seibel, dramatic critic of the Sun-Telegraph, who was introduced by Mrs. William Weiss and talked on "The Modern Drama." Mrs. I. H. Shaffer, soprano, presented the musical program.

"RESOLVED: That the policy of granting a liberal arts college education to anyone who seeks it is unsound," is the subject to be debated tomorrow by the Pitt Girls' Debating Team before the Dormont-Mt. Lebanon League of Women Voters when it meets in Mrs. L. G. Fishark's home, Wainbell avenue. Mrs. Donald C. Todd will add readings to the program.

FOSTER Women's Christian Temperance Union will have a mother and daughter social on Friday evening in the Congress of Clubs. Mrs. John D. Pennington will speak; Mrs. Dorothy Metz Scott will read and Mrs. F. W. Goodwin is to be the soloist.

Future Imperial Power Of Britain Hinges on India, Clubs Told

IT is his conviction that the future of Great Britain as an imperial power depends upon what happens in India within the next few months, possibly the next few weeks, and upon the spirit and character of the governor general, S. K. Ratcliffe, London publicist and journalist, told the Twentieth Century Club yesterday. Recent political developments and what they promise to the future of Great Britain's place in the world were most interestingly discussed by Mr. Ratcliffe under the title, "The Future of England."

The coming into power of the Labor party was the first development taken up. Mr. Ratcliffe remarking that England has gone farther and faster in social changes than her people realize, and that the change in the House of Commons is something that cannot be overlooked even by the most unobservant. Whether England will remain a three-party country or return to the two-party system was also fully discussed. The Conservatives are very definitely divided on the tariff question and the party that challenges MacDonald and his party in the next election must be united, the speaker stated.

The unemployment situation, the dole, the crusade for free trade, the manner in which the Labor party attacked its problems immediately it came into power, industrial conditions, and the present London conference were all gone into by the speaker. Mr. Ratcliffe spoke of the dole as being, not a dole, but a national insurance, which America would shortly be taking up. Speaking of immigration laws, he said the British dominions had a way of dealing with the question that made the United States quota look like a Sunday school.

He predicted disappointment in the present disarmament conference, but said the most one could look for from it would be a five-year holiday in battleship building and at the end of that time the folly of battleship building would be seen. Much depends upon understanding between English-speaking peoples and especially upon a full, friendly understanding between Great Britain and the United States, he declared.

In the afternoon Mr. Ratcliffe addressed the Sewickley Valley Woman's Club on the same subject and afterward was guest of honor at a small dinner party given by the president, Mrs. Marcus W. Stoner, in her home.

AN outstanding event on the year for the Mothers' Club of Carrick will be the presentation under auspices of the drama committee of "Once There Was a Princess," Juliet Wilbur Thompkins' play. It will be given by a cast of club members in Carrick High School Friday evening, March 14. Mrs. O. H. Graf is chairman of tickets for the play.

Others on her committee are Mrs. W. H. McCombs, Mrs. Frank Beech, Mrs. A. W. Robertson, Mrs. Harry New, Mrs. A. J. Greiner, Mrs. John M. Philips, Mrs. A. H. Snitzer, Mrs. Carl P. Kerr and Mrs. Alex Hahn. Mrs. Harold C. Seaman is general chairman. Mrs. John T. Anderson, chairman of programs; Mrs. D. J. McGibney, of ushers, and Mrs. Frank Beech, of publicity.

SWEATERS ARE ELEVATED TO A NEW SILHOUETTE

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Feb. 18. — That even the sweater has higher leanings is evident from the silhouette of the new models seen along the Riviera. Yes, the new sweaters actually can boast of a silhouette since they have subscribed to the higher waistline movement, as have most of the sports frocks, even those put out by Molyneux who [illegible] one of the very last to succumb to the higher influence.

The high waisted jumpers look best on the slim youthful type, but this will not deter the woman who is determined to wear the latest regardless of the results, which may be somewhat unsuccessful. The well dressed woman always manages to capture the spirit of the mode and subdue it to her own personality.

THE shops at the various Riviera resorts are delightful. Many of the leading Paris houses have branch establishments at Monte Carlo, at Cannes and at Nice. These little shops are just full of charming novelties that later on will be copied and seen everywhere. Clever little sports hats, tricky umbrellas and that somehow do not look as if they were designed for practical purposes, delightful scarfs and unique handbags, these are just some of the trifles that make shopping here a voyage of discovery. The handbags especially are dangerously alluring. Much use is made of wool for frames, and heaps of fabric bags are beshown and worn.

SHOWN today are a few gleanings from the harvest of a morning's browsing in the shops along the Crousette at Cannes. The first is, of course, a hat from the very smart branch establishment of Maria Guy, of the Place Vendome, in Paris. The hat sketched is of pale green wool, thick strands of which are whipped together with cross threads in exactly the same way as was used by our grandmothers to make rag rugs. This supple little hat may be manipulated and draped to suit the wearer.

THIS house also shows the amusing and very short green umbrella. It nestles within a stiff morocco leather case, also green, the end of which is tipped with a heavy silk tassel. At the other end one sees the leather loop attached to the handle of the umbrella. The purse is also from the Maria Guy establishment. It is of white crepe marocain stitched in a quilted effect and bound on the edges with a narrow black piping. The top is of ebony with a sporty carved handle depicting a racing whippet.

THE sweater was worn by a girl who was earnestly contemplating the wares offered by a handbag shop. It is of the very new high waisted variety which has the ribbed border that formerly spanned the hips, lifted to a point well above the waistline and nipped in slightly. The model shown here is in beige with two shades of green, a silk and wool mixture hand-knit. Both purse are of white oilcloth lined and piped with black kid. At the left the purse which is flat fastens with a large round button of black and white inlaid wool. The other, a bag of moderate size, has a heavy handle of black wool, which is probably ebony.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Widower Bridegroom

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I am going to be married to a widower. He is 29 and I am 21 years of age. Would it be proper for me to wear white satin and a veil?

2. Should he invite his mother-in-law to the wedding? I am not acquainted with her, although my fiance and she are very good friends.

A. R.

YES, since you have not been married before, this will be quite correct for you to wear.

2. Yes. This would be a very gracious thing for your fiance to do. Indeed, since he and his mother-in-law are good friends, it would be most impolite for him not to invite her to his wedding. At least he will have made the polite gesture, and then she can use her own judgment and choice as to whether or not she wishes to attend the wedding. I hope that she does attend, for it would be an es-

IS better not to. But sometimes in a restaurant, when the tables are rather small, and the place usually rather noisy, this is permissible, if it is done with an air of not too lounge-y.

Expresses Appreciation to Kellogg Company for Relief

If you are troubled with constipation, this letter from Mr. John J. Mulligan, 300 So. Cicero Avenue, Chicago, Ill., will interest you:

"This is simply a letter of appreciation for the wonderful results I have obtained through the use of Kellogg's ALL-BRAN.

"For years, in fact ever since my return from France, I have been troubled with constipation and its companion ills. I tried numerous remedies in vain. Finally in desperation, not wishing to be a slave to laxatives all my life, I turned to Kellogg's ALL-BRAN. The results were remarkable and quick—in fact the next day long-hoped-for relief became a happy reality."

The Kellogg Company has received thousands of similar letters in praise of ALL-BRAN, the product that is positively guaranteed to relieve both temporary and recurring constipation.

It also adds needed iron to the diet and builds health.

Eat Kellogg's ALL-BRAN with milk or cream . . . in soups, salads and fruit juices . . . in cooked foods and hot breads. Your grocer has ALL-BRAN in the red-and-green package. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

DON'T LET STOMACH TROUBLE WRECK YOUR LIFE

People Reared in the Country Often Lose Their Health When They Move to Town.

The story told in the following letter from Mrs. Hutkins of Duquesne, Pa., has happened to hundreds of other country folks moving to town:

"I was raised to eat good plain country food," writes Mrs. Hutkins. "Back home we grew nearly everything that went on our table, right on our own place. When we moved to town I could not get used to living on things out of cans and packages. City life in this climate did not agree with me. By and by I developed stomach trouble. I was constipated most of the time and had terrible headaches as a result. Sour burning gases formed in my stomach after eating, and my stomach would swell up and get hard like a rock. I grew weak and could scarcely do my work. When I was at my worst the neighborhood druggist told me about World's Tonic. I had spent a lot of money for different medicines and none had helped me. So I was doubtful at first. But after I learned that World's Tonic was made from plants and herbs grown in their natural state, in different parts of the world, I decided to give it a trial. After using the first bottle of World's Tonic I realized that it was different from all other medicines I had ever used. From the first dose I felt the benefit of the natural herbs. World's Tonic seemed to give me exactly those necessary helpful elements which were missing in my body. Constipation left me, and the other painful symptoms disappeared within a short time. I now have a fine appetite, eat anything I want, and feel good all the time."

THAT COMMANDS ADMIRATION!

ELINOR GLYN tells the women of PITTSBURGH

I KNOW a girl who is neither beautiful nor very plain. Just ordinarily good looking, like most of us.

But she has a serene poise that commands admiration; men instinctively stop to look at her, are proud to be seen with her.

She told me once that she deliberately builds up in herself a consciousness of feminine charm. She realizes that she herself must first be convinced of her own dainty femininity before she can impress others.

Wisely, she begins with her clothes.

One of the surest ways to gain perfect confidence in one's dainty, lovely femininity, she explains, is to have every bit of lingerie as delicate, colorful, charming as possible.

"When I wear these lovely, colorful, feminine things, I feel charming, and therefore I am," she says.

Keep Colors Lovely

But, women tell me, it is so difficult to wear lovely underthings always and keep them looking as wonderful, as colorful, as when they were new. Frequent washing (and we must be dainty) takes some of the lovely color and charm out of the garment.

To this I reply, that is too often the case, but it need never be so if women faithfully use that invaluable product, Lux—which is made especially to cleanse without disturbing the vibrant loveliness of the colors. If a garment is safe in plain water alone, it is just as safe in Lux.

And in Your Home, Too

Pride in a charming home gives you poise, too, and here Lux is also an invaluable aid. As in the case of your dainty lingerie—frocks, blouses, scarfs, too—so with your draperies, linens, slip covers. Ordinary soaps will take away some of the color pigment, whereas Lux preserves colors and textures in their perfect, new state.—Elinor Glyn.

Pattern 1777

Sun-Telegraph Sew Practical Pattern

By ANNE ADAMS

The small set will adore this little wool ensemble for school or play. It consists of oblique jacket and skirt. The skirt is pleated and both skirt and jacket are cleverly trimmed with bands of contrasting wool. Two buttons fasten the jacket in cardigan effect.

For a practical as well as a thrilling I would suggest a set of challis or sheer wool in printed plaid or wool. For spring dupe would be lovely.

The jacket which is sleeveless may be made of silk crepe pointer check in contrasting dupe.

Designed for sizes 2, 4, 6 and 8 years. Size 4 requires 1¾ yards 54-inch material, and ¾ yards 36-inch contrasting.

Not a difficult or expensive set to make. This model has ample and exact instructions. Yardage is given for every size. A perfect fit is guaranteed.

Patterns will be delivered upon receipt of FIFTEEN CENTS (15c) in coins carefully wrapped or stamps. Be sure to write plainly your NAME, ADDRESS, STYLE NUMBER and SIZE wanted.

OUR NEW SPRING BOOK of PATTERN STYLES is now ready. Price FIFTEEN CENTS, but only TEN CENTS when ordered with a pattern. Address all mail and orders to Sun-Telegraph Pattern Department, 243 West Seventeenth street, New York City.

K. OF C. TO STOP LOTTERY

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Feb. 18.—(AP)—The Knights of Columbus announced at its headquarters here that it had received reports that tickets for a lottery represented as a Knights of Columbus charity sweepstakes still were being circulated in the United States.

The organization through Luke E. Hart, supreme advocate, has arranged to have a fraud order issued by the Postoffice Department to prevent mail from being transmitted to the operators of the lottery in Hull, Quebec, who are using the name of the order and the number assigned to the Hull Council.

TWO MEN FINED IN LOTTERY

YOUNGSTOWN, O., Feb. 18.—Pleading guilty to charges of operating a lottery, John Sedgrick, 37, of Pittsburgh, and H. L. Stitt, 42, former United States Department of Justice operative at Pittsburgh, were fined and given jail sentences by Judge Clifford M. Woodside. The men are alleged to be leaders of a lottery ring which has been operating in this section.

Prosecutor Ray Thomas asked leniency for the men, and the jail sentences were remitted because of the help they gave in cleaning up the local situation.

Mail Flier Saved In Parachute Leap

FLINT, Mich., Feb. 18. (AP)—Clifford W. March, 28, of Bay City, pilot of a Cleveland-Bay City air mail plane, saved his life by leaping from his plane in a parachute early this morning when the motor failed and the ship went into a spin at 1,000 feet, a mile northeast of Flint.

The plane was wrecked, but three pouches of mail were saved.

Here's how Jack Sharkey, America's hope for the vacant heavyweight championship, says he will knock out Phil Scott, the British champion, in their scheduled 15-round bout at Miami, Fla., Thursday night of next week. The winner meets Max Schmeling, of Germany, in New York in June with the crown at stake. Thus it is Sharkey against two foreign invaders. Sharkey stopped Tommy Loughran in three rounds his last time out and he says he will hand out the same dose to Scott. Jack's sparring partner in the above posed pictures is Johnny Grosso, of New York.

PIRATES DEPART TONIGHT

SPORT COMMENT
by JAMES J. LONG

Year's Pirate Changes. New Pilot, New Players. Right Qualities in Ens.

Decathlon Repeating. East Spurns New Class. Effects of Ruth's Pay.

BUCS IMPROVED SINCE LAST SPRING

THE departure of the Pirate advance guard tonight for the spring training camp at Paso Robles, headed by Vice President Sam Dreyfuss and Manager Jewel Ens, marks the first step of the Pittsburgh baseball club in another pennant campaign. The answer to the question as to what the outcome will be is hidden far in the future. In fact, the uncertainty enshrouding the Bucs as they start on their 1930 conditioning trip is even greater than it generally is in the spring, for in addition to making the fight with a changed lineup they are also to work under the direction of a new pilot.

Jewel Ens

At least, Ens must be classed as new as far as starting a fresh season is concerned, for the comparatively short time he served as leader during the latter part of the 1929 race could hardly be called a fair test.

With all due allowance for the things that remained to be proved, however, both as to the strength of the altered club and the quality of the leadership, local fans are able to view the situation with a feeling that is decidedly optimistic. There is the best of ground for confidence in both Ens and the team.

ENS appears to lack none of the requisites of a successful leader. He showed every evidence of managerial worth while in charge of the club for the last six weeks of the 1929 campaign. He knows his baseball book thoroughly, is smart and resourceful and has the friendship and respect of every man on the squad.

With the new manager thus equipped and fortified, no good reason is apparent why Ens should not succeed. True, there is no telling in advance about managers. The handling of men is the big thing, and only the acid test of a real season can prove or disprove ability in that line. But Jewel at least starts out with splendid prospects. The co-operation of his players appears to be all that he will need, and he strikes you as being a fellow who will get that, 100 per cent.

MOREOVER, Ens has made a move that can hardly fail to help both himself and the club in taking on Max Carey as a coach. That's one acquisition that seems certain to bring good results. It's a real gain from more than one angle.

Carey ought to prove one of the most valuable coaches and lieutenants in the business. Not only can he teach the Rovers a lot about base-running, but there are no smarter baseball men in a general sense and the Buc management could not have picked up a more valuable asset for the new role he is to fill here.

Max Carey

MANY of the men who were on the Pittsburgh roster when the crew started on its training cruise a year ago are missing today. Included among them are Earl Sheely, Sparky Adams, Carmen Hill, Fred Fussell, Joe Dawson, Coburn Jones, Harry Riconda, Claude Linton, Jim Stroner, Willis Windle, Lee Roy Mahaffey, Walter Tauscher, Carl Frey, Homer Blankenship and Basil Panella. Only Adams, Hill, Riconda and Mahaffey are on big league squads at present, and one or two of them may not be there at the finish. Even if they do stick, it must be admitted that they did not promise to be of any further service here. Mahaffey is being boosted as an uncommonly good pitching prospect for the Athletics, but whether he is any better than he was while a Pirate remains to be seen. If he isn't, you can scan the whole list of discards without discovering that the Corsairs have lost anything.

THE changes in the regular lineup, as compared with that of a year ago, show Gus Suhr supplanting Sheely at first base, George Grantham going back to second, and a capable shortstop likely to be found among Dick Bartell, Stuart Clarke, Charley Engle and Ben Sankey.

Suhr will give the club more speed and hitting power to counterbalance the loss of Sheely's admittedly superior fielding ability. The boast leaguer ought to win many more games with his bat than he is apt to lose through fielding flaws. With a chance to become settled in one job, Grantham at second looms even more promisingly than in the past as one of the most valuable players in the country.

IF Burleigh Grimes is signed eventually, the Bucs will have in line again the best of their old pitchers, with the addition of another

A. M. A. DISTRICT TO GIVE UP W. VA.

By HARRY KECK.
Sports Editor.

West Virginia will get "home rule" in amateur athletics if a plan now under consideration goes through, according to Charles L. Ornstein, of Washington, chairman of the National A. A. U. redistricting committee, who is in Pittsburgh on business and A. A. U. affairs. The move will mean that the West Virginia territory will be lopped off the Allegheny Mountain Association of the A. A. U., which has its headquarters in Pittsburgh.

C. L. Ornstein

Ornstein, a power in A. A. U. circles, has been identified with amateur sports for more than 20 years, dividing his time between his business and active participation in the administration of amateur sports. He is assistant general manager of the Maddux chain of hotels, of which the Fairfax here is one. He also is a member of the executive committee of the American Olympic Committee, former vice president of the National A. A. U. and former civilian athletic director of the Third Corps area of the United States Army, with headquarters in Baltimore. He was one of the men instrumental in having the mammoth Baltimore Stadium built to house the Third Corps-Quantico Marines game a half-dozen years ago.

CONFERENCE HERE TODAY

In explaining the West Virginia situation, Ornstein, who has a conference slated for today on the matter with John T. Taylor, secretary-treasurer of the Allegheny Mountain Association, said the plan was in line with changes made in other associations. It was found, he said, that expansion was encouraged by breaking up unwieldy territories and forming new members in districts sufficiently large to justify such recognition. Outlying territories cannot be very well handled from central points in large associations and their growth is stifled. However, given the impetus of their own organization, they blossom out and become active groups.

Last year, according to Ornstein, the A. M. A. officials protested against the plan to alienate West Virginia from this territory, but they now have been won over to the idea and will go along with it unless an unexpected hitch develops.

Similar splitting up of territory, Ornstein pointed out, has occurred in the East, where New Jersey has been taken out of the Metropolitan Association and become a separate organization, and the District of Columbia has been disassociated from the South Atlantic body. Other similar changes are contemplated.

FIRST CORSAIR SQUAD OFF AT 9:30

By CHARLES J. DOYLE.

The Pirate offices today were a-flutter with clean-limbed young men who were ordered to report bright and early in order to be all set for the departure tonight for Paso Robles. At 9:30 o'clock the first squad will pull out for Chicago aboard one of the flyers of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad.

The party leaving Pittsburgh will consist of seven athletes, together with as many others. Manager Jewel Ens welcomed five of his players and Coach Scoops Carey, the latter reaching Pittsburgh yesterday.

The other athletes reaching town were Charley Hargreaves, of Mercerville, N. J.; Rolly Hemsley, of Syracuse, O.; Leon Chagnon, of Amesbury, Mass., and Floyd Young, of Jamestown, S. C. Johnny O'Connell came over from Verona to join the group. Jess Petty was to have come to Pittsburgh from Hot Springs, but the Silver Fox changed his mind and will hook up with the advance guard in Kansas City.

CHICAGO FIRST STOP

Vice President Sam Dreyfuss, Dr. William Marks, Trainer George Aston and several newspapermen will complete the group leaving Pittsburgh.

The little squad is due to reach Chicago tomorrow morning at 8 o'clock. At that stop five others will entrain. They are, Andy Bednar, Ervin Brame, Glenn Spencer, Bernard Walter and Dr. Charles A. Jorgensen, the trainer. After a layover of several hours the augmented party will leave the Santa Fe station for Kansas City, the second stop.

The crew to be picked up at the mid-western city consists of, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Meine, Walter Meine, Jess Petty, Lil Stoner, Al Bool, Martin Lang, Hal Finney, Charley Engle and Ben Sankey. There will be further additions until the squad reaches Los Angeles, where Steve Swetonic and two other recruits will be waiting. The new men are Herbert Sanders and Ivan Green.

REACH CAMP SATURDAY

Paso Robles is due to be reached Saturday afternoon. Waiting there will be no less than eight members of the Pirates family, including Remy Kremer, Larry French, Jimmy Mosolf, Stuart Clarke, Ralph Erickson, Oscar Stanage, Chick Fraser and Joe Devine.

Thus it will be seen that the advance guard will consist of 40 or more persons by the time the training camp is reached. When the second section arrives eight days later, the Pittsburgh tourists will number more than 60 people.

Burleigh Grimes, holdout pitcher of the Pirates, made an unexpected visit to Pittsburgh yesterday afternoon, but he said his mission was to dispose of one of his horses to a friend. He did not talk business to his employers, although he spent a few minutes at headquarters.

"We did not discuss the salary question at all," said Sam Dreyfuss.

CUBS LEAVE TODAY

CHICAGO, Feb. 18 — (AP.)—Enthusiastic over repeating in the National League championship race, Manager Joe McCarthy of the Cubs came to town today and made final preparations for the first squad's getaway for Catalina Island this afternoon.

"We're going to have another big season," McCarthy beamed. "If Hartnett's arm is O. K. again, and if our pitchers are as good as last year, we'll win."

Manse Joe held a secret conference with Cub officials, met a few rookies and said everything was set. He was especially elated over the acquisition of Lester Bell, who is expected to give him a hitting third baseman.

Between Rounds

Jackie Rodgers and Howard Mackerry have been signed to box at the Monte Temple on the night of March 7 instead of February 28 as originally planned. Buck McNamara may make his reappearance in the ring in the windup of the Feb. fisty 28 show and Dominick Pinto and Cowboy DeLura will be the headliners March 14.

Peaches Gallagher, of Bellevue, has been matched to box Mike Hogan, of the North Side, in the opening bout at the Monte Temple next Friday night, thus completing the card. Tom Malee and Young Joe Walcott are in the main bout, Jack Wilson and Chuck Reinach in the semi-final and Johnny Smackey and Andy Andrucci in the second event.

Tug Phillips books Joey Goffman and Chi Graham meets Jimmy Reed in two 10-round bouts at Erie, Friday night. Ray Collins meets Johnny Baron and Frank Murphy is in with Leo Rant in the two six-rounders.

Jack Benton, of Braddock, will be one

Wrestler Thrown By Lewis Injured

SEATTLE, Wash., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Injured in his wrestling bout with Ed (Strangler) Lewis, former world champion, Charley Hansen, Seattle, was taken to a hospital. He was in a serious condition, doctors said, from convulsions. Lewis won the match.

During the early part of the sixth round Lewis landed a terrific "rabbit punch" and Hansen dropped to his knees. He came up dazed and Lewis clamped on a headlock. After having been thrown to the mat Hansen was seized with convulsions and was unable to finish the scheduled eight-round match.

Physicians at the hospital said that although he appeared to be badly injured, he would recover.

Sears, Former McKeesport Cage Star, Dies

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Andy (Hano) Sears, professional basketball player and holder of the world record for free throws during a game, died last night in his home at Chicopee Falls. He was 54.

Sears played league basketball for a number of years and performed with the leading stars. He made his world record of 21 successful free throws while a member of the McKeesport, Pa., team. He retired in 1921 after playing in the interstate league.

Carlson Would Call Fouls on Own Team

Dr. H. C. Carlson, head basketball coach at Pitt, has a bright, new suggestion which he thinks will prove of value to the court game.

Dr. Carlson has suggested to Dutch Hermann, coach at Penn State that he and Dutch call the fouls in the Pitt-Penn State game at State College next month, the game being played without officials except for the toss at center. Doc wants to call the fouls on his team and have Dutch do the same for the Lions.

LOCAL BOXER LOSES

FLINT, Mich., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Charles (Chuck) Taggart, of Pittsburgh, lost a decision to A. D. Kuhlow, of Detroit, in an eight-round boxing match here last night. Taggart weighed 170; Kuhlow 168.

Garbark Elected, Crum Retained At Allegheny

MEADVILLE, Pa., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Robert G. Garbark, Pittsburgh, yesterday was elected football captain of the Allegheny College squad for next season at a meeting of letter men. Garbark, a sophomore, has played at fullback for Allegheny for two seasons. He also is a guard on the college basketball team.

Harry W. (Maude) Crum, football coach, was reappointed for another season by the athletic board of control. His team, during his first season last fall, won two, tied two and lost two against major opposition.

Whichone, Boojum Out of 'Tucky Derby

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Whichone and Boojum, crack juveniles of 1929, will not run in the Kentucky Derby next May, Tom Healy, trainer for H. P. Whitney, said at the Whitney farm at Red Bank, N. J., yesterday.

The Whitney pair were favorites in the winter books on the Kentucky Derby, some money having already been bet upon their chances at short odds.

Rapid Night Sports Growth Predicted

J. A. Summers, addressing a group of illuminating engineers at a meeting at the William Penn Hotel last night, predicted a general and rapid growth in after-dark sports competitions. Night football, very popular here, will be joined by tennis, golf, baseball and horse racing on the night sports calendar within a few years, Summers said.

The standards of Pitt and Duquesne will be put into battle for two fouls tonight as the Panthers move on Washington for a Big Four basketball tussle with Wash.-Jeff and the Dukes prepare to repulse the attack of Waynesburg's Yellow Jackets on the Bluff court in a Conference embroglio.

Frank Wolf

The general college care for tonight is a pleasing one as our Charley Doyle would put it. Besides the two games interesting Pitt and the Dukes, Westminster plays a return game with Allegheny at Meadville. Don't be surprised if the Titans drop this one.

JACKETS HAVE COLOR

The appearance here of the Yellow Jackets is always more or less of an event. For a ball club that does not play any more games than the Waynesburg Five Wolf's club has a lot of color. Winning or losing, the Waynesburg always draws a crowd. Personally I think because the latter counted on the Jackets for a great fight.

Waynesburg gained fame this year when it defeated Geneva last week. The victory was the only Conference win scored by the Jackets, but as it practically knocked the Covenanters out of the title running once and for all, it was an important one.

Wash.-Jeff hardly figures to take Pitt tonight though you never can tell. Dr. Carlson will take his Panther squad out of here early this afternoon via a special bus. A win for Pitt will give it undisputed leadership of the Big Four and the same goes for the Prexys.

TECH GOES FAST

Carnegie Tech still walking on air after the decisive triumph of Saturday over Penn State will leave town for a three-game swing through the east tonight. Tomorrow the Tartans face the Army at West Point. On Friday they meet New York U. C. and on Saturday, New York University.

The Giants joined the National League eight years after its inception. John B. Day was the first president and Jim Murtrie first manager. The Giants finished sixth in their first year in the league, winning 46 and losing 50 games for a percentage of .479. The team hit .27[illegible] and fielded .825.

Among the 15,000 spectators who witnessed the Giants' opening game was none other than Gen. Grant, who generously applauded the good plays. The crowd was so large that the gates were closed long before game time and the players, garbed in their new uniforms, had to jump the fence to gain admission to the grounds. Pat Gillespie, one of the Giant players, had his uniform torn by coming in contact with a nail on the fence. Very famous players took part in the game, among them probably the greatest catcher and all-round player of his day, Buck Ewing. Other noted players in the game were John M. Ward, Roger Connor, Mickey Welch and Jim Whitney.

By JULIUS LEVIN

The J. J. Veronas will be out to score their sixth straight victory in the second half of the Allegheny County League race tonight when they invade Duquesne to meet the Duquesne Lafayettes in the only league battle on the program tonight.

The Veronas boasting a string of five wins are eager to increase this streak and are confident of adding the defending champions to their list of victims. Tonight's game is one of the two tough contests carded for the Veronas this week, the local Italians being scheduled to meet the Fintex team at Columbus Temple Thursday night.

Geo. Delvecchio

Although triumphant in five straight league games, the Veronas still are threatened by the Goldensons of the South Side who are only one-half game behind the leaders. A defeat for the Verona quintet tonight will result in a deadlock for first place.

The Duquesne Lafayettes seldom lose a game on their home court and the champions feel confident they will check the last of the Veronas. George Ramsay, former star center of the old Pittsburgh Morrys, will be available for duty if necessary. Ramsay, who had been out of the game for more than a year, showed his old-time form in the recent game with the Irene Kaufman Settlement Boys.

George Delvecchio, veteran guard of the Veronas, has been playing a fine role for the Veronas in the second half of the County League fight. His presence in the Verona lineup has done much to place that team in the front of the County League field.

A large crowd of Verona supporters will accompany the Aldermen to Duquesne for the contest.

FINTEX VICTOR

League warfare held the spotlight throughout the district last night. The big game of the night saw the Fintex passers winning their fourth County League tilt in the second half, beating Allentown 36 to 29. The Schneiders nosed out Kingsley House 33 to 31 and Y. M. H. A. tripped the Falcons 47 to 43 in the West Penn circuit.

I. K. R. won over St. Anne's 36 to 26 in the Metropolitan Bloc as it tripped Pressed Steel 30 to 15 and P. & L. E. downed Westinghouse 59 to 17 in the C. & I. and Manchester Community defeated National Music 22 to 15 in the Central loop.

Mt. Lebanon lost to Sharpsburg Y. 38 to 24 in the Greater Pittsburgh League. Bellesby defeated Philadelphia Co. 37 to 26 and Sales and Service toppled Pittsburgh Railways 37 to 18 in the Philadelphia Co. loop, and the Pecey Cadets beat the M. S. Browns 71-17 in the Junior League.

A. A. U. tournament games saw North Side Community eliminate Y. M. H. A. 38 to 23. Heinz House beat Immaculate Heart, 37 to 35, and Mt. Washington Triangles down the Daro Club, 22 to 16.

VANITIES WIN

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Feb. 18.—The Goldenson Vanities, champion girl team of Pittsburgh, defeated the local Pirate Girls for the second time by a 39-16 score at the Normal School gym here last night. Leona Cantwell featured with eight field goals. The lineup:

| Vanities 39 | | Fairmont 16 |

SOUTH HILLS OUT TO CLINCH TITLE TODAY

TUNNELITES MUST PASS CARRICK

South Hills High's snappy basketball team can clinch the championship of Section II of the City League by turning back Carrick this afternoon in what appears to be the feature game of the day's scholastic cage card. With nine triumphs against only two defeats, even a loss today will assure the Cuddeback-coached passers at least a tie with the second-place Perry five.

The South Hills-Carrick contest tops the program, because a championship may be decided, but there are important tussles in Section I, where South and Fifth are battling for the title. South, playing Westinghouse on the Market House floor, can clinch at least a tie by beating the Silver Lakers, forcing Fifth to beat Peabody today and then South on Friday to gain even a deadlock.

FIFTH CHANCE SLIGHT

Fifth's only chance of winning the championship without going into a playoff series is to win both its games this week and have Westinghouse upset the dope and take the Washabaughmen this afternoon.

The other contest in Section I brings together Allderdice and Ralston at Ralston. In Section II, Oliver and Perry clash at Perry and Langley meets Allegheny on the North Siders' court.

The program in the W. P. I. A. L. brings nine of the 15 sections into action. In Section I, the leading New Kensington quintet invades Freeport for a tussle with the last placers. Aliquippa champs in Section IV plays Freedom at Freedom.

MONESSEN AHEAD

Monessen, away out in front in Section V, tackles South Brownsville on the home court. Ford City, almost certain to retain its title in Section VI, meets a tough one in Leechburg. Turtle Creek and North Braddock clash in the Section VIII feature. In Section IX, unbeaten Coraopolis plays Stowe at Stowe and North Union, on the trail of the Section XIII title, needs a win over German to make the way clearer.

One game was played in the W. P. I. A. L. yesterday, Jeannette nosing out Uniontown, 13 to 12, in Section 10. In another school game, Catholic High set down Sacred Heart, 22 to 14.

ROSIES TOP PATERSON

CLEVELAND, Feb. 18.—Presenting a fine exhibition of defensive play, with a combination of accuracy in shooting and passing, the Cleveland Rosenblums won a brilliant game from Paterson, 28 to 18, here last night. Borgerman and Bruns, rested along with Thew Banks as the league's greatest shots, had a merry evening spree, but the former Cadiz star came out on top, leading six field goals in the second half while Bruns raged fire.

JONES IN TOURNEY

ATLANTA, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Bobby Jones, national open golf champion, announced today that he would enter the three-day 72-hole open golf tournament starting at Savannah Thursday. With the exception of a few practice rounds Jones has not competed in tournament play since the national amateur championship in Philadelphia last summer.

Pirates Play Senators at Ottawa Tonight

Group of Pirates and Charles J. Doyle, baseball writer of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, snapped at Forbes Field this morning as the Corsairs' advance squad gathered preparatory to leaving tonight for the training camp at Paso Robles, Cal. Max Carey, new coach; Ralston Hemsley, catcher, and Floyd Young, rookie infielder and outfielder, also were in town.

PIRATES PLAY SENATORS TONIGHT

OTTAWA, Feb. 18.—The Pittsburgh Pirates and the Ottawa Senators will close their season series of four games when they meet here tonight. The local skaters gained a 2-1 edge over the visitors in three previous meetings and they rule favorites to increase their advantage in the finale.

The fray here will mark the start of the second successive week of touring for the Pittsburghers but they appear to be holding up well under the strain of their record-breaking road trip. They gave the Maroons, International Group leaders, a stirring battle before bowing by a 3-1 score in Montreal Saturday night and the Senators realize that Benny Leonard's cellar champs are not to be held cheaply. The locals are fighting to protect third place from the Toronto Leafs and they are prepared for a real fight.

Rumors that only four members of the present Pirate squad would represent Pittsburgh next season, circulated here after it was learned that Manager Frank Frederickson was signing Canadian minor league stars in wholesale lots, were scouted by Secretary Garry Schmeelk, now acting as pilot.

The rumors have it that Milks Darragh, Lowrey and Jarvis are the only men who will be retained but Schmeelk pointed out that Manners is a young player of such promise that he is not likely to be turned loose, that Miller is a goalie whose equal is not uncovered every day, that Fraser has proven himself a willing worker and that MacKinnon stands high in the regard of the Pirate chief.

The Pirates are to play in Toronto Thursday, after which they will return home to welcome the Montreal heavyweights to Duquesne Garden on Saturday night. The probable lineup:

| Pittsburgh | | Ottawa |
|---|---|---|
| Miller | G | Roche |
| MacKinnon | P | Benedict |
| Mike | D | Shields |
| Fraser | C | Lamb |
| Darragh | W | Finnigan |
| Lowrey | W | H. Kilrea |

Spares: Pittsburgh, Irvin, Jarvis, Barbe; Ottawa, Manners, E. Smith, Spring, Ottawa Gagne, Cox, Trudel, W. Kilrea, Hutton, A. Smith, Howe, Starr.

Horton Smith Sought By New York Club

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—Horton Smith, youthful Joplin Mo., golf star, may soon join the ranks of the New York professionals it was reported today, following negotiations between Smith and the directors of the Cragston Yacht and Country Clubs, now under construction on the J. Pierpont Morgan estate near West Point.

The new Cragston club will not be completed for several months, but Smith, if he comes to terms, will assume his new duties around March 1.

RAIN HALTS GOLF PLAY

PALM BEACH, Fla., Feb. 18.—Mrs. L. G. Riley, of Pittsburgh, teed off this morning in the qualifying round for the Florida women's championship over the Palm Beach Country Club course. She had finished the first few holes in the 18-hole test yesterday when the incessant rain and a blustering wind across the links forced her and 30 others to discontinue further play.

Among the others besides Mrs. Riley who were out on the course when play was halted were: Maureen Orcutt, of Englewood, N. J., metropolitan and Eastern champion; Virginia Van Wie, of Chicago; Mrs. Dorothy Klotz Pardue, of Sioux City, Ia., Florida champion in 1927; Bernice Wall, of Oshkosh, Wisconsin state titleholder; Fritzie Stiffel, of Wheeling, W. Va.; Mrs. Stewart Hanley, of Detroit, and Marion Bennett, of New Britain.

LOCALS NEAR TOP

PINEHURST, N. C., Feb. 18.—Several Pittsburgh golfers played among the 65 to compete in the Tin Whistle event here yesterday, a best selected 12 holes contest. Among them were:

Class A—R. G. Morrison, Oakmont, 43; C. B. Hollingsworth, Greensburg, 44; W. C. Fownes, Jr., Oakmont, 44; Tom Morrison, Oakmont, 47.

OPEKUN QUITS PENN

RANGERS GET PETERS

Bill Regan Signs Boston Red Sox Contract

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—William Regan, of Pittsburgh, second baseman of the Boston Red Sox, has returned his signed contract to the Red Sox management, Phil J. Todt, of St. Louis, it was announced, has also enrolled for this year.

The coming season will be Regan's fifth with the local team. He joined the Red Sox in 1926, coming here from Columbus in the American Association. Regan's professional baseball career started with the Kitchener club of the Michigan-Ontario League in 1921. He played with Kitchener in 1922, and in 1923 and 1924 was with Flint and the following year advanced to the American Association.

of the principals in the second bout at McKeesport Thursday night, when Gene Moretti and Mickey Reigan meet in the main bout, and Danny Russell opposes Harry Levine in the semi-final.

BELMONT VS. HAMBRIGHT

Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, who has not been active since his bout with Tiger Joe Randall at Motor Square Garden Christmas afternoon, and Vincent Hambright, Pittsburgh welterweight, of Cincinnati, have been matched to box the main bout of the opening show of the new club which will operate in the upstairs hall of Duquesne Gardens. The show will be held Wednesday night of next week. Harry Williams, Negro light-heavyweight, will be one of the principals in the semi-final.

A yard of eight amateur boxing bouts will be held under the auspices of the Homewood Progressive Club in the Penn armory, East End tonight. Mickey Cullinan, world junior welterweight champion, to use Jack (Kid) Berg as a boy this bout in London. Other bouts listed tonight in clude: Angus Souder vs. Duke Hurle, St. Paul; Al Brown vs. Johnny Cannonan and Herbie Hart vs. Dan Bullock, Allentown, Pa.; Sid Terris vs. Charles (Charles Brown, the Young Firpo) vs. Joe Fontaine, Portland, Ore.; Tony Fuente vs. Harry Dillon, Seattle, and Lee Kennedy vs. Dynamite Jackson, Los Angeles.

Jimmy Mahoney, of Chicago, and Sam Weiss, of Philadelphia, featherweights, have been matched to box the main bout at the Jolly Bowl, New Castle, next Monday night. Bud Dempsey, of Ambridge, and Jackie Ward, of Cleveland, will box the semi-final.

Larry Brignolia, Erie welterweight, will leave next month for a campaign in the Italian rings. He has been signed in advance for five bouts.

DALEY BEATS SIMPSON

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—A pair of startling upsets marked the New York A. C. games at Madison Square Garden last night. George Simpson, holder of the world record for the 100-yard dash, bowed to Jimmy Daley, of Holy Cross College, in a 60-yard sprint, and Fred Sturdy, former Yale sensation, finished third in the pole vault back of Tom Warne, Northwestern University, and Barney Berlinger, of Penn.

The Holy Cross spedster beat Simpson by a yard in 6 3-5 seconds.

Ray Conger ran the fastest mile of the season—4:19 4-5—in chalking up his fifth straight victory at the distance.

MILLER FOULS FOLINS

NEWARK, N. J., Feb. 18.—Ray Miller, Chicago lightweight star, lost on a foul to Herman Folins, Ambridge, Pa., last night in the eighth round of their scheduled 10-round main bout. Miller was sporting a comfortable lead on points when he struck the ivy blow.

NEW GROUNDS FOR CHISOX

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Manager Donie Bush took one sweeping look at the yard picked for the White Sox spring training ground yesterday and decided to move.

The diamond, located to the rear of the St. Mary College campus, was rought and dangerous, and Manager Bush labeled it a "suicide plot."

Until a new diamond is located, Bush will train his men at the San Antonio Texas League club park. The baseball field at Fort Sam Houston, on the outskirts of San Antonio, also was under consideration.

ROBINS SIGN SCOUT

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Another scout has been added to the Brooklyn Robins' staff in the person of Joe Becker, International League umpire last year and a Pacific Coast League umpire for six preceding years. Becker has been assigned to do his scouting in the Far West.

BRAVES GET HURLER

BOSTON, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Ray Flaherty, a semi-pro pitcher from Spokane, Wash., was acquired by the Boston Braves yesterday.

LENA TO AID KILLEFER

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—Lena Blackburne, ex-White Sox manager, has signed to help Bill Killefer, manager of the St. Louis Browns, this year.

Blackburne was much sought after by several minor league clubs, but when Killefer offered him a contract, the New Jersey veteran decided to join the Mound City team.

LINDSTROM NOT FOR SALE

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(INS.)—Secretary Jim Tierney, of the New York Giants, today denied that the Chicago Cubs had made an offer for Fred Lindstrom, youthful third sacker. Moreover, he said that the Giants are not selling ball players, but are trying to buy them.

MUNHALL CELEBRATES

Sport Vignettes

Yesterday, this column wound up with comment on Roy Riegels, University of California football player, who has lived down the perpetrating of one of the most famous "bonehead" plays in history, that of losing a Tournament of Roses game by picking up a fumble and running with the ball to within inches of his own goal line . . . . Now Riegels, through with his playing career, is named assistant coach of his alma mater for next season, after having been a brilliant captain during the past season . . . . There is a sermon in the comeback of Riegels worthy of more than passing notice . . . . Many another youth would have been crushed by the stigma that was attached to his name, but Riegels merely girded himself and fought the harder to regain the respect and confidence of his fellow-men and he has succeeded . . . . The true test of a man's mettle comes under fire . . . . He who quits or gives up the fight, "dogging it," as the expression goes, is hopelessly beaten . . . . But he who digs in and plugs away soon loses himself in the fight to redeem himself. The memory of his failure gradually becomes less keen and sooner or later the clouds roll away and the sunshine breaks through for him again . . . . Did you ever see a baseball pitcher who weakened when he got in a jam with men on the bases and the tying or winning run in imminent danger of scoring get anywhere? Contrast him with the winning or "money" pitcher, who bears down just a bit harder when the breaks go against him. The latter is a hard loser, and, being a hard loser, seldom loses . . . . He won't admit defeat or the possibility of defeat, and he struggles on until he comes through with victory perching on his banner . . . . Or the fighter in the ring, who hangs on in a clinch until his head clears and refuses to concede ground to his opponent, who has victory in his grasp. If he sticks it out long enough, he generally forces the tide of battle to swing in his favor . . . . Riegels could have quit in disgrace and lost himself in seclusion, but he chose to fight on to prove that his one atrocious act was a mere lapse . . . . His successful battle for redemption is a bright spot in sporting history . . . . Instead of being a scapegoat and the butt of all jokes, as he was for days after his blunder, he now is entered in the records as a living symbol of hope, a beacon of courage to light the way for others who have tripped up along the way and wonder what the future may hold in store for them . . . . Somehow, Riegels' message seems to say, "Forget the past and fight on and the future will take care of itself."

BRISK RALLIES LIFT STOCK VALUES

Industrials and Utilities Lead Market Upward; New 1930 Highs Made

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—The rally in stock prices, which started around mid-day yesterday, was resumed with vigor in today's market under the leadership of the high grade industrials and public utilities. Scores of issues were marked up 1 to 6 points in the first few hours of trading, many of them to new high levels for the year, while the few stocks which declined in the early trading made up all or part of their losses by early afternoon.

Trading showed a marked expansion in volume, nearly 1,800,000 shares changing hands in the first two hours, with the ticker running 10 or more minutes behind the market most of the day.

Call money renewed unchanged at 4½ per cent with indications that the rate would be maintained all day. Some calling of loans took place during the morning, but these were offset by offerings of new funds. The time money market was quiet.

LOANS DECREASE

Wall Street found plenty of encouragement in the fact that the rise in brokers' loans has not kept pace with the rise in stock prices in the last six weeks, which was construed as an indication that buying was for the account of strong interests. The weekly condition statement of the Federal Reserve showed that security loans of member banks dropped $10,000,000 in the week ended February 12, but they were still $166,000,000 above the total a year ago.

Despite the recent strength of the market and its ability to consolidate the year's gains, several of the conservative commission houses have advised their customers to keep in a liquid position, and not to extend long commitments at this time.

Others continue to recommend individual stocks, which have good earnings prospects this year, regardless of current trends.

STEEL CROSSES 189

U. S. Steel common crossed 189 to the highest price since the November break. Westinghouse Electric moved up about 6 points to 179¼, which contrasts with the low of 100 established last October. American Telephone, Pacific Telephone, National Biscuit (old), Otis Elevator, Air Reduction, Atlas Powder, International Business Machines, Auburn Auto, Warren Bros. and U. S. Industrial Alcohol all sold 4 to 6 points above yesterday's final quotations.

One of the most interesting developments in the day's news was the announcement that steel mill operations generally had been stepped up to 81 per cent of capacity, as against 76½ two weeks ago. Another sharp increase in crude production was reported last week. Otherwise, there was little in the day's news to influence the price movements.

New Fox Meeting Set for March 5

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The special meeting of stockholders of the Fox Film Corporation, at which they will vote to approve or reject the plan for reorganizing the company's finances, submitted at a receivership hearing in Federal Court, has been called for March 5. Action by Judge Frank J. Coleman on a petition for a receiver for the company is being withheld pending the decision of the stockholders. Judge Coleman has stated that he views as improbable any alternative to the plan other than a receivership. However, he has said that if the present plan is rejected, he will be glad to consider any other that may be offered.

The Soundness of Instalment Trade Proved

—By B. C. FORBES—

PESSIMISTS predicted that any considerable unemployment would work terrible havoc throughout the instalment business because, they warned, payments would stop and hundreds of millions' worth of merchandise would have to be taken back by sellers.

Well, we have had and are having quite considerable unemployment, yet these dire predictions have not been fulfilled. Why?

THIS is an extraordinary country. We are the freest spenders in the world, yet we have the greatest total savings of any country in the world. Several million families, it is true, may live from hand to mouth, with little or nothing in reserve for a rainy day. Many of these families may even have their future expected income heavily mortgaged through purchases made on partial-payment plans. Also, it is indisputably true that a very large percentage of Americans reach old age without having built up sufficient financial resources to sustain them without assistance from one source or another.

BUT the inspiring fact remains that the majority of American families succeed somehow in making provision for lean days. Half of the nation's families own their homes. Our building and loan associations, so popular as a means of attaining home ownership, have piled up resources exceeding $8,000,000,000. Bank savings deposits aggregate the colossal sum of $28,000,000,000. Our total banking resources are in excess of $72,000,000,000. Life insurance taken out now tops $103,000,000,000. Between 15,000,000 and 20,000,000 persons own stocks or bonds in American corporations, and the total is constantly lengthening. Millions of workers are members of organizations that provide sick benefits. Group insurance also covers millions of workers.

ALL this tends to provide a cushion against acute distress when industrial and business depression sets in. Unquestionably there is an unpleasantly large number of workers and their families now suffering the pinch of poverty because of scarcity of employment.

Yet a creditably large number—an amazingly large number—of homes whose breadwinners have been thrown idle manage somehow to get along without resorting to dishonesty. They contrive to obtain food, clothing and shelter. Either husband or wife, or both combined, have succeeded in saving something during the days of full-time employment. Indeed, it is the rule rather than the exception for families in America to maintain their self respect when rainy days overtake them.

THAT collections of instalment concerns have fallen off during the last three months cannot be doubted.

But that the alarmist forebodings of pessimists have not materialized also cannot be doubted.

THE record thus far is testimony to the moderation exercised by the wage-earning classes in spite of the many alluring temptations dangled before them to overspend by getting into debt for almost every conceivable kind of goods and chattels. The wagons of the instalment houses are not rolling up to every second door in industrial centers and carting away unpaid-for articles. It can be said that at least thus far the forced recoveries of instalment merchandise have not become a grave problem in the business world.

OF COURSE, it is not to be expected that instalment selling will boom until the business recovery has made distinctly greater progress. Merchants and manufacturers are not keen to push sales among families whose income has stopped. This decrease in instalment selling cannot but enter into calculations of how rapid and vigorous trade revival is likely to be.

The outstanding, gratifying fact, however, is that the country has gone through a spell of contracted industry and contracted employment without precipitating chaos throughout the far-flung instalment business world. And since the prospects are for better, not worse times, it is permissible to reason that the predicted instalment calamities will not occur.

Spain Puts Ban on Imports of Wheat

MADRID, Feb. 18.—To reduce unemployment and boost home industry, the Spanish government has granted the demands of wheat growers for prohibition of imports of grain, it was learned today.

The government will make every effort to aid wheat growers in increasing their production and in insuring a market for their products. Thousands of unemployed will thus be provided with work in the wheat fields. The army and navy will use only home-grown wheat. The wheat growers claimed they were losing 300,000,000 pesetas annually because of the sale of imported wheat.

Williams Stock Increase Approved

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—Stockholders of Transue-Williams Steel Forging Corporation at annual meeting approved directors' proposal to reincorporate company under Delaware laws and to increase authorized capital from 110,000 to 500,000 no par shares.

Radio Industry Sees Better Future

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

THE worst has been passed in the radio industry. This feeling is becoming prevalent in the trade. The infant industry has just gone through the most pronounced depression in its short but violent history and, while there is still much damage to be repaired, the road ahead is clearer now than at any time for several months.

Strange to say, 1929 was the biggest year in the production of radio receiving sets although the final months were disastrous for a very large proportion of the companies in the business.

Overproduction and the business depression following the break in the stock market were the primary causes for the troubles of the radio set makers.

Eight Years Of Growth

IN SPITE of its sensational rise in public favor and the rapid growth in sales during the eight years of its history, the radio industry has had more than its share of grief. Technical developments came too fast for sound manufacturing practice. What was the final word in one year was obsolete the next year. This vastly complicated the problem of production and inventory handling. On the other hand it operated to stimulate sales. Most of the early radio fans have had several sets since broadcasting was in its infancy.

The sudden periods of prosperity and the lure of a new industry constantly recruited manufacturers. In some cases these producers were improperly financed or else were lacking in experience. Productive capacity grew even faster than the public's appetite for the new means of entertainment.

Moving Surplus Stocks

ALTHOUGH there has been severe depressions in the past, these factors brought about the most marked slump at the close of 1929. It has been estimated that surplus stock amounted to nearly 1,500,000 sets. So many producers had been attracted to the business that the annual capacity reached about 15,000,000 sets a year while the normal demand was for only about 4,000,000 sets.

Most of these surplus sets have been sold since the depression started. Production has been curtailed to a point which is more nearly in line with market requirements. This has been accomplished at great cost, however. Prices have been sharply cut and financial casualties have been many.

A Failure A Day

A SHORT time ago radio manufacturers of national importance were failing at the rate of one a day. Fortunately this period has come to an end. Statistics compiled by the industry indicate that 40 per cent of the 300 radio set and accessory manufacturers became involved in financial difficulties following the break in the stock market. Of the remainder, about 35 per cent were able to extricate themselves from burdensome inventories by severe price cutting. Only 25 per cent of the makers were able to go through the period without cutting prices.

The large number of casualties has helped the survivors. The failures have been a major factor in cutting down production and in giving the strong companies a market which can absorb their output.

Outlook Brighter

WHILE the radio industry still has much to do before it secures a stable position, the strong companies will soon be in a position to resume production and merchandising in a normal manner. Much of the unnecessary competition has been eliminated. The business has passed through the period of adjustment which most infant industries must experience. The trade believes that the ups and downs of the future will be less violent and that the repetition of the crisis of 1929 is unlikely.

STEEL OUTPUT AT 81%

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—The steel industry is now operating at 81 per cent of rated capacity, as against from 79 to 80 per cent a week ago, and 76½ per cent two weeks ago. Increased orders from structural steel consumers, automotive industry and the railroads were given as the causes of the advance.

The United States Steel Corporation is averaging between 85 and 86 per cent, compared with 83 and 84 per cent a week ago, and 80 per cent two weeks ago. Independent operators are maintaining a 77 per cent schedule, an increase of 1 per cent over the preceding week and of 4 per cent over the figure of two weeks ago.

NEW YORK BOND MARKET

NEW YORK, Feb. 18. (AP)—Large scale trading in American Telephone convertible 4½s virtually monopolized the bond tape in today's market. This debenture turning over at the rate of $1,500,000 an hour in the earlier part of the session displayed a vitality reminiscent of last summer and rose about 4 points to a new high for the year. Its strength of course was due to the rise in the shares.

NEW YORK, Feb. 18. (AP)—Transactions in the most active bonds on the New York stock Exchange today were as follows, 000 omitted in sales column (United States bonds in dollars and thirty seconds of dollars):

CHICKIE :-: By ELENORE MEHERIN

"When you do, please let me come and give it a twist."

He brought up his full-throated laugh. "Your dear! But why do you let her poison your mind, then?"

"I don't—I don't believe a word Janina says."

"Yes, you do. You let her put the fear of God in you against things you have no need to fear. Me, for example. Now, I want to know who is kinder than I. But you've taken lessons from Janina and you've concluded that you can only take a cross-eyed squint at all the pleasures of life. Then you've got to pick up your skirts and run. That's not so at all. I can give you other lessons, Chickie, and you'll see life for the fine, good thing it is."

"But you believe the same things as Janina does."

"Not much! Janina is always looking for the dregs in a cup; I only see the sparkle."

"But the dregs are there just the same."

"Yes. And leave them there. It's not our fault if Life can't brew the drink clear and faultless. At that, she's given us ingredients and plenty to make a pretty fine jolt for any one to swallow. Whether we like it or not, we've all got to put our lips to the cup."

"Oh—that's just what Mary said. We can't stop living because life may be hard."

"It may be hard for Mary—it never needs to be hard for Chickie——"

She laughed.

"Why did you laugh then?"

"Because Mary used to think that very thing when she looked at her sister Lucy. And I suppose Lucy thought it when she saw how hard her mother found things."

"And I suppose," said Jake, with a long, quizzical look into Chickie's face, "that both Mary and Lucy asked figs from thistles. That's not fair to life. She'll give up the fruit, all right, but we've got to pluck the right tree. I'll teach you the way through the garden. How about that, Chickie?"

"I'm not quite sure what your way is. I think I'll take my own path."

"All right! I can follow as well as lead."

Janina, the sleek brunette, and Ida Larkin had their wraps. Jake said coolly, holding Chickie's coat, "We'll see which path is best."

"Where are we going?"

"On and on."

Janina had now turned Nicky over to Ida Larkin. She had appropriated Barry Dunne.

At the door Chickie looked back, wishing to hold all the brilliant details of hangings and color in her mind. Wouldn't Jennie just glow hearing all about it.

As they were waiting for Jake's car Barry Dunne said quickly: "You ride in the back with me, don't you? I was brought here on purpose for you."

"Oh!" said Chickie, with a little thrill of pleasure to find the young pleasant eyes on hers, "is that honest and true?"

A soft night breeze swept from the sound with cool, delightful purity. They sped through the night, opening its deep, mysterious silence with laughter and gay snatches of song.

Nicky poured out tune after tune, wagging his shiny, bald head like a fat puppy, saying after each song: "Another little chune, ladies? Another little drink? Come, now, let us lift up our voices in song!"

It was not yet 11, but Chickie was nervous.

As they raced on she turned a pale face with alarm to Jake Munson, the terror that leaped within her held her silent. After a long moment she asked: "Where are we going?"

He laughed. "More party, of course!"

She began to calculate. "I will get back. I wonder what time?" She saw Jonathan prowling through the hall; Jennie frantically rubbing her little hands together . . .

At last they stopped before a high wall—a little house set back from the highway.

"And here we are!"

Chickie stole up to Janina.

"Where are we? What time is the last train back?"

"All day tomorrow."

Trees arched above a wide porch. Through the leafy branches the sound gleamed, black, quiet.

Jake put his arm around Chickie's waist. She had a miserable feeling that she might cry.

Without raising her eyes she murmured: "Janina said I'd be home early."

"You're not wanting to break away, are you?"

"Oh—it's not that"—

"Then why speak of home? No place like home, you know—after every place else is closed."

"My father may be worried."

"Yes? Well, go right in and phone. Tell him it's all O. K. Why should he worry?"

He switched on the light. The porch was an arbor—white roses mounting to the roof. It opened on a deep octagonal room, rugs of Chinese blue on the floor, the walls dark with reddish woods. Here and there a barbaric brilliance of color hung from the panels. Three or four steps led from this room to another with a mammoth black walnut sideboard.

"Mix the drinks, Red," Jake ordered, taking off Chickie's coat. "Don't let Nick put his flappers in it. The boy's fogged. I'm going down to get an ancient vintage."

And to Chickie: "I'll be up presently. Phone if you like, and make yourself to home."

Nicky put on the phonograph and, imagining himself a wood-nymph, came tripping down the room, waving his hands. He bowed, saying merrily: "Dance, Chickie, chick, chick?"

"I'm tired, Nicky." She turned her back quickly—saw, across the room, Nana—Nana on a low sofa, her slim legs crossed, was comfortably resting in Bob Larkin's arms. His wife, helping Barry Dunne with the cocktails, appeared serenely unaware.

Janina sauntered over to Chickie. "Say, what's the matter?"

"I'm afraid we're going to be so late."

"What are you pulling off, Chickie? You knew what was up when we started, didn't you?"

Janina's face turned white. Didn't Jake tell you? Didn't you hear us—all planning for tomorrow? Where in heaven were you? Hell's bells! Now I suppose papa'll say I've led you astray! We're not going home tonight!"

NEW RAILROAD ASSURED

BELLEFONTE, Pa., Feb 18.—Anticipating a large planting of potatoes by farmers along its newly-projected line, the Bellefonte Central Railroad has planned the construction of a 50,000 bushel concrete underground storage bin.

The anticipated extension of the Bellefonte Central from State College to Tyrone now seems assured. A bond issue of $200,000 has been floated, the 19 miles of the Lewisburg and Tyrone branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad purchased two years ago by the Bellefonte Central has been paid for, and the six miles of new road from Struble Station to Faurbrook has been graded and is ready for track laying.

Dry Sleuths Held For Fictitious Registration

ST. CLAIRSVILLE, O., Feb. 18.—Russell and Eugene Shearer, brothers, undercover agents for the state dry law enforcement league were held under bond of $200 each to the grand jury when arraigned here charged with registering at a hotel under fictitious names.

They swore out a warrant for Charles Bresock, of Bridgeport, last week, on a charge of selling liquor to them, and their arrests are said to be a retaliation for the arrest of the liquor violator.

ARMY RUM QUIZ ORDERED

SAN ANTONIO, Tex., Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Commanding officers of Army posts within the Eighth Corps area were ordered by Maj. Gen. William Lassiter to investigate reports of violations of the national prohibition laws by Army officers.

The investigations were ordered by Gen. Lassiter after receipt of a letter from the adjutant general of the Army calling to his attention an anonymous letter which intimated that Fort Bliss at El Paso, Tex., on the Mexican border, was the wettest post in the United States.

Gen. Lassiter stated the belief that while there might be some drinking by Army personnel, the situation was not such as to cause any drastic action on his part.

"There is not anything like as much drinking being done in the Army now as there was 30 years ago," he said.

Venango County Talks Daylight Saving

FRANKLIN, Pa., Feb. 18.—An effort is being made in Oil City and Franklin for observance of daylight saving this year. Resolutions have been presented both to Franklin and Oil City councils.

Titusville had daylight saving last year, and probably will go along again if Oil City and Franklin join.

LOVEJOY

By BEATRICE BURTON

Lovejoy Makes Up Mind To Leave Tom

CHAPTER XXXVI.

THE next month always seemed like the calm before a storm when Lovejoy looked back upon it.

In the house everything went on much as it always had. Norrie got Tom's breakfast for him at 8 o'clock. At 9 Lovejoy would come downstairs to find the house in order, the dishes washed and the pot of coffee on the back of the stove, ready for her.

"What will we have for dinner tonight?" she would ask Norrie going out into the yard where Norrie would be playing with the baby or weeding the garden while the baby tumbled about on the grass.

The meals were expensive. Chicken and green vegetables and salad and iced tea one or two nights a week. Tom liked chicken and steak, scorning stews and pot roasts.

"The grocery bill is terrible," he complained to Lovejoy on the first of July. "I thought you were going to try to cut down on some of these things."

Lovejoy shrugged her pretty shoulders. "It's not my fault that you like porterhouse steak and spring chicken," she said. "And speaking of economy, why don't you give up buying liquor at a hundred dollars a case?"

Tom flushed. He had bought a new case of whisky two days before.

"The Goodsells and the Aldersons always have had something to drink when they came here," he said, "and the other night when they dropped in I had to telephone Sam and get some stuff. You know that."

Sam was the bootlegger who had been selling Tom his liquor for the past six months.

"We've just got to cut down somewhere," Tom insisted. "We're spending too much. I can't pay anything on our bills this month."

No More Kisses

"I don't know why I should turn myself wrong side out to help you, Tom Nicholson," she said in an ugly voice. "You don't care for me and you show me that you don't a dozen times a day—You haven't kissed me in weeks and weeks."

Tom got up from his armchair, putting the bills into his vest pocket.

"Well," he said quietly, "months ago when I thought you and I were as happy and as well-mated as any two people could be, you were running out nights to let Stephen Oglebay make love to you. . . . You may be doing it now for all I know—"

"I'm not!" Lovejoy cut in angrily. "He's not even in town right now!"

Tom walked away from her. "Well, cheer up. He'll be back soon," he said sarcastically and went upstairs.

There was a light under his door when Lovejoy followed him a few minutes afterward.

She went into her own room and got ready for bed. But she couldn't sleep. She sat at her window, looking out into the darkness and thinking of nights when she had gone to sleep with Tom's arm under her shoulders and her face almost touching his.

This isn't life! she said to herself with a mixture of fury and despair. Tom in one room and I in another! It isn't marriage! It isn't anything!

Aunt Em's Advice

The next day she went to Aunt Em with the whole story.

"What would you do about it?" she asked her. "I want your advice, Aunt Em!"

Aunt Em was ready with it instantly. That was one comforting thing about her—she loved to give advice and sometimes it was really very helpful.

"I'd try to go on as if nothing was the matter," she said. "If you didn't have the baby you'd be a free agent. But you have the baby, and you've got to stick to your home and your husband for that reason."

Old - fashioned stuff! Old moth-eaten ideas of the last century, thought Lovejoy.

"But why do you suppose Tom refuses to kiss me or come anywhere near me?" she asked aloud. "He hasn't so much as touched my hand for a month!"

Aunt Em shrugged her round, fat shoulders. "I don't understand that, and I admit it," she said. "But this I do know—it's a man's nature to make love. And if Tom Nicholson ain't makin' love to you he must be makin' love to somebody else. There ain't been a night of your Uncle James' life when he hasn't kissed me good night."

She pursed up her lips and went on:

"But then I never did what you've done, Lovejoy. I never put my husband into a room by himself and fixed up a room of my own all silk and powder puffs and lookin' glasses. And I never went tootin' around with other men, either!"

Club Night

"Every woman I know has her own room," said Lovejoy, "and it's so comfortable to have the clothescloset all to yourself and a dressing table all to yourself."

Aunt Em sniffed. "Well, you haven't kept your husband to yourself, though, have you?" she asked tartly.

And that was all the help that Lovejoy got from her.

On the night of the eighteenth of July things came to a crisis.

It was a Thursday night—and it was Aline's night to entertain the Thursday Night Dinner Club.

There were eight members in the club—all of them married couples. The Aldersons, the Goodsells, the Nicholsons and another couple named Lambert.

"Elsie Lambert's husband is out of town," Aline told Lovejoy on Thursday morning when she stopped in for a moment on her way downtown, "but she says she'll find some extra man or other and bring him along . . . Now, please do come early tonight, Lovey, and help me. I want you to make that stuffed cucumber salad of yours."

The four women always cooked the meal on Thursday nights. For Thursday was always the maid's night out, and it was so easy for four pairs of hands to cook a meal.

"And so much more fun than going out to a restaurant," as fluffy little Elsie Lambert always said.

It never would have occurred to her to stay at home on Thursday nights to get a meal for her husband.

Oglebay Present

"I didn't know how to boil an egg when I was married," she had told Lovejoy one night, "and I really don't know how to do it now. I never would have learned how to make coffee if I didn't like it so much. Cooking is just a mystery to me, and I hope it always will be."

It was always Elsie's job to set the table and make the coffee at these Thursday evening gatherings.

She was setting the table in Aline's beautiful dining room on this particular evening when Lovejoy walked into the house.

"Hello, Elsie!" Lovejoy greeted her. "I'm going to be a widow part of the evening, too!—Tom just telephoned to say that he wouldn't be able to get here until half past eight or nine—"

She stopped talking suddenly, her voice sticking in her throat. The swinging door from the pantry was opening—and there, with a stack of plates in his hands, stood Steve Oglebay.

"Oh, I'm not a widow tonight! I brought Steve," she heard Elsie say in her high-pitched voice.

Well, he's back now, thought Lovejoy, and he'll expect me to make up my mind about him.

And all at once she knew that her mind was made up. . . . She had been making it up all these nights when she had lain in bed staring into the summer darkness and thinking of Tom across the hall.

She was going to leave Tom. No matter what it cost, she was going to leave him.

I can't keep on living the way I've been living, she thought. With Tom like an enemy in the house—never speaking to me except when he wants to yell about the high cost of living.

All through the meal she could feel Steve watching her anxiously. But he kept his distance, sitting on the far side of the table between Aline and Elsie Lambert.

Damp Sawdust

Damp sawdust sprinkled on a dusty floor before sweeping will prevent the dust from rising. It may be used also as a protection when a room is being painted and it is not convenient to take up the linoleum. A thick layer of sawdust will absorb any paint that may be spilled.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, February 19.

THE sidereal operations on this day give force to initiative in connection with new projects and to negotiations with large corporations or secret organizations by means of stratagem or connivance rather than face value understandings. While these methods may flourish there may be minor setbacks and some disagreeable personal encounter.

Those whose birthday it is are assured fortunate developments in new undertakings, especially in negotiations with large corporations, "rings" or secret bodies. There may be minor setbacks or disagreeable changes.

A child born on this day may succeed by stratagem or intrigue rather than straightforward methods.

THE SNOW QUEEN

Drawn by Nell Brinkley

THE lady that little boys like! They pray for her coming. They think her fur cap the last delicious rarity of headgear. They think her icy blue eyes the loveliest and the kindest in the world. Of course, they forget the bird's cold toes. They think her strange dress of drifting snow, sparkling in the sun, blowing in the wind as she comes, like face powder or smoke, the loveliest ever seen. They like her silver bells, her pale golden hair that is almost silver. They think her fur-cuffed gloves swanky. They watch for and whoop for joy over her blanket of immaculate white that she spreads for them to flounder in. They had rather walk to school in it than ride in a royal princess' limousine. They whine and wail to stay out in it long after their little feet and fingers have turned into wooden stubs, and have to be thawed out later, with tears and howlings, on a big, flat piece of stovewood in the big oven of the fiercely red kitchen range, if you live in the country; in the gas oven or by the open fire in the drawing room, if you live in the city.

The "milk boy," who creaks up the path in the chill, pale dawn, doesn't think much of her. He says his horse, with the breath in frost-gems on his whiskers, doesn't either! The father of the little boy calls her things, unless it's Sunday or vacation, when he can shrink into a little boy again and go tobogganning with HIS; but week days he likes the dark Summer Queen with poppies in her hair much more while he grunts his overshoes on.

The little boy prays at night for a "white Winter." He hopes that while he sleeps the Snow Queen will start her fairies, "frail creatures of the middle sky," down the steep pathways of the air by millions, flying, laying themselves soundlessly down upon one another by myriads for his joy in the morning. And he prays in the day that the sun won't melt it all before he gets out of school to slide on "Tippet's Hill!"

The Snow Queen came at last for a little boy I know. And a little boy I know has started to school; and his mother misses a little boy lying on the floor of her studio on his tummy drawing "pies!"

Madge Decides to Tell Lillian About Message

IT IS not an easy thing, in his own vernacular, to feaze Harry Underwood. But as we all turned toward the door at Lillian's crisp "Why not?" I saw that his wife had accomplished the feat with those two words. A wave of color rushed over his face, tinging even his ears, and his eyes mirrored a dismay which was almost fear.

How much had she heard? That was the question I think in all our minds at the sound of her query. But even as I asked it I realized that no matter what the answer, but one course was open to us—to tell her the whole truth. If we could have kept her in total ignorance of the threatening telephone message which had come to me I should have been glad, indeed, for I shared her husband's wish to keep all possible worry from her. But I knew her keen perceptions. Given this hint that something terrifying was being kept from her, it would not be possible to satisfy her intelligence—or her fears—with anything but an account of the incident, complete to its last detail.

"Come in and sit down," I commanded gaily, "and we will tell you all."

From the corner of my eye I saw both Harry and Dicky start and look at me reprovingly, and I turned to them with an audacious grin.

"You needn't try to signal me," I told them. "How often have you heard Katie's slogan, 'Us vimmens mus' togedder steeck'? Well, I'm sounding it right now."

Lillian had seated herself in the chair next to mine, and, though to all appearances she was composed, I sensed the nervous tension of her motionless body. I turned to her with an affectionate smile.

"This husband of yours," I said, "appears to have the idea that you're a piece of fragile glass, to be wrapped in cotton wool. But I'm going to treat you as if you were heavy kitchen crockery. I received a queer long-distance telephone message a few minutes ago. We are not alarmed about it, but Harry and Dicky thought it was better not to trouble you with it."

She put out a blindly groping hand.

"Marion?" she whispered.

"No! No!" All three of our voices sounded the negative, and I tapped her smartly across the knuckles.

"Don't make me wish I had stuck to my first tacit agreement with our men's decision," I said.

The color crept back into her cheeks.

"You'd have stuck to your agreement if I hadn't happened to come in just now," she said. "But please — quickly — come down to cases. What was this telephone message? I know what a marvellously working machine your memory is. You'll be able to repeat it verbatim, so don't omit a comma."

She leaned back in her chair and I meticulously gave her every word of the message. Her face whitened again as she listened, and I saw the little lines of emotional tension etch themselves around her mouth. But she said no word until I had finished. Then she looked across at her husband.

"Your name is the only one mentioned," she said quietly, but there was a note of terror in her voice.

"True, my dear," Harry Underwood returned lightly, "but that has nothing to do with the cost of Christmas presents. I've just been telling the Dicky-Bird and Lady Fair that some one of the lesser fry of that Kenellos bunch—some of the minnows got through, you know—is probably indulging his peculiar sense of humor at my expense. He probably knows he can't frighten me, but that he can annoy me plenty by sending my woman relatives and friends on an ascension flight."

There was in his voice a slightly contemptuous note, which I guessed he had purposely sounded in the hope that Lillian's pride would be pricked into accepting his disparagement of the message. But there was no change in her quiet voice as she put her next question.

"That is your theory, then, that this message came from some lesser light in the Kenellos organization?"

Was it my imagination, or did Harry Underwood hesitate for the fraction of a second before he answered her question? I decided that it must have been my fancy, as his answer came in firm and steady tones.

"Of course. What other theory could there be? There is nothing here or at the farm valuable enough to warrant a plot to get it, such as a message like this one signifies. Movie stunts like those are only sprung—or written about—when there are heap big piles of jools and poipers hidden away in secret closets. The Lord knows the Dicky-Bird and I would love to deck you gals out with baubles that would call for a bodyguard every time you stepped out, but I'm afraid we'll always be comparative paupers. We'll never hit the millionaire class, either of us."

"Thank Heaven for that!" Lillian breathed, and I echoed her thanksgiving. "I can't think of anything more ghastly than wearing jewels with an ever-present chance of having your throat slit for them. But let's forget all the horrors. You're probably right on your message, Harry, and if you aren't we can't do a thing except wait for the next move on the chessboard. But I have a bit of news for you—just came in this letter—that is interesting—and disturbing."

"I don't know about the disturbing," Mary chimed in—she had followed Lillian into the room after taking over the mail—"but boy, I'll tell the round world it's interesting."

Household Hints

A teaspoonful of vinegar added to lard used for frying prevents the food from absorbing too much fat.

Weak soapsuds will clean bronze statuary or bronze ornaments in the fine lines of which dust has collected.

Rub knives and forks that are to be put away with olive oil and they will be found free from rust when required again.

NOT SO DUMB

By HELEN KLUMPH

CHAPTER XIV.

PERKINS was in the upstairs hall, watching with some misgivings, when Angela and Vincent tiptoed out with their bags.

It looked pretty funny to him. He'd just like to stop them and demand to know what they had in those bags. He wasn't going to let anyone get away with anything. Not while HE was in the house!

She was a strange person, this Miss Parker. He couldn't figure her out at all. Coming down to the judge, knowing for sure he was guilty, and getting him off on probation. And making him a butler! If she had wanted a little strong-arm work done, why, that would have been different. This easy life was palling on him.

But when he saw the bags stowed safely in the hall closet under Miss Dulcy's very eyes, he shrugged his shoulders and went on with his work. She was a strange one.

That was nothing to Forbes' verdict when Dulcy, ignoring his portentious silence, bounded from her chair and cried, "I've got it!"

"We'll play Baffle," Dulcy announced with enthusiasm.

"I'm sure Mr. Forbes would love it. Wouldn't you, Mr. Forbes?"

Mr. Forbes did not look as though he would love anyone or anything at that moment. Only Angela and Vincent looked interested, while Van Dyke wore an air of amused tolerance.

"What is a Baffle, Miss Parker?" he asked finally, breaking an awkward silence.

Dulcy Tries Again

Gordon sought to restrain her. He knew it would be better just to let the matter drop. Forbes stared at her defiantly as if he dared her, he just dared her, to go on and suggest anything else after all he had been through.

But Dulcy was aglow with enthusiasm. Whatever her mistakes in the past, she knew she was on the right track now. Mr. Forbes has such an analytical mind, he would just love playing Baffle. And it would get him out of the way, and leave the road clear for Angela and Vincent to elope.

"Well," Dulcy began, with the air of a magician who is about to bring innumerable rabbits out of a hat, "You play Baffle like this."

And undeterred by Forbes' stony silence and Gordon's frantic signals for her to stop, she went right on:

"You hide something valuable, and everybody is given a clew, and they deduce from the clew where the object is hidden. They are only allowed five—no maybe ten minutes would be better" she added with a beaming smile of understanding at Angela, who was twisting her handkerchief in nervous anticipation.

"It's very simple and lots of fun."

Though she addressed her last remark directly to Forbes he merely grunted and slumped down lower in his chair.

"Let's see" Dulcy went on, completely ignoring his definite antagonism. "We must have something very valuable."

Valuable Object

As she glanced at Angela, who was nervously fingering her pearls, she was seized with an inspiration.

"I've got it. Just the thing."

With a businesslike air, she reached for the clasp on Angela's neck, while Forbes, unable to believe his eyes, looked on in astonishment.

"But, Dulcy," Gordon objected in a tone of utter horror, "they're valuable."

"That's just the point, silly." She dismissed him with a wave of her hand. "It is much more fun if you hide something really valuable. Nobody would really try to find anything that was hidden if they didn't want to get it back.

"Now then—"

Dulcy stood facing the others, while she wiggled her fingers behind her back in triumphant signal to Angela. Earnestly, she explained:

"On the evening of last Wednesday Mrs. Godfrey was killed and robbed of her pearls. Oh, no, I guess that's too gruesome. We don't want to be cruel, even in play, do we?"

Rules of Game

She glanced archly at Mr. Forbes, who looked as if he would spring at her and snatch the pearls from her at any minute.

"Well, anyway, she was robbed of her pearls. A suspect has been caught, but he refuses to talk. So it is up to the detectives to find the missing jewels. Now I'll fix everything while you sit here and concentrate."

"Dulcy," he pleaded one last time.

"Go back," she ordered as she patted him on the back, amused. "Of course, I love you, Gordie, but you mustn't spoil the game by following me."

So it was just a game to Dulcy. She didn't realize that the whole week-end has turned into a ghastly nightmare. His business with Forbes ruined; his nerves shattered, and here she was setting out to play an idiotic game with a necklace of real pearls when she had an ex-convict butler in the house!

Not a word was spoken after Dulcy left the room. All the guests seemed to be in a state of complete collapse, except Angela and Vincent, who stole fervent glances at each other when Forbes wasn't looking.

Dulcy rushed up to her room, and into the closet, just as Perkins came into the hall with one of her coats on his arm. He waited a moment for her to come out, uncertain about what a butler should do under the circumstances.

Dulcy had found just the place to hide the pearls. There was an open hatbox on the floor, full of just such odds and ends as Dulcy was always collecting with an idea of making something from them. Above the box was hanging a dress trimmed with feathers. She dropped the pearls in the box, pulled off some of the feathers, and leaving one conspicuously beside the box, skipped out merrily.

At the door she paused to place another feather on the floor, then seeing the completely bewildered Perkins, she whispered, "I want it there, don't tell anybody."

By the time she was half way downstairs, he was in her room hanging up her coat.

He walked to the door, and glancing down saw that she had disappeared. Puzzled, he started to pick up the feather. Then shaking his head, he muttered to himself: "No; she said to leave it there."

Further down the stairs he saw that she had dropped another feather, which only added to his bewilderment. These were strange goings-on.

Suddenly he came to a decision. He went to the closet, and in a moment he had located the pearls, and pocketed them.

Whistling jauntily, he hurried to the back stairs and started down.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

The New Bachelor

The bachelor went into eclipse just about the time when the modern girl decided that "woman's rights" meant the right to help herself to another woman's husband. All of a sudden, the married men lost that "married look" and blossomed into gay Lotharios. The competition did to the bachelor what the radio has done to the phonograph.

Up to that time the bachelor had had things all his own way. Flattered, pampered and pursued, his heart had become cast-iron, his emotions insulated and his whole system girl-proof! He was either a musty old mysoginist, a hard-boiled, cynical rounder or a gay deceiver who fluttered from flower to flower and defied any girl to marry him. Woman-proof — that's what!

Perhaps that's why girls began to cast longing looks at the married man. He was SO easy. And susceptible! But, apparently they have become fed up on the idea of being only a luncheon-date or an occasional evening's diversion in a man's life. Anyway, married men are OUT! Out of the picture!

And, now, enter the New Bachelor!

But, oh what a different creature! How chastened and softened and mellowed by his long years of obscurity! How responsive and eager to please! He has lost all that old defiance, all that fear complex, and has established an entente cordiale with the opposite sex. He is HUMAN!

* * *

He is no longer just a "left-over gentleman." Out of that hard old chrysalis of cynicism and suspicion, has sprung a gorgeous, new butterfly!

He no longer hides away in some men's club or lives in a tiny hotel room, emerging only to usher at weddings, fill in at dinner parties and help decorate the wall at debutante dances. He LIVES HIS OWN LIFE!

* * *

He is the most popular host and entertainer, the greatest little party-giver, and the grandest little home-maker and hospitality-dispenser of the day. His "place," as he calls it, is no longer a mere monk's cell with dingy walls; but a spacious, luxurious, inviting apartment, with crackling open fires, soft rugs, gay curtains, tempting shelves of books and a kitchenette, from which he dispenses delicious beverages and salads and omelettes, made by his own fair hands.

If he is hard-boiled, he carefully camouflages the fact under a tender and ingratiating exterior that gives every woman HOPE. He is no longer defiant. He does not flaunt his single-blessedness in the face of the world. He deprecates it or "laments" it.

* * *

In short, the New Bachelor is a personality and a vital factor in the social scheme, not a mere bit of driftwood on the tide of life.

Being a bachelor is no longer an accident—it is an ART, requiring courage, talent, energy, technique—and eternal vigilance! The old-fashioned bachelor was a man who had never married. The modern bachelor is one who has not married—YET. Which is the difference between a lost hope and a promise!

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Right Living Pays Health Dividends

IN THESE modern times the poor old liver is not blamed, as it used to be, for at least half the human ills. It is just as important as ever, of course, but less is said about it.

DR COPELAND

The liver is a gland, the largest gland in the body. While it varies in shape and size, usually it weighs from three to five pounds. This organ is located in the upper portion of the abdominal cavity, on the right side. It secretes a fluid which is called bile.

The preparation of bile and its delivery to the intestinal tract in proper quantity and quality are among the many marvels of our existence.

Out from the liver run two small tubes, which quickly unite into one. Very soon this passageway is opened into by another, the latter being the canal which drains the gall-bladder. The duct formed in this way is called the "common duct," or the "bile duct."

The common duct is three or four inches long. It opens and discharges into the "duodenum," that part of the intestinal tract which immediately joins the stomach. Any surplus of the bile which is not needed is stored up in the sac known as the gall-bladder. This pouch lies on the under side of the right lobe of the liver.

As you see, the arrangement I have described is pretty complicated. In consequence, the liver region is liable to get out of order. If we lived as we should, perhaps it would never get out of order. But we don't live right. We eat the wrong foods and do harm by overeating the good ones. Too many people drink alcoholic beverages to excess. Many fail to exercise properly.

Out of these abuses come disturbances of the common duct and the gall-bladder. Among these is inflammation of the gall-bladder or rather of the bile duct and gall-bladder. In its mild form this is known as "catarrh of the bile duct." It is a frequent trouble.

Just as a common cold causes congestion and swelling of the mucous membrane of the nose, so will congestion in this region cause swelling of the common duct. As a result the bile is dammed up, its proper channel of escape being closed. The bile may be absorbed and carried by the blood to every part of the body. That is what produces the peculiar yellow color called jaundice.

Musical Comedy, Romance and War in Week's Amusement Programs

'Show Boat' Is Back in Port While 'Old Man River' Rolls As On Famous First Night

By GEORGE SEIBEL

AFTER two years "Show Boat" is back in the port it started from. It has crossed the ocean, it has cruised along European shores, and "Old Man River" has become almost a classic. Last night at the Nixon Theater the original company, changed only in a few personalities, again took the audience in tow as on that first night, and carried them through Edna Ferber's rich romance on the waves of Jerome Kern's ingratiating music.

George Seibel

That well-known toastmaster, who introduces every speaker with the remark that he needs no introduction, could easily write the review of "Show Boat." It needs no more laudation. It has been the greatest musical success of a generation. And that was not an accident. It was due to the magnificent prodigality of Florenz Ziegfeld's production, due to the panoramic stage pictures provided by Joseph Urban, due to the judicious work of Oscar Hammerstein II in building the play from the novel.

But it was due in the first place to the rich materials Edna Ferber had put into that novel. Here was a chapter of American history come to life—the manifold life mirrored by the river as it flowed along for 40 years.

It is so rich in variety and detail that the librettist did not have to add anything incongruous to keep the audience amused.

Where It Differs

Take the average musical show and you will find the chorus cavorting out upon the stage at regular intervals, in changes of costume that have nothing whatever to do with the plot of the play.

There is no reason for their arrival and less reason for their array.

But in "Show Boat" mark that the chorus almost always has some connection with the story. Even the Dahomey Villagers of the Midway Plaisance—and the story furnishes opportunity for so many colorful and picturesque changes that the wardrobe needs no embellishments from outside the plot.

Blacks and whites, show folks and levee rats, gamblers and nuns, Apache dancers and New Years revelers—all fit into the action. And the music is the appropriate interpretation of the sentiment at all times. Songs like "Only Make Believe," "Can't Help Lovin' That Man" and "Why Do I Love You?" are not merely compositions; they have feeling in them as if they were the natural accompaniment and outflow of the action.

Winninger A Star

If there is any star in this production, it is Charles Winninger, who plays Cap'n Andy Hawks, owner of the Cotton Blossom. He has not lost any of the gusto he put into his role at the first performance, though he has played and sung it so many hundred times.

Aunt Jemima, as Queenie is another of the original cast who may her shadow never grow less made it a real home-coming. And do not forget Jules Bledsoe of the velvet tones that haunt the memory when everything else about the show has faded out.

Eva Puck and Sammy White as Ellie and Frank are as smiling as they can be. Francis X. Mahoney as Rubber Face has not lost his elasticity of countenance.

The hero, Gaylord Ravenal, is now sung by Howard Marsh, and the heroine Magnolia as well as the grown Kim by Irene Dunne. This pair incorporates the charm and tenderness that are needed to make them credible. Last night the scene in the convent where Ravenal takes leave of little Kim was most touchingly played, while Miss Dunne was particularly happy in the third act of "The Parson's Bride."

What is the use of rhapsodizing further, and there is no call for criticism? Some scenes have been trimmed to bring the curtain down earlier and provide a more effective finale. But in every essential quality this is the same "Show Boat" that left Pittsburgh just about two years ago to sail triumphantly around the world. You may have seen and heard the talkie, but here is the real thing. Don't miss it.

Hours They Begin

Film Stars' Tax Advisor Jailed

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 18.—(AP.)—Edward J. Hayden, Los Angeles income tax counsellor, was sentenced to five months in jail after he pleaded guilty in Federal Court to two counts of aiding Raoul Walsh, motion picture director, make a fraudulent income tax return. On one count Hayden received a suspended five-year penitentiary sentence.

Hayden was indicted several months ago in a true bill that involved not only Walsh but also Ramon Novarro, George O'Brien and Fred Niblo. The government agreed to Hayden's stipulation that the rest of the counts against him be dismissed.

RAMON NAVARRO AS DEVIL-MAY-CARE SAYS IT IN SONG IN PENN

In those dangerous days after Napoleon was exiled to Elba, anything might happen—and does happen in "Devil-May-Care," the screen romance at the Penn, in which Ramon Novarro looks very dashing and handsome, fences like a demon, rides like a centaur and sings like Don Giovanni.

Heroes heretofore have taken the shrinking heroine in their arms and implanted passionate kisses upon her lips while the reel registered 30 seconds. Hereafter the best technique will require at least one languorous ballad to be sung by him; then she must intone a melancholy madrigal at the spinet; then he answers with a Tannhaeuser aria to the evening or morning star, as the case may be.

Horseshoe Chorus

Even the cavalry has gone thematic, and when they ride to victory in the Emperor's cause they sing a stirring chorus in perfect time, the hooves of the horses muffled so as not to interfere with the martial refrain.

If the plot had reached all the way to Waterloo, the Old Guard would have refused to surrender as the cannons thundered a funeral march. But it's the love-making to music that is most amazing of all. Catch before you kiss is the talkie technique.

After you get used to this combination of opera, movie romance and scenic tour of Ile de France you like it.

Pictures Like Cameos

There are close-ups as exquisite as cameos, in which the debonair Novarro and the attractive Dorothy Jordan have Corot landscapes for background. Of course it's wild romance, with furious fighting and hairbreadth escapes, but what would you? This was in the days when Napoleon was escaping from Elba, and anything might happen when a good-looking devil-may-care chap like Ramon Novarro was around.

And Lou Holtz

He almost made us forget Lou Holtz, who is the big chief in the stage show, and twangs "O Solo Mio" with many uproarious variations. Lou is a past master of mirth.

In that stage show he is surrounded by one of the most poetic and artistic productions yet seen. The Chester Hale Girls in Laceland—from which jazz has been banished, execute some lovely dances against dreamlike settings. The Pearl Twins are also in this revel of beauty and color, while an adagio team — Dolores Eddy and Douglas—give it a thrilling climax.

In short, it is such an entertainment as might be expected after Elias Breeskin and his fine orchestra play the Tschaikowsky Capriccio Italienne as an overture. It's the most artistic show the Penn has had.

'HIT THE DECK' STAYS IN SHERIDAN SQUARE

Walter Winchell On Broadway

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.

This Town of Ours.

JACK PICKFORD and Mary Mulhern will probably middle-aisle it, now that the D. Fairbankses have accepted the former Ziegfeld girl. . . David O. Selznick and one of Louis (MGM) Mayer's little girls will ankle up to an altar. . . The Arthur Loews abrogation is due any day now. . . Anita Loos is taking buck-and-wing lessons at Billy Pierce's 46th Street place. . . Wm. Leeds, Jr., and Olive Hamilton won't. . . J. B. Whitehead, another of the Coca-Cola clan, and Laura Scofield were secretly sealed and will Yurrup it. . . The Washington Pezets will have it Reno-vated. . . The John and Peggy Sandrey divorce plot is blazing. . . Ben Gimbel and his cousin's ex-wife, Betty Hamburger, are Cupiding. . . Phil Baker says Florida raised enough grapefruit in the last year to blind the people that prohibition didn't.

GOOD NEWS IN BRIEF

RALPH (LIFE) BARTON'S new bride will be Ruth (Ten Cent Store) Kresge. . . . The S. Chotzinoffs anticipate a blessed event, as do the Curtis B. Dahls (the Governor's dotter). . . . The N. Nazzarro, Jr., (Ebba Sparre) have reconciled. . . . They aren't allowed to peddle hot weinies in the Grand Central Terminal. . . . The Pennsy has removed its smoking ban in the diners, business being as pediculous as it is. . . . It's a lad over at the John Longerans (Kay Durban). . . . The Literary Digest will change its format from stem to stern. . . . There is no John Ward nor was there ever one who made boots. . . . There are nearly 1,000 Park Rowgues out of work but Publishers Service, a new mag for scribes, is conducting a free employment agency. . . . There are no Childs waitresses numbered 13.

One of the mags which points the way to success is folding up. . . . The Fred F. French firm is plotting a 100-story edifice on the Hippodrome site. . . . The safes in the McAn bootteries are dummies, the coin being hidden in a shoe box. . . . Hit of the Week: a new 15-cent record went on the market last wk. with Barney Bacon being one of the angels. . . . Gretchen Messer's new heart is Neil Moore. . . . When Harold Haas gets his final from Kathryn Hay he will middle-aisle it with Katherine MacGillivary, the prettiest model in town. . . . Dr. P. M. Marafioti, the throat specialist, has shelved his practice to teach voice. G. Swanson paying the stiffest fee. . . . Add Little Ironies: Most of the extras in the "All Quiet on the W. F." flicker are U. S. war vets in Hun uniforms.

"MAMMY" DEDICATION

RUDY VALLEE'S book will be dedicated to "My Mother and the Mothers of the 7 Boys Who Work With Me." . . . Harry (June Moon) Rosenthal will do the lead-sans dialect in the Warner's Milt Gross comedies. . . . James Cromwell has shelved Barbara Newberry for Irene Delroy, who is quite a shelver herself. . . . The Peter Arnos (Lois Long), who exploded recently, are romancing when no one is looking. . . . The International Revue will have to do 40 grand per wk. to break even. . . . A performance of "Dishonored Lady" was ruined when a spectator took the proceedings to heart and threw a fit just as K. Cornell poisoned her pash.

Recommended to diversion seekers: Walter Donaldson's grand chune, "Lazy Louisiana Moon." . . . "The Last Mile," at the Sam H. Harris Theater, the ace of the shudder and shiver shows. . . . Ruth Etting in "Ruth Selwyn's Revue." . . . The ditty, "I'm Following You." . . . Frisco's movietone short, "Portrait of a Male Butterfly," by Lloyd Morris, in the March Harpers. . . . Percival Wilde's "The Devil's Booth" (Harcourt, Brace). . . . Norma Terris at the Club Richman, and Jean Pursa, the handsomest of the "50 Million Frenchmen" lassies, who is being rushed by the local dandies.

YET BEANS IS BEANS

THE lad who originated the Brass Rail beaneries on Broadway is the owner of the first Fish and Chips place. . . . Rube Wolf, the ham, resents this dept. referring to performers as hams. . . . Noel Coward and Jeffrey Holmesdale are touring the Orient. . . . Dixie Ward, of Simon & Schuster's Inner Sanctum, will be welded to Mickey (Sons o'Guns) Forbes. . . . Katherine Leslie, the deb who thefts husbands in "Rebound," is a cousin to Lawrence Leslie, of "Meteor," but he's not in the sussill register. . . . Ward Morehouse, of the Sun, will do Persia next month. . . . Lucille Nikolas, squaw of Kenyon Nicholson, has switched her stage tag to Joan Kenyon, because a numerologist told her to.

Silvia Sidney's new heart-thumper is a shoemaker. . . . Charlie Journal's Montmartre still is the smartest of the tony night clubs, and he doesn't "sell" either. . . . James Altimus has insured Fred Astaire's dancing feet, which, if disabled, bring the crack hoofer $2,000 per wk. . . . A heretofore unpublished item is that Lita Grey got $1,600,000 from C. Chaplin to hush her mouth. . . . Get a load of Bugs Baer's funniest col'm in the Sabbath American. P. Baker, the accordion man, and Norman Light, a box office treasurer, went outside of Reuben's at 5 yawning to trade blows, but suddenly went girlish and kicked at each other.

KLAUBERS ON VERGE

THE Adolph Klaubers (Jane Cowl) are On the Verge. . . . Mary Brown Warburton has lost a mess of tonnage. . . . Members of their casts would have you believe that F. Ziegfeld and George White, the Canyon's greatest nose thumbers (at each other) have made up. . . . Joseph G. Harrking and the frau have parted again. . . . Helen Hayes played bridge almost up to the time it arrived.

If Grace Moore puts on tonnage, or even 15 pounds, her movietone contract goes phffft!

BORED PRINCE MOTORS INTO LOVE ON PITT STAGE

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

"Just Suppose," the play by A. E. Thomas that is said to have been written with the Prince of Wales in mind, is the new George Sharp presentation in the Pitt. It is a romantic comedy, with the romance dominating. And it is not the slushy, mushy type, but romance as refreshing as the Virginia moon that you must believe shines down on Mr. Sharp's stage.

The play's action really hinges on an apparently trivial thing—boredom. If a prince, visiting America, hadn't become bored almost to death with Washington diplomats, he never would have played hookey from the Secretary of State's dinner table. And if he hadn't passed up the dinner, he never would have gone joy-riding across the Virginia countryside. And if he hadn't gone joy-riding he never would have met a charming Southern belle. But, since he does become bored, does fly from the diplomats, does go joy-riding, does meet the Southern belle, it is love at first sight for both of them.

Praise for Cast

The cast does well. Edith King displays charm and depth of emotional feeling as the heorine. Harland Tucker makes a sincere effort and shows becoming restraint as the son of a king. Alice Ann Baker, all very lavender-and-old-lacey, makes a pretty study of the grandmother who fondles the memory of a dance she had long ago with the prince's grandfather. Henry Wadsworth does nicely with the comedy in the role of the prince's friend. And Billy Link springs a pleasant surprise in his emoting as a Southern lad who also loves the heroine. Other players are Francis Flaunie, Hugh Harper and Robert Fiske.

Goodbyes Are Said

The play also wins praise for its scenic setting in the final act, laid in a Virginia garden. And the closing action of this act is impressive. It details the parting between the prince, who must go back to his palace and someday to the job of "kinging," and the girl, who must remain in her garden. Thunder, manufactured backstage, speeds up the farewell. He must hurry away to avoid the impending storm. He passes through the gate. She cries after him, "Good-bye, don't get a cold." How like a woman!

'JOURNEY'S END' HAS RAPT AUDIENCE FOR NEW BEGINNING

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Journeys' End," the grim picture of war written by Robert C. Sherriff, began the second week of its engagement in the Alvin last night. The tense drama, acted by a company of ten men, revealed in a most significant way its power to impress in the reaction of the audience at the finale. There was no grabbing of hats and overcoats and hurrying into aisles in an effort to be the first out of the theater. Instead, the audience remained seated and silent as the curtain went down, slowly hiding the dug-out which was crumbling under the shock of shell fire, the climax of taut hours in which the souls of its occupants had been tried.

Silent until the house lights flashed on—then the uproar of applause, repeated and continued, as the players took bow after bow. That is the spell of "Journey's End" and all the revelation needed to establish the fact that the use of the frequently carelessly bestowed word "great" is not misapplied in this instance.

The play is to remain in the Alvin throughout the week and will terminate its engagement Saturday night.

ALDINE CONTINUES CHEVALIER PICTURE

'NO, NO, NANETTE' ON FINAL PERFORMANCES

"No, No Nanette" music and talk picturization of the stage production of that name, will close in the Warner tomorrow night. On Thursday the talk film version of "The Green Goddess," starring George Arliss, will open an engagement.

Moisture is locked out by Sunshine Bakers!

Sunshine Bakers take special care to guard the fine taste of their Soda Crackers. They put a sturdy wax-wrapper all around the bright red package. Moisture is locked out . . . Oven crispness is locked in!

Here is a gloriously dimpled and browned cracker that has a delicious flavor no other soda cracker can boast of. It's baked by the Full Grain Process . . . that's why.

A family doctor's laxative is the sensible choice!

YOUR health is too important! You can't afford experiments with your delicate bowels when a coated tongue, bad breath, gas, headaches, nausea, feverishness, biliousness, lack of appetite and no energy warn of constipation. This applies not only to grown people, it is particularly the case where young children are concerned.

That's why a family doctor's laxative is always the safe choice. Only a doctor knows just what will cleanse the system of men, women or children without harm.

He was a family doctor for more than forty seven years. He specialized in the disorders of the digestive tract. He tested this prescription in thousands of cases. Men liked its quick and thorough action; the children liked its pleasant taste, old people praised it because it never gripes.

Today millions of families rely on Dr. Caldwell's judgment in the selection of their laxative. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is now sold in all drug stores. It is the world's largest selling laxative.

Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is prepared today under strict supervision from freshest herbs and other pure ingredients, and exactly according to Dr. Caldwell's original prescription.

A Prescription Made Him Famous

BACK in 1870, when he established his clinic in Buffalo, N. Y., Dr. Pierce wrote the prescription which was used so successfully by regular physicians in ready-to-use form, known as Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. Every druggist has it. Liquid or Tablets.

All women who are run-down, suffering from painful periods—and the more distressing ailments of womanhood—should write Dr. Pierce's Clinic in Buffalo, N. Y., for free, confidential advice.

One woman writes in the merit of Dr. Pierce's medicine said "After I had gone through a critical operation I just could not get back [illegible] was nervous and so weak and miserable I could [illegible]. I was advised to take Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and after using it I regained my health and strength. I don't know how I would have [illegible] Miss Martha E. # DAILY TRUE STORY

'Send Patsy'

MARTIN WALDRON sat on the porch, carved from a redwood stump in front of his California mountain lodge.

He was a recluse by his friends and other nature studies [illegible] Martin Waldron is a rather [illegible] naturalist.

This morning he was not studying flora or fauna. He was reading a letter that had come up from Les Posa with his weekly supplies.

The letter was [illegible] elder brother. [illegible] brother was a [illegible] and never [illegible] had lacked [illegible] will to [illegible] self as Martin [illegible]

"She left [illegible] Martin's [illegible] no one [illegible] them but [illegible] on the [illegible] working [illegible] herself. That makes Patsey [illegible] and I know that while I [illegible] to look [illegible] can't afford to do it. How about it, Understand? [illegible] make considerable profit from folks who like [illegible] reading books. I'll [illegible] pose you send [illegible] Patsey."

Martin stared [illegible] tops into flames. He was greatly disturbed. He realized that his brother was [illegible] just grub along [illegible] ing a bare existence. If his brother could [illegible] the boys [illegible] much. This Patsey might be a help to him [illegible] He could teach him [illegible] and many things.

Martin Annoyed

Martin was somewhat annoyed. His brother had neglected to write whether Patsey was a troublesome [illegible] six, or a youth of [illegible] It made a great deal of difference to Martin. He would pay for it, asking the age of Patsey.

His brother was [illegible] His reply was [illegible]

He worked so hard that for a week he forgot [illegible] boy. Patsey Barton who would soon be coming [illegible] with him. Martin Waldron suddenly discovered himself looking forward to the coming of Patsey—he had been lonesome and didn't know. He would enjoy finding out how much schooling the boy had managed to secure and then would get books and help him. It would be worth while if he could be the means of making a successful and worthwhile man out of a penniless orphan boy.

It was about the middle of the second week that Martin came down a ravine and up the slope to his lodge which was located beside a singing mountain stream. His camera contained many exposed plates that he knew would make corking good illustrations for his forthcoming book on Birds of the Sierras.

As he came around the ledge and across the rustic bridge he had built with his own hands he saw a boy just below fishing in the stream. He was a rather small boy.

Martin recognized his own very special and pet [illegible] in the boy's hands.

That meant that Patsey had come!

"Hi, there, Patsey!" Martin shouted.

fish with," thought Martin.

Boy Underfed

There was a glimpse of Patsey around a bend below.

Martin decided that the boy was underfed, not as large as he should be at 13. He'd soon fix that, if the boy was at all decent and grateful.

The youngster came around the lodge and across the little bridge.

Martin stared and then he stood up.

"I beg your pardon," he said, removing his hat. "I mistook you for a boy who is coming here."

Martin was staring at a girl. She had closely bobbed curly brown hair. She wore a boyish cap, gray flannel skirt and regulation knickers and hiking boots.

"I've been mistaken for a boy before," she said in a troubled voice, "but I'm afraid you can't be Mr. Martin Waldron."

"To the best of my knowledge I cannot be anyone else."

"But you said," she continued in evident distress, "Mr. Waldron is an old man."

"Who told you that?" I'll admit that I have tottered along through life for 34 years, but I'm not ready to go to a home for the feeble."

The girl couldn't see anything funny about it.

"And you were expecting a boy to come here to live?"

"Yes, Miss."

"A boy?"

Martin nodded, but he began to get uneasy.

The girl laid the pet fly down very gently. She came nearer to Martin.

"Don't tell me," she said, "that the name of the boy you expected is Patsey Barton."

"I'm sure I couldn't tell you anything else and be truthful."

The girl sat down on the end of the bench and started at Martin.

Her hazel eyes were wide and gave a hint of tears.

"Mr. Waldron," she said, "I [illegible]

Patsy Cries

Patsy was [illegible] of the [illegible] a [illegible] to [illegible] [illegible] a [illegible]

Annie [illegible] Miss Barton [illegible] [illegible] breakfast. I [illegible] [illegible] girl. We [illegible] [illegible] had this thing [illegible]

The girl frowned [illegible] the ledge.

"Jess here Miss Barton. How did you get here? I could have had you brought up horseback. I had been notified from Les Posa I suppose you changed [illegible] your fly and [illegible] up from the station."

The girl shook her head.

"I hiked and hitch-hiked from Wisconsin," she said.

"You hiked from Wisconsin?" Martin's tone indicated some doubt.

And hitch-hiked got rides in automobiles from tourists along the way. It was 2 o'clock this morning when a nice family dropped me off at Les Posa. They were going through to Mather. I had those gasoline road maps and knew that your place wasn't far. It must be 20 miles though."

And you walked from Les Posa?"

The girl seemed truthful but Martin had grave doubt.

There was no need for it. I sent funds to my brother sufficient money for your needs and some extra for a suit of clothes, thinking you were a boy. remember, don't tell me that my brother didn't give it to you."

Oh, you're brother is a lovely man, he's a sort of uncle you know, his wife is my real aunt. That makes us related, doesn't it?

Did my brother give you the money?" Martin asked.

Oh, yes, he gave me the money—but

I see you spent it for dresses [illegible] well girls."

I made your brother keep it. He's taken my brother Joe to care for and, and well your brother had a small note coming due and he was short—broke, so I decided I could take fifteen dollars for eats and hitch-hike out, and I did with a dollar and a half left over."

Girl's Admission

You gave my brother the money and hitch-hiked here?

Why, yes. I had to do something for him, he was so good, and my aunt, his wife, was so good to us when mother died.

Martin walked to the door and looked out. After several minutes he came back.

You wash up and get into some clean clothes, Miss Barton. You can go in my room there. I'll get breakfast, how about trout and bacon and biscuits?

But what can I do?" the girl cried.

He watched her do up the dishes. He watched her bake biscuits for supper and roast a chicken for dinner.

That night he slept in the storeroom and Patsey slept in his room.

They hadn't even discussed the question of what to do about the situation.

A week later they hadn't discussed it.

I'm 18 today," she said that morning.

Have you ever thought of marrying, Patsey?" Martin asked.

A great deal, often."

Would you marry me?"

I don't know why not. You see I never really thought very seriously about getting married until I met you."

Patsey Barton rode down to Les Posa with Martin. It was Mrs. Patricia Waldron who rode back with him.

The best thing I ever did in my life," he said, as they put up the horses and went into the lodge that night, was to tell my brother to send Patsey."

THE BUNGLE FAMILY

Oh, Oh! By Tuthill

FINDING THE HOT-DOG KING WHOSE DISAPPEARANCE CAUSED SO MUCH EXCITEMENT IN THE BUNGLE FAMILY, PRESENTED ANOTHER PROBLEM TO THE COLONEL WHEN HE TALKED WITH PONTOON BUNGLE IN THE HOME OF BROTHER LOUIS.
MY DEAR MAJOR WHAT A TREMENDOUS- WHAT A WONDERFUL RELIEF TO FIND YOU. ALL OF US - ME ESPECIALLY, WERE SO WORRIED.
BUT AHEM! I DON'T UNDERSTAND WHY YOU SEEM SO- WELL COOL ABOUT SOMETHING OR OTHER. YOU SPOKE OF NOODLES YOU ATE BEFORE YOU LEFT MY HOUSE AND—
AH, THOSE NOODLES! THEY NEARLY DID FOR ME! A HALF HOUR AFTER I GOT HERE TO VISIT DEAR LOUIS IT SEEMED AS THOUGH A BALL OF FIRE WAS GNAWING AT MY VITALS. OH TO THINK THAT A MAN OF MY ABILITY AND WEALTH SHOULD BE ASSASSINATED WITH NOODLES! AH, ME!
ASSASSINATED? AHEM! AH COLD NOODLES ACT ON THE DIGESTION PRETTY MUCH THE SAME AS COLD WATER DOES ON A CAT. ARE YOU SURE IT WAS THE NOODLES THAT CAUSED—?
POSITIVELY! I HAVE PROOF! YOUR SPLENDID BROTHER, LOUIS, THINKS IT WAS NOODLES. SO DOES HIS CHARMING WIFE, CLARYCE.
OH, I OWE SO MUCH TO LOUIS AND CLARYCE. THEY DROPPED EVERYTHING WHEN THOSE NOODLES STRUCK ME DOWN. AND FOUGHT NIGHT AND DAY TO NURSE ME BACK TO MY USUAL ROBUST HEALTH! OH THOSE NOODLES!

EARLY in the year of 1912 I won a battle with my conscience which had been raging since 1905.

"Frisby," I said to myself, "You are a man's man, broad of shoulder, keen of eye, strong of limbs — alert, fearless and very popular. If ever you can do anything to help others, and at the same time help yourself, I want you to promise me you will do it."

Folks, I promised that night. I made a pledge — standing there before the looking glass.

And if anyone happened to see Frisby slam the door and walk hastily down the street that night, they saw a Crusader, his jaw set, and his fist doubled. There was no doubt that he meant business.

I wandered around for some time and before I knew it I was in the midst of a scene I shall never forget. In fact—

Pittsburgh Mourns Death Of Alexander P. Moore

The career of the late Alexander P. Moore was of the kind that would be chosen by nine out of ten persons, had some fairy come to them early in life, laid before them a panorama of all the roads that lead to the future and told them they could have their choice of any one highway. Mr. Moore was a newspaper man. It is a strange thing that a great many young people wish to become journalists above almost any other profession.

To have lived through a span such as Mr. Moore had been privileged to enjoy is indeed worthy of admiration, if one's wish is to travel a course close to life and events. To have had a career from young manhood to fully ripened maturity, always so close to the very machinery of destiny's workings as to be able to touch, to have a hand in its operation, is something that comes to but few.

Throughout his life Alex Moore, as he was familiarly called in his home town, was more closely in touch with events than is the lot of most people. Taking up his work as a newspaper reporter, he became a political writer—more, a confidant of men in political power, an associate of those who controlled and shaped our local government. That facility of earning such friendships ultimately extended so that it included presidents.

His friendship with local political leaders is well known to an older generation and his acquaintanceship expanded when he went into the newspaper business as a proprietor, being owner and publisher of the old Pittsburgh Leader. It was while he was editor of that newspaper that his friendship with the late Theodore Roosevelt developed.

The latter years of his life had been devoted to the diplomatic service of his country and in affiliation with journalism in other cities. As a diplomat he had served with distinction as United States ambassador to Spain, as ambassador to Peru and as ambassador to Poland, although illness prevented him actively taking up the duties of the latter office.

Although a busy man he found time for social companionship and his home, during the life of his wife, the late Lillian Russell, frequently was the scene of friendly gatherings the memory of which is cherished by many who deeply regret the passing of Alex Moore.

Civically he earned a place in the annals of Pittsburgh by always having been a "booster" for this city and its institutions. He departed from our midst to become a national instead of a local figure, and right worthily did he measure up to the required dimensions.

A life indeed to be admired!

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

THE insects, not satisfied, fly to another buttercup for another meal looking again for nectar, they rub against one or more of the stigmas and leave a few of the precious yellow grains upon them—and thus the egg-cells are fertilized.

Most of the gaily colored flowers with which the reader is familiar work in the same way as the buttercup; their sepals, petals, nectaries, stamens, ovaries and stigmas can be readily identified.

H. G. Wells

The flower may be twisted up into a more or less elaborate shape, as in snapdragon or monkshood or columbine.

And the non-botanical reader may have trouble in finding the parts of daisies and dandelions, which are not single flowers at all but bunches of a great number of curiously made little flowers crowded together.

But with a hand lens even this mystery may be unraveled without serious difficulty. There are many ingenious modifications of the scheme; flowers may specialize, for example, in the attraction and utilization of particular kinds of insects.

In general, the colors and perfumes of flowers play the part of advertisements, the honey that of a fee, and the insects are busy go-betweens, stamens and stigmas, collecting a heavy bribe at both ends of their fertilizing journey.

But insects are by no means indispensable to the vegetable kingdom. It is just a way in which immobile plants have utilized the abundance and restless prevalence of arthropods.

Most of the flowers that attract casual notice are pollinated by insects for the very good reason that the petals and perfume that attract us are actually intended to draw the six-legged carriers, but there are other ways of securing pollination, and many plants could get on perfectly well if there were no insects at all in the world.

Grasses, for example, are pollinated by wind; their graceful effect are in reality clusters of small flowers, but they have no conspicuous petals or perfume, because the light, dry pollen is simply blown from plant to plant.

They have no use for insect powder. There are many other examples of wind-pollinated flowers, generally small and greenish or brownish in color because they need not attract attention.

The dangling catkins of hazel are clusters of tiny male flowers, that is to say, flowers containing stamens but no ovaries, and pollen is blown from these to the female flowers, containing ovaries but no stamens, which form bud-like clusters only distinguishable from ordinary hazel buds by the tiny brush of soft crimson stigmas with which they are tipped.

Moreover, water is used as a medium for this transfer by many of the plants that live therein.

In the Canadian water weed, to which we have already made reference, the male flowers break bodily away from the plants and float about on the surface of the pond until they come up against female flowers, when pollination can occur.

And here we may mention a curious and important point. The buttercup, we have seen, is provided with an elaborate apparatus of petals and nectaries so that insects may carry pollen from one flower to another.

Why should this be? Why should not the pollen from the stamens drop directly on to the stigmas, and so bring about fertilization without the bother of hiring an insect intermediary?

Throughout the plant and animal kingdoms we find a general preference, so to speak, for cross-fertilization; an avoidance of the union of eggs with male cells, spermatozoa or pollen, from the same individual.

In most animals and a few plants the individuals are sexed, either male or female, so that here there is no possibility of self-fertilization.

But in those animals such as snails and earthworms and liver-flukes, and in the great majority of plants, which are hermaphrodite (male and female in one) there are usually precautions to restrain self-fertilization; the male half of one individual seldom fertilizes its own female half, but is mated with the female half of another.

As a matter of fact there is no immediate physiological reason why self-fertilization should not occur. Indeed, in a number of plants it does. Primroses, and other flowers which open early in the spring before many insects are abroad, fall back on self-pollination if they have not been cross-pollinated.

Plan to End Cab Strike Promised by Sheriff

Following a conference in the office of Mayor Kline yesterday, Sheriff Robert S. Cain stated that an announcement proposing terms upon which the taxicab drivers' strike may be settled would be forthcoming within 48 hours of that time.

Neither the taxicab operators nor the strikers were represented at the meeting. Nevertheless the Mayor's reception of the movers in this peace action argues that he is at least passively interested in ending trouble which has been allowed to run along for far too long a time and which turned the streets of Pittsburgh into a battleground.

We are sorry that we cannot chronicle the fact that the Mayor took up this problem himself. Nevertheless all good citizens hope that the plan which Sheriff Cain is to propose will be one that will warrant public support, so that both sides can be told: "The public is tired of being the goat; there is a reasonable solution to your troubles; accept it and go to work."

Counterfeit Etchings

Drug Stores Selling Unauthentic Facsimiles.

A tremendous interest in etchings has been revived during the last few years. Etchings hang well in limited wall space of the average home. And because 75 or 100 prints can be pulled from the artist's plate it becomes possible for people of moderate means to own and cherish the authentic work of an artist.

Collectors frequently find their prints have become very valuable. A New York magistrate, with taste for etchings, is reported to have discovered that his collection of 20 years is now worth a million dollars. Taking advantage of the widespread interest in etchings, drug stores in some cities are now selling unauthentic facsimiles for $1 each. The public should realize that these trick prints are not etchings and have no speculative value. Charles L. Olfin, director of the Etchers' Guild, has therefore very properly issued a warning that collectors be on guard.

The drug store distribution plan has the merit of perhaps satisfying the yearnings of people who cannot afford etchings. It has the danger of flooding the country with counterfeits.

Drama of the Plains

Horses Being Killed Off to Feed Dogs.

When Spanish conquerors first came to this continent they brought horses which, once freed, became the forebears of herds of wild horses which still roam in western states. These horses are proud and fleet. But, alas! they are doomed to an ironic fate. Packers round them up and they are placed in tins and sent to feed hungry hordes in Central Europe.

It is natural enough for man to kill to feed man. But now it develops that the packers are killing off wild horses with terrible efficiency to use in the manufacture of prepared dog feed. Thus the meek, city-bred dog unknowingly consumes the wild horse from the plains.

This must be said for the dog: It was not his idea. And certainly no dog would conceive or execute such ungrateful business. The blame must rest upon that noble beast—man.

Romance

Leads to Injury of Locust.

If you are sentimental, here is a pathetic little love story that may arouse your tender sympathies:

In Berlin, some thoughtless human conceived the idea of broadcasting the mating call of a he locust. Everything was arranged. The radio was adjusted to its delicate responsibility. The male locust shouted its tiny yearning and—according to press reports—the wistful cry was so perfectly reproduced that a she locust, in the next room, awoke, took wing and flew straight into the loud speaker.

Raw, Raw, Raw

FOOTBALL coach advises everybody to eat raw meat. Yet there was quite an uproar 15 years ago when a visiting player bit a West Point cadet.

"Bugs" Baer started coughing up 79 or 80 buttons.

It happened in an illustrious scrimmage. Nobody knew the cadet had been bitten until his hungry antagonist started coughing up 79 or 80 buttons.

The pulling and tugging professor says that raw sirloins store up energy and resistance in such quantities that you have to use a boiler factory for a reserve tank.

We were present at a sociable little gathering when a champion did bite his manager's ear off. He had been double-crossed and that was his idea of a tick-tack-toe.

The lobe laid on the floor during the scuffle when a sporting writer got a bright idea. He figured the lobe could be stitched on again so he conserved it by placing it on a steam radiator.

That was the wrong thing to do until the doctor arrived. The ear fried very neatly.

Normal man is not carnivorous. He doesn't growl every time he sees a frankfurter hanging on the trellis. Ty Cobb used to chop up second and third basemen during his famous spiking slides but Ty never sent them back to the kitchen to be heated up.

A glass of blue milk and the waiter's thumb is not a balanced diet. We do not know what broccoli is but while waiting for the report of the investigating committee we will continue to eat it in preference to raw tendons and sinews.

The Chinese discovered the art of cooking when a big ham was baked in a burning telephone booth. The marvelous odor of the porcine barbeque spread through the Mongolian suburbs and the ancestral cafeteria service was thereby inaugurated.

The favorite dish of the wagon is raw hamburger and an onion between slices of bread. It seems to distribute immense energy to husky stevedores and wharf wallopers but we do not consider it necessary to piano and singing lessons.

This concoction is known as the cannibal sandwich and the aroma of barbarism is only dispelled by the civilizing influence of the enlightened cash register.

There are some hungry athletes who will tackle anything that can't bite back. Raw meat may be all right but when you cook ham and cabbage it's the odor of the cabbage that does the advertising.

HIS MILLIONS FOR BRASS TACKS

By Herbert Kaufman

MR. FORD, as is PROPER for a man likely to die possessed of more millions than anybody ever before accumulated, begins to consider to what BEST philanthropic use he can devote so much money.

Experience has taught him—and he has had slight instruction EXCEPT from experience—that folk headed in a definite mental direction are more apt to prove valuable to society and THEMSELVES than Jacks-of-all-thoughts-and-trades.

Mr. Ford is essentially a SINGLE-PURPOSED man. His processes are emphatically INTENSIVE; they incline to DEPTHS, rather than BREADTHS of view. He began life with a SPECIFIC last and is still tapping away at it.

The fact that circumstances didn't permit him to make an EXHAUSTIVE choice of careers, of course, had a LOT to do with his becoming a mechanic.

BUT even if he HAD been privileged to finance his curiosity into protracted academic adventures one may logically assume that his interest would have been focused upon EXACTITUDES rather than CONTEMPLATIONS.

Mr. Ford's inclinations are congenitally constructive, not CULTURAL. History, philosophy, empiricism and the dialectics of pure science do not stir his peculiar temperament. His imagination is not a star-gazer—Betelgeuse and the unscanned nebulae fail to engage his fancy.

He does not vibrate to the twang of Homer's lyre, and the sweet singers of the ages find him incurably TONE-DEAF.

The Mona Lisa, the Portland Vase, and the Morgan ceramics are no SOUL-MATES of HIS.

AND archaeology's chance of inheriting a single penny of his billion, is so REMOTE that Dr. Janes, himself, can't calculate the impossible fraction.

Mr. Ford is an entirely matter-of-fact person. By being practical and STAYING so, he managed to create one of the world's most important businesses and acquire one of history's most amazing fortunes.

And he accomplished this without recourse to ANY of the road maps or suggestions dearest to HIGHER EDUCATION'S heart.

Consequently, it isn't strange that his coming benefactions will take the form of HUGE BRASS-TACK-HAMMERS.

AS one of the country's principal employers of labor and intellect, he detects an arresting lack of concentrative capacity—i-dotting and t-crossing talent, and that respect for precision and detail which all the balance sheets, from Dan to Beersheba, lately and LOUDLY lament.

He has reached the conclusion that the worthiest cause to which he can delegate his means is the establishment of vocational schools, where boys and girls will be shaped for selective ends and trained to perform given tasks with technical skill and accuracy.

He perceives less and less opportunity for the TID-BITTERS and SMATTERERS whom our colleges are promiscuously dumping upon a civilization, long in rebellion at the expense of whittling so MANY square pegs to fit the round holes of departmented duty.

Industrial overhead can't afford to waste its precious substance to conform unfit university yields to its efficient specifications.

Mr. Ford wants MORE SPECIALISTS—and so does TOMORROW.

∴ LISTEN, WORLD! ∴

By Elsie Robinson

MARGARET has just made a terrible confession.

SHE SAYS SHE ISN'T LOYAL

This would surprise you if you knew Margaret, she's such a warm, generous youngster, always ready to help, with hosts of friends. You'd swear she'd go to the stake for anyone she loved.

"But the truth is," she mourns, "that I'm really living a lie. I do like people awfully . . . for a while. But I get fed up with them so soon! I can't help but feel their faults and all their small hypocrisies. I pretend to be blindly devoted to my friends, but I'm not. I guess I'm just a Judas. Isn't it terrible to be made like this?"

No, it isn't, Margaret. It's natural to be made like that. That's the way we all are made!

THERE NEVER YET WAS A HUMAN WHO DIDN'T HAVE A STREAK OF JUDAS SOMEWHERE IN HIS COSMOS.

Loyalty doesn't just happen.

It isn't something we have or haven't—like blonde hair or a talent for music. IT'S SOMETHING WE ACQUIRE.

We're not born loyal. We're born selfish, cowardly, greedy little animals—with our instincts all centered on ourselves—and we learn to be unselfish and brave and decent only by slow and laborious effort.

LOYALTY HAS TO BE BUILT, LIKE ALL OTHER CIVILIZED PRACTICES—BUILT DELIBERATELY—AND MAINTAINED THEREAFTER WITH PERSISTENT DETERMINATION.

Unless you're a sap or a fanatic, you'll probably never FEEL 100 per cent loyal to any one, however well beloved he or she may be. You'll always be secretly conscious of their foolishness and faults and, at frequent intervals, bored, disgusted, peeved or shocked.

BUT THOSE SECRET REACTIONS DO NOT PROVE THAT YOU ARE DISLOYAL — THEY MERELY PROVE THAT YOU KNOW YOUR ONIONS.

(And, personally, for my own comfort, I'd much prefer a friend who knew I was part onion to one who thought I was all tuberose.)

You can be loyal in spite of knowing onions. You need not shut your mind to your friend's fault but you can shut your heart. You can say—

"My friend may be a bit of a fool, but who am I to judge? I'm a bit of a fool myself so surely I should be able to forgive him. And love is worth the forgiving of much foolishness. Whatever his fault, I love him . . . and I'm going to stand by him!"

That's Loyalty. Not an unreasoning, unquestioning, outpouring of impulsive enthusiasm . . . BUT A DELIBERATE, CIVILIZED GESTURE OF FIDELITY, TOLERANCE AND AFFECTION.

Don't be worried if you aren't loyal—

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Feb. 18.—There are in New York's two great railroad terminals some 80 alert and trigger-minded clerks who answer the barrage of questions at information desks. They are rarely stumped, although 40 per cent of the queries are foolish and not concerned with travel.

The chief requisite of an information clerk is a deliberate calm. People usually approach him in a feverish rush and he is trained to slow them up by a studied, methodical attitude. Long experience has taught that any show of haste on the part of clerks is contagious among waiting information seekers.

Employes are intensively schooled for such jobs, and only those with exceptionally retentive memories are employed. The middle aged—between 40 and 60—are the most proficient, but the pay is small, and younger men seeking promotion to better things are used.

As in all things, one improves with experience. There is one wizard who can tell you without resorting to reference books the quickest way from New York to any city of more than 20,000 in America. Yet he tells me he cannot remember a telephone number more than a day.

Still another can reel off the names of first class hotels in every city of importance, here and abroad. Each one seems to have a flair for specialization in some particular line of questioning. Thus a man at Grand Central who knows the name of principal business streets in all cities.

The larger percentage of question askers are women and young men and it is estimated the daily average number of questions will be about 100,000. The most frequently asked questions naturally concern the arrival and departure of trains.

But such questions as these are asked: What is the best show in town? What restaurant serves corn bread? Where can one see Al Smith? What theater is Mayor Walker attending this evening? Where does Rudy Vallee live? How much should one tip a taxi driver? And where is the nearest speakeasy?

While snooping around the Grand Central information bureau last evening a mannishly dressed woman with a monocle and a wire-haired fox terrier swaggered up to inquire: "Where can I get this dog plucked?" She was told an address a few blocks away without the slightest hesitation.

The most unusual question I eavesdropped was asked by a very British old bean with an over-Niagara mustache who, with a hearty garrumph, wanted to know "if the west-bound trams served breakfast tea in the berths?"

* * *

"Show me a book reviewer," says a disappointed novelist, "and I'll show you an educated failure who never had an original idea!"

H. L. Mencken, for instance!

It is, doubtless, an old one, for I am a sucker for that sort. Anyway, a fellow—who will not get his name in this column so long as I'm running it—breezed in today to bet me a whole dollar I could not button up my vest in 15 seconds. I buttoned it in 15 seconds, but down instead of up. One always does it seems.

Also I'm going to stop pricing things on display in jewelry store windows. A pair of star sapphire cuff buttons caught my eye. I dropped in to inquire the price and was told they were $36,000. A block away I found I was still walking on tip toes.

A corner cop observed this morning: "Whenever I get tired out I always drop into a movie show and relapse."

From M. R., Cincinnati: "While passing through your old home town, Gallipolis, I inquired of a white-whiskered native whether he had lived there all his life. 'Not yit,' he replied."

We are all sharp as anything that way back home, answering city folks!

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

DOESN'T it make you feel better all day to meet the cheerful neighbor when you leave your door in the morning?

You may not know his name. You may not know in what house or apartment he lives. But you know the time of day he passes you on your way to work and you know he looks cheery.

It isn't his clothes—they may be plain and old-fashioned, but it's that kindly look and pleasant recognition you have seen him give so often.

Can't you give a little evidence of a sweet disposition by a sunny look and a sunny greeting and let discouraged humanity have something to store up?

Hope and courage grow with kindly contacts.

Why don't you try to make life easier for yourself as well as your associates by cultivating a cheerful spirit?
